Junior College Organization

With the opening of school in the fall and the beginning of the second year for the Junior College, most of the activities were completely re-organized. The student body, itself, was organized as a whole rather than as two classes. The president, Tom Case, and vice-president, Elizabeth Wall, were Sophomores; James Benson, secretary-treasurer, was a Freshman. To these three much responsibility was given. The president presided at all meetings, appointed committees with the advice of the faculty, and was generally responsible for the efficiency of the organization. The vice president acted as chairman of the Social Committee, which had charge of all parties. The secretary-treasurer, in addition to the regular duties of the office, was chairman of the committee which arranged the programs for convocations.

An effort has been made this year to make assemblies as interesting and varied as possible. Speeches, musicals, and occasional "Pep" meetings have broken the monotony of business sessions.

The program of extra-curricular activities was also made as complete as possible. College teams in football, basketball, tennis, and girls' basketball were organized. The work of the "Y's Co-Eds" and of the Dramatic and Debate Clubs was carried on.

While the student body was not large enough to support a paper, the college had representatives on the staffs of the high school publications, the Bumble "B" and the Scroll.

Junior College Football

Fourteen men answered the call for football candidates for the Boone Junior College first football team. What the squad lacked in number they more than made up in fight and determination. Only two or three men had had any previous experience and it was quite a task to compete in the first year of the Hawkeye Junior College Conference.

Four games were played. The first, with Estherville was lost 25-6, after holding the strong northern eleven to a 6-6 tie through three quarters of play.

The next game played with Fort Dodge was lost 27-0, the Boone team being out-weighted nearly twenty pounds to the man.

Webster City was next, the game being played in a blinding blizzard. Webster City put over a touch-down in the last few minutes to win 6-0.

The last game was with Northwestern College at Orange City. The locals finally found themselves, and pounded out a 19-0 victory to close the season. Captains Benson and Case, Cantlin, and Russell were the outstanding stars. Cantlin, (center), was chosen for a place on the All-Hawkeye Conference team.

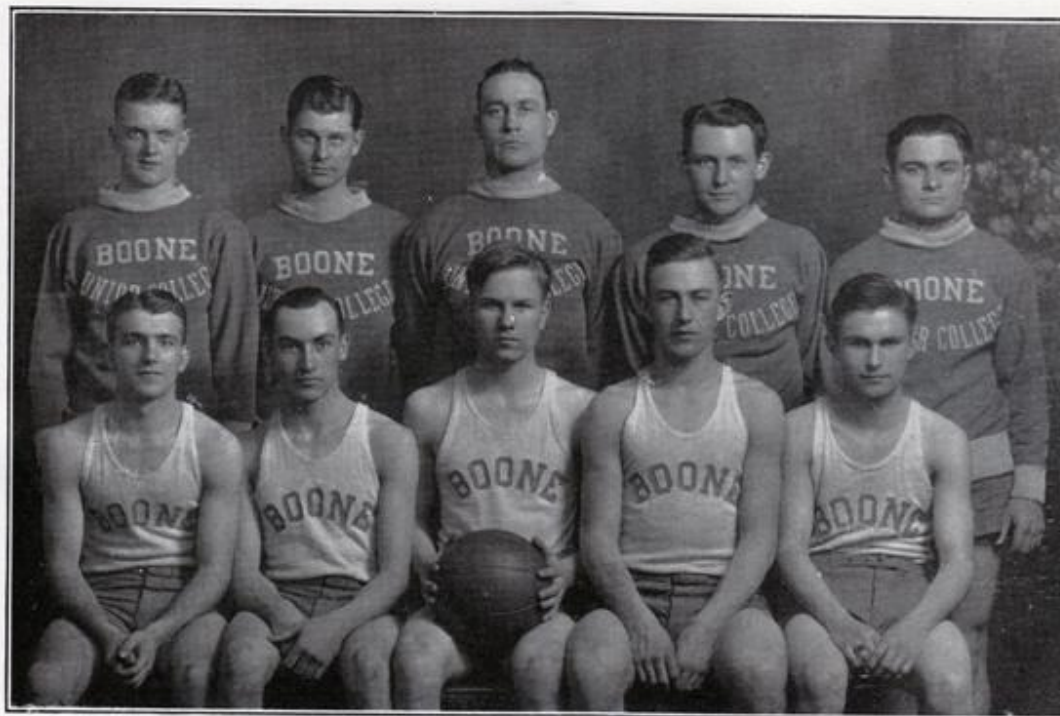

The following is a summary of the season:

Boone 29	Marshallton 17	Boone 20	Marshalltown 22
Boone 31	Fort Dodge 21	Boone 26	Fort Dodge 37
Boone 17	Webster City 15	Boone 22	Des Moines 12
Boone 24	Eagle Grove 33	Boone 32	Eagle Grove 29
Boone 17	Sheldon 31	Boone 19	Sheldon 40
Boone 32	Des Moines 11	Boone 16	Webster City 12

STATE TOURNAMENT

Junior College Basketball

The basketball team would have had a more successful season, and no doubt would have been higher in the percentage column, had not several stars been lost at the semester. However, the locals gave some wonderful exhibitions of basketball and a good account of themselves in every game.

The Boone team finished fourth in the Hawkeye Junior College Conference.

In the state Junior College tournament Boone was put out by Eagle Grove 13-12, after leading all the way.

Captain Case, Cantlin, Curry, Mustapha, Halliday, and Lair were the outstanding stars throughout the season.

COACH LARRY EVANS

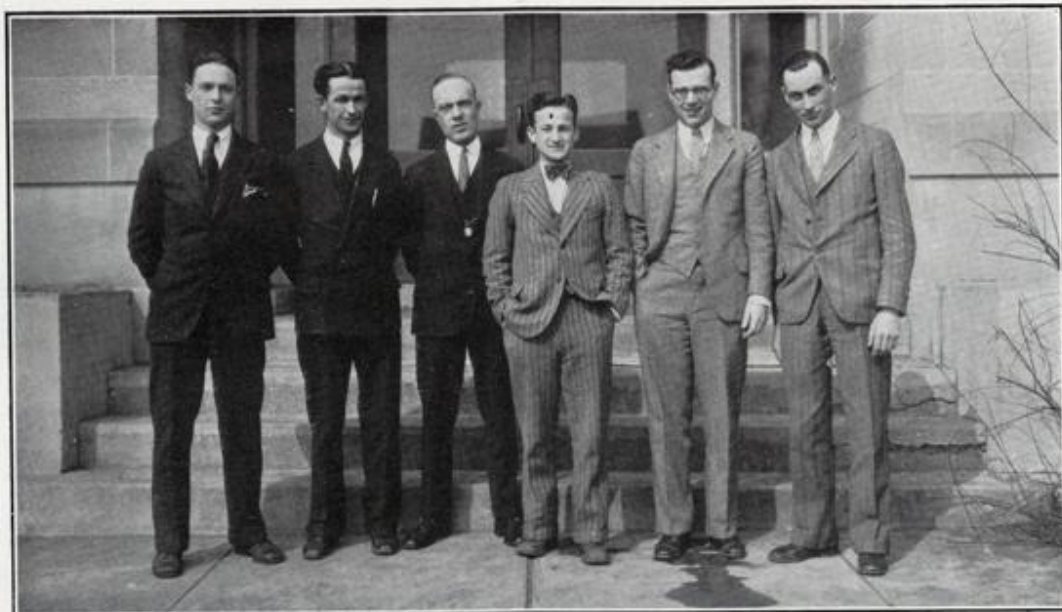

Larry started his college athletics at Des Moines University but finished his career at Lombard College. Reports from Lombard mention him as an outstanding linesman in football as well as a basketball and baseball star. In 1927 Larry coached the High School line in football and considerable credit is given him for the success of that

Schroeder Wheatcraft Lewis Sturtz Irwin Lair

Junior College Debate

The Season:

As soon as possible after school opened last fall, the debate squad was organized and study of the question, "Resolved: that a substitute for trial by jury should be established," was begun. A number of debates with other schools were scheduled, but when the Scroll went to press only a few of them had taken place.

