

The State Tourney Begins Tomorrow

Best Teams In The State To Compete

MASON CITY

Mason City High School has defeated the crack teams of North-east Iowa, and is to be at Boone, According to "The Little Dodger" Mason City drops in some long shots and has a close defense. By the teams of that district that have been eliminated, Mason City may be considered to have "stars in her crown, when the sun goeth down."

Their tournament scores so far are:

Mason City	37	Clear Lake	12
Mason City	36	Greene	15
Mason City	27	Rudd	11
Mason City	?	Hampton	?
Mason City	14	W. Waterloo	13
Mason City	30	Reinbeck	21
Mason City	29	Dysart	19

Mason City's probable line-up and substitutions:

Coakman 6	F	Subs.	Grupp 4
Davis 5	F		Krtle 2
Lillard 12	C		Foster 10
Gruppen 1	G		Mason 9
Crofoot 7	G		Graham 3

COUNCIL BLUFFS

Abraham Lincoln High School, Council Bluffs, are title holders for Southwestern Iowa. They have eliminated all comers and will try their powers at Boone this week. Last year they took second place in the tournament and will have an advantage over the rest because of their knowledge of the floor. This year they have played seventeen scheduled games of which twelve resulted in their favor, giving them a total of 307 points to their opponents 227. In the tournament even a higher average was maintained, that of 172 points to their opponents 76. With such a record they can be expected to play stellar basket-ball. The season's schedule follows:

A. L. H. S.	28	Shenandoah	10
A. L. H. S.	16	Shelby	14
A. L. H. S.	21	So. Omaha	24
A. L. H. S.	18	Omaha Cen.	16
A. L. H. S.	15	Sioux City	20
A. L. H. S.	11	Fort Dodge	12
A. L. H. S.	17	Omaha Tech.	13
A. L. H. S.	22	Fort Dodge	8
A. L. H. S.	16	W. Waterloo	10
A. L. H. S.	14	Harlan	16
A. L. H. S.	18	Omaha Cen.	13
A. L. H. S.	27	Newton	17
A. L. H. S.	24	Omaha Tech.	9
A. L. H. S.	13	Creighton Preps.	4
A. L. H. S.	16	So. Omaha	10

District Tournament at Council Bluffs:

A. L. H. S.	26	Osceola	16
A. L. H. S.	16	Arispe	9
A. L. H. S.	22	V. Junction	12

Sub-district Tournament at Glenwood:

A. L. H. S.	36	Randolph	13
A. L. H. S.	34	Thurman	10
A. L. H. S.	22	Mo. Valley	12
A. L. H. S.	17	Glenwood	4

Probable line-up for State Tournament:

Walsh (c) 5	F	Subs.	Shepherd 1
Schneider 4	F		Pusly 10
Patrick 8	C		McGill 3
Mann 9	G		Turnlund 6
Michinick 2	G		Hatten 7

The aggregation is coached by Douglas Bragdon.

Tourney Tickets Are Still On Sale

The West side of the gymnasium only will be reserved to-morrow. The ends and East side are to be open to $1.50 tickets, while the balcony to $1.25 and single admission tickets. Single admissions are to be $1.00 and season reserves $2.00. The doors will open at 6:15 in the evening and at 9:15 in the morning. The tickets for the main floor which are white will be taken at the right door at the North end of the gymnasium. Here also will be admitted those holding reserve seat tickets. The holders of balcony tickets, blue in color, and general admission tickets will be admitted at the left door. So remember white to right and blue to the left at the North entrance.

The season tickets for the tournament are still on sale to-day and to-morrow so get them now and meet your friends at the game. Remember that the four best teams in the state will be here and you have a chance to see them in action. The games will probably be better than any played so far this season on our floor. You can save money by getting a season ticket, so get one before to-morrow night. See some good basket-ball and remember, we, the students of Boone High are hosts.

SIOUX CITY

Sioux City has won the title of the Northwestern District and comes to Boone one of the strongest contenders for the state title. They have defeated Abraham Lincoln twice and have had a very successful season, having been defeated only once, by Sioux Falls, S. D. During scheduled play and the sub-district meet they have scored 334 points to their opponents 174. Coan led the scoring with a total of 83 points (38 field goals), with Twogood a close second with 73 points. These fellows seem to have a wicked eye, and will need close watching.

In the Sub-District Tournament at Sioux City:

Sioux City	40	Ireton	4
Sioux City	40	Sargent Bluffs	20
Sioux City	26	Sloane	13

In the Spirit Lake District meet:

Sioux City	21	Fort Dodge	16
Sioux City	29	Nevada	20
Sioux City	22	Spirit Lake	19

The line-up for Sioux City:

Twogood (c) 6	F	Subs.	Varley 1
McBride 9	F		Siegel 10
Coan 3	C		Braverman 7
Spencer 8	G
Goodrich 2	G

Sioux City has two coaches, Greene and Martin, and their Principal is A. G. Heitman.

BOOST THE TOURNAMENT

B. H. S. Players Make a Big Hit

As we go to press the cast of "His Majesty Bunker Bean" are putting on the finishing touches of their play to be given March 18th. They have already had the pictures of the different scenes taken and are ready for the dress rehearsal so we know that they are a peppy, fore-handed bunch.

They tell us that Birchard Ashenfelter, who takes the part of Pops can now swear almost as fluently as some of the old timers, but more practice will make it more polished.

After Tuesday, Mareta Holmes, who takes the part of "The Flapper" will be nothing but a flapper, and the bashful ones will have to take a back seat. If Ralph Hewitt keeps on as he has been, he will be an honest-to-goodness chauffeur some day. Howard Sandell is already planning what his office will be like when he is big (?) enough to be a business man. Everybody in the cast is actually living his part including Ed. Torrey, who thinks he will get a job with the Giants this summer as a left handed pitcher. Bunker Bean alias James Clapp actually believes he was an Egyptian King once, and he is trying to find his mummy.

You have probably already heard Birchard Ashenfelter say something about—foot, doctor, etc., and Lizz-ann Tucker something about mussy. We know you all had a good time seeing the play.

FAIRFIELD

Fairfield High School sprang up as somewhat of a dark-horse, but having defeated such teams as Oskaloosa, Ft. Madison, and others, will represent the Southwestern District here. They have scored over 120 points to their opponents 60 so far in the tournament. If they can keep up the work they have shown thus far, they are likely to show some of their opponents from larger schools a few tricks.

The tournament season so far is recorded as follows:

Fairfield	21	Washington	11
Fairfield	12	Ottumwa	4
Fairfield	25	Olds	10
Fairfield	?	Mt. Pleasant	?
Fairfield	23	Ft. Madison	11
Fairfield	18	Oskaloosa	14
Fairfield	21	Davenport	10

Their probable line-up with subs gives:

Stanford 12	F	Russell 17
Turner 13	F	Baker 18
Holam 15	C	Johnson 1
Ball 11	G	Beatty 14
Lamson 19	G

CHECK ROOM FOR TOURNAMENT

The Hi-Y Club will have charge of the check room at the State Tournament. This idea was started at the sectional tournament and proved fairly successful. It saves the person from the bother of a coat and hat on the crowded bleachers, and no risk is taken of losing something from the pockets or having something stolen if hung around the gymnasium.

The charge is only ten cents and it may save you the cost of a new hat or the loss of valuables.

The coats will be checked in the lunch room and guarded throughout the session.

BOOST THE TOURNAMENT

Business Men To Stage Big Entertainment

Chamber of Commerce at Head

The Boone Service Clubs under the leadership of the Chamber of Commerce, plan to make the stay of the teams taking part in the state tournament, Thursday and Friday, very pleasant. Mr. Brunton, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will act as host for the two days, making his headquarters at the Holst hotel.

In an interview, Mr. Brunton stated that their plans included a big banquet to be given on Friday in the Elks' Club rooms. This banquet will be made one of the biggest things put over in Boone this year. Eppel's orchestra will furnish the music. At this banquet will be the visiting teams, their coaches, trainers, and anyone otherwise officially connected with the school or team. Visiting coaches from colleges and universities will be invited guests at this banquet. Representatives from all the Service Clubs, Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary, will be present to help Mr. Brunton put this affair over.

"REGISTER" CLIPPING

Boone is gaining state-wide publicity by being host to the Tournament. The following article was clipped from the Sunday Register:

Locally all plans are completed for the annual Iowa State High School Basket-ball Tournament to be held in this city on Thursday and Friday. Boone High entertained the tournament last year and it was an unqualified success, despite the worst blizzard of the year, which tied up traffic and marooned the players either in this city after the end of the tournament, or on the way home.

The winners of the district tournaments will come to this city for the round robin series. The first game will be played on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. On that evening there will be two games. The next set will be fought out on the floor of Boone High's big gymnasium on Friday forenoon at 9:30 o'clock. The finals are scheduled for Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. In case of a tie it will be played off Saturday evening in the local gymnasium.