The first debate, which took place at Eagle Grove, was on last year's question: "Resolved: that the United States should cease to protect by armed force American capital invested in foreign countries except after formal declaration of war." Boone was represented by Joseph Irwin and Marvin Sturtz, who upheld the negative, losing by a two to one decision. A short time later a return debate, also on last year's question, was held at Boone. At this time Boone's affirmative team, Edward Lair and William Schroeder, won a three to nothing decision.

The first debate on this year's question was held at Boone, April 8. The decision was awarded to Boone's negative team: Haemer Wheatcraft, William Schroeder, and Harry Lewis.

The Personnel:

Although Haemer Wheatcraft was inexperienced, he revealed himself as a logical thinker and efficient debater.

Marvin Sturtz has the ability to combine humor and argument, making his debating interesting as well as convincing.

As an experienced debater, William Schroeder has more than fulfilled his obligation to his school.

Edward Lair, another survivor of previous debate wars, has maintained his high record of achievement.

As a fluent speaker and rapid thinker, Harry Lewis has done much in the field of debate.

Joseph Irwin, with his fluency and knowledge of argumentation, has carried well his part in this year's debate.

"The Outsider"

The Junior College Play

"The Outsider," which was presented by the Junior College on the evening of December 19th, was doubtless the most difficult play ever attempted here and was produced with a degree of success which must have brought great satisfaction to the coach, Miss Hazel F. Cook, and to the members of the cast.

The plot is developed around Anton Ragatzy, who has invented a rack on which to stretch sufferers from orthopedic diseases. His success with many cases which had been given up by the surgeons has brought down upon him the attacks of the members of the Royal College of Surgery, who brand him as an outsider and a quack because he has no medical degree. His fighting spirit is thus aroused, and he succeeds in interesting the crippled daughter of the most distinguished of the surgeons to such an extent that she submits to his treatment. His near failure in her case is converted into success by his great love for Lalage who has come to love him.

Although the work of the cast as a whole merits praise, special mention should be made of Jean Heaps as Madame Klost, Harry Lewis as Dr. Sturdee, and Bernice Mansfield as Lalage. Joseph Irwin in the title role, gave an interpretation in which his own identity was completely submerged in the changing moods of Ragatzy. Such work can probably be best explained by the saying, "Genius is a capacity for hard work."

The cast of characters is as follows:

Mr. Frederick Ladd	Fellows of	James Benson
Sir Motague Tolly	the	Blaine Reid
Mr. Vincent Helmore	Royal College	Marvin Sturtz
Sir Nathan Israel	of Surgery	Edward Lair
Dr. Jasper Sturdee		Harry Lewis
Miss Lalage Sturdee		Bernice Mansfield
Madame Klost		Jean Heaps
Anton Ragatzy		Joseph Irwin
Pritchard		Jeanette Ross
Basil Owen		Clinton Sandeen

Y's Co-Eds

President	Lois Fey
Vice-President	Jean Heaps
Secretary	Ruby Robinson
Treasurer	Marian Pohl
Program	Beth Wissler
Social	Jeanette Ross
Publicity	Rosanna Leland
Service	Lucille Vontrees
Advisors	Miss Griffiths, Miss Ferguson

Although they organized late in the year, the Y's Co-Eds have succeeded in accomplishing much. For its main purpose, the club has tried to foster friendship and understanding among the girls, and to help them develop well-rounded personalities.

Since the first meeting, a Turkey Tea at Jean Heaps' home, craft work has occupied a major portion of the time. Under the direction of Miss Emma Anderson, the girls have learned to make plaques, lampshades, picture frames and other articles. Most of these meetings have been accompanied by covered dish suppers, taffy pulls, or fudge parties. One meeting was in the form of a Valentine dinner, to which each "Co-Ed" invited a boy. At other times the girls have had the privilege of being addressed by officers of the national Y. W. C. A. organization. This spring, the program will be rounded out by outdoor activities, such as hikes and picnics.

Junior College Girls' Basketball

Although organized for the first time late last fall, the Junior College girls' basketball team was quite successful. Only a few of the girls turned out regularly, but those few worked steadily.

Of the six regulars Ruby Robinson, a guard, and Selma Anderson, a forward, had gained valuable experience while playing in high school. Lois Fey, jumping center, Jean Heaps, running center, Marian Pohl, forward, and Jeanette Ross, guard, had less experience at the beginning of the year, but none of them lacked perseverance and pluck. By the end of the season, both the teamwork and the individual ability of the players had developed greatly.

As has been the custom in high school here, only intra-school games were played. Twice a week after school the girls met for practice games with high school class teams. An exhibition game with the Senior VI's was played between the halves of one of the boys' games.

In the tournament the Junior College won in the first round, defeating the Sophomore II's, 16-5. In the semi-finals they lost to the Senior VI's, the team which later won the tournament.

The regular members of the squad will be awarded monograms for their work.

Junior College Social Events

MIXER

The first social event of the year, the annual Mixer, was held in a blue-and-white decorated gym, October 4. Tom Case, president of the student body, welcomed the new students. On behalf of the Freshmen, James Benson responded with promises of good behavior during the coming year.

After a much enjoyed reading by Catherine Dornan, the girls were given several minutes in which to get acquainted with the boys present and to choose partners for the grand march. Next, the Freshmen were initiated, each Freshman performing a stunt for the benefit of the onlooking Sophomores. When Leaping Lena had successfully crossed the river, dogs had barked, donkeys brayed, and a solo or two had been sung, the "children" were rewarded with refreshments.

An impromptu dance, with Dayle Allen at the piano, ended the evening.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Gypsies, old fashioned lassies, witches, pirates, and brigands revelled in the gym, the evening of November 2. The motley group was divided into two teams, and a program of races and games was carried out. After the paper-bag relay, raisin race, standing glum, egg relay, and similar events, the winning team was presented with a bag of candy.

Hallowe'en trophies were awarded to Leona Myers and Bob Cantlin, whose costumes won the approval of the judges. The floor was then cleared so that those who wished might dance, while the others amused themselves by bobbing for apples and having their fortunes told.

CHRISTMAS DANCE

After the basketball game December 21, the collegians began the holiday season with a party to which they invited the visitors from Marshalltown. Partners for the grand march were found by matching Santa Claus dance programs. The evening was spent dancing around the large Christmas tree in the middle of the gym floor. A number of last year's students were guests at this party.

MR. STEBBINGS' PARTY

Mr. Stebbings won the hearty approval of his Chemistry and Mathematics classes when he invited them to a party at his home, October 21. The evening began with a series of exciting contests, directed by Mrs. Stebbings. Some of the guests played bridge, while others seemed to find more amusement in "Animal" and "I Doubt It." All of the students so greatly enjoyed the evening that they resolved to reward Mr. Stebbings by working harder.

Y'S CO-EDS' VALENTINE PARTY

On the evening of February 14 the Y's Co-Eds entertained their "Valentines" at a dinner at the Y. W. C. A. Catherine Dornan gave the boys a "hearty" welcome, to which William Schroeder responded. Between courses the time was occupied with a musical reading by Jane Halliday, and by singing to Irene Daniel's piano accompaniment.

The dinner was followed by a theatre party—for which the girls purchased the tickets!

Y'S CO-EDS' "TURKEY TEA"

In the latter part of November the Y's Co-Eds and their sponsors, Miss Griffiths and Miss Ferguson, entertained prospective members at a "Turkey Tea" at Jean Heaps' home. A short time was devoted to the business of organization. Chocolate, cookies, and conversation then helped the girls to pass the remainder of the afternoon pleasantly.

season. Only an experienced coach can realize and appreciate his efforts this year in organizing and coaching the first Junior College football team in Boone. With mostly green men to work with, he kept improving his team and ended the season with a well earned victory over Orange City Junior College. During the past two years Larry has had successful basketball seasons. Lack of material has been his main handicap, but even with this great handicap he has made himself an enviable reputation.