The people of Boone are taking a keen interest in the plans for the state meet. On Friday noon the big banquet hall of the local Elks' Club will be thrown open for a banquet to the officials, visiting coaches, and players. The banquet will be tendered by the Service Clubs of the city. Other visitors who may have come to Boone with their teams for the tournament, may also participate by purchasing tickets. The hosts will be the Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis Club.

Coach Duke Williams has set aside two blocks of tickets for out of town visitors. These tickets are held at $2 each, this also covering the reserve charge.

Boone High has one of the best and biggest high school gymnasiums in the state. Last year the gymnasium was packed to the doors for the various games. The play was broadcast, as the games progressed, and it is planned to do so again this year.

BE A BOOSTER FOR THE TOURNAMENT

If anything is to be successful it surely must receive support, not supported by an organization, as an organization, but by each individual therein. To-morrow the State Basketball Tournament is to begin here in our gymnasium and of course it is absolutely necessary that it be a success from every angle. Much of its success lies within our power. If last year's tournament had not been a success, if we, the students of Boone High had not done our share to make it so, it would probably not be here again. But it was a success and now this year's tournament is here. Now it is up to each and every one of us to boost it so that we may have this opportunity again. One of the best ways to boost is to attend and another is to show courtesy to the visitors. So to-morrow and Friday let us be at the games and send the visitors home with a good word for Boone High and its students.

The Golden Rule says, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." How do you like to have other schools treat you when you go to back up the team when they play out of town? Do you like to be made fun of or jeered at? Do you like to be crowded out of a place to see the game? Or do you like to be welcomed with a pleasant word and smile and do you like to have them show you a place to see the game? These and many others may be asked of you when you follow the out of town games.

Here is where the Golden Rule applies. At the various sessions of the tournament you will be called upon to answer these questions in that you will do unto the visitors as you would have them do unto you. Show the visitors how you would like to be treated if you were visiting them.

You are expected then to be at the game and to be courteous to our visitors. Remember the tournament must be a success and it is up to you to help make it so.

Everybody jumps at conclusions, but is a bad practice. At least it was for the dog who jumped at a mule's tail. He jumped at a conclusion and he suffered the consequences. Maybe those who jump at a conclusion will not meet the fate of the dog, but it may be just as bad. Motto—don't be too ready to jump at a conclusion.

BUG HOUSE FABLE NO. 39

The pupils of Boone High are the neatest, most methodical group of young people in Iowa. They keep lockers and class room floors free from torn-up paper usually seen about a school. It is a tradition of Boone High that the building always is kept in first class A-1 order throughout the entire school year. Especially in the library and the reference shelves in the rear of the study hall is the systematic habit most noticeable. Whenever a magazine, paper, or book taken down it is always returned to its proper place thus leaving the chairs and tables clear for the next student. This has all been brought about by the pupils themselves in their pride and not by the nagging of the teachers. The study hall is a source of pride to the students. The floor scarcely needs sweeping because of the lack of paper on the floor. This room is the cleanest room in the building in this respect. All in all the school is noted for its utmost neatness. It is as William X. Fairbanks, the great movie actor, said during a visit, "The building is a sight to see!"

Following the Sub-District Tournament held at the various places on March 8th and 9th, the Bumble "B" sent out twenty-eight questionnaires to the winners of the respective districts for dope on the teams that were still eligible to attend the finals. Only fourteen of the questionnaires were returned and unfortunately two of the winners of the district tournaments were among those failing to return the required information, consequently the write-ups of the teams are not as complete as expected to be. However we are passing on what we did receive and are grateful to those who heeded our call.

The two page publicity of the Boone schools that was to appear in last Sunday's Register and Leader has been postponed until next Sunday, March 23rd. This write-up will contain news of the various grade schools and high school. The high school news was in charge of the Bumble "B" Staff and the grade schools in charge of the various principals, all under the direction of Supt. Wooten.

Lives of great men all remind us,
We can help if we but try,
In passing on we leave behind us,
Note books for the other guy.

HI-Y DOINGS

Fred Hanson Speaks at Banquet

The Hi-Y Club held a banquet at the "Y" club room Monday, February 18th. The dinner was served by a committee of the members of the club.

Mr. Fred Hanson, State Secretary from Des Moines was the main speaker of the evening. He gave a very interesting as well as structural talk on the "Right Attitude Toward Life." Mr. Latshaw, another Y. M. C. A. worker, gave a short talk while the dinner was cooking. The President, Sherman Crary, presided at the meeting.

The regular Tuesday night Hi-Y meeting was held at the "Y" Tuesday night, March 4th. There was a fairly good attendance, but better could be realized. It was announced that the two Bible study groups are tied so if you want to see your group win and be guests at the banquet, you had better come out to the next meeting.

The feature of the evening's program was a talk by C. C. Canfield. As is the custom he talked on the work in which he is most interested, namely "Merchandising." He showed that merchandising or trading was necessary even in the early Bible times. He finished by stating, that if any one wished to enter upon an honest work, he should first think of merchandising.

The regular Bible study meetings of the Hi-Y are held every other Tuesday night. Attend these, because your attendance may help your side win.

This issue was published by the boys on the staff and a committee of boys chosen to assist. The boys who helped are Dick Conn, Keith Cord, Kenneth Havens, James Lockard, Ben Wiley, Archie Pohl, Joseph Irwin, Howard Foes, Ronald Lamb, and Russell Madden.

H. T. COOK

ONE WEEK

Don Miguel Alvaro sauntered leisurely down the main street or thoroughfare of San Juan of the province of Tabasco, resplendent in his brilliant uniform and fancy badges. He curled his mustache and tried to appear both bored and interested in turn, and made a failure of each, while all eyes, at least of the señoritas, followed him. Ah! Many a heart did Don Miguel Alvaro break! At least in his own estimation.

At the hotel of the city, were two young foreigners, dressed in white suits with hats, shirts and shoes of the same color. They seemed very susceptible to the heat and one, especially, wore a wilted collar. The hotel-keeper, bartender, and bellhop of the place told the natives that they were gringos or "Americans" from the United States. These two young fellows were reclining in some make-shift chairs on the shady side of the street.

"This is an awful place to send a civilized man. Wow! Hot enough to melt marble," complained one. "Hope we can land the deal to-night." He was the one most affected by the heat.

"Can't help it, Bill. Someone had to take it, and besides, look at the trip we've had." The second speaker, already tanned, was less annoyed by the rays of the sun.

As they were conversing along came the Don with all his splendor, "Who in thunder is that perambulating haberdashery, Jack?" gasped "American" number one.

His friend cautioned him saying, "Not so loud! he is probably some big bug in this place, but don't yell so loud."

Later, by inquiring from their crafty landlord, they learned his identity and also discovered that he held some sort of a government position in Mexico City.

Toward evening an elderly Mexican approached and saluted them by "Bueno Naches, Senors."

The sunburned Bill spoke up sarcastically saying, "Ah! Guten Tag," and aside, "I can't sabb this gibberish anyhow!"

After the more civil Jack had answered the old man, the latter asked, "Are you the Senors Pierce and Johnson."

"Yes sir, I am Johnson, and this is Jack Pierce."

"Are you here in the interest of the American Lumber Company of Chicago?"

"Yes sir," this time Jack answered.

"I am Don Alvaro Obergon whom you were to see. Come and we shall talk."

So the three traveled across the city to the Obergon home. Here, after the usual Latin formalities they arrived at the subject of discussion.

Jack started by saying, "We are here to purchase the mahogany forest land lying south of town and desire to come to terms as soon as possible. If we can carry this through we are to secure promotions at home and so are in a hurry."

"I am desirous of selling to you but their is also another firm after the land. The Washington Fruit Company, through Don Miguel have made great inducements."

"We are here to talk business and buy the land," said Jack.

Prices were at last arrived at and after a time an agreement reached. The young men learned that they should have to take the papers of sale to Mexico City to receive certain signatures and federal stamps. The old gentleman stated that he would secure horses for their trip and an early start on the morrow. To this the agents agreed and prepared to leave. As a servant brought drinks he gave each a sharp stare that neither thought much of at the time. As they were leaving the old man warned them saying, "Friends, you have a long and dangerous trail ahead of you. Be careful Young Alvaro may attempt something rash to prevent your company's success so be doubly careful, God speed you."

Two days later the "Gringos" rode into El Hule, tired and dusty. The night was spent in the "Hotel Grande" a ramshackle affair of the usual Latin American rooming house type. After they had been asleep for a time, a group of horsemen were heard to ride up in front and dismount. A few minutes later footsteps were heard in the hall as the riders, presumably, clattered off to bed.

The next morning Bill came racing in from the stable where he had gone to see about the horses. He was shouting, "What's the matter here? My horse is dead!" Investigation showed that the horse had died of some poisoning. He tried to secure another mount in town but, for some reason or other, no one had one to sell at anything less than a young fortune. Later in the day he managed to purchase a raw-boned nag from an ancient native at an enormous amount. On the way out of town Jack noticed the servant of Senor Obergon watching them from the corner of the plaza. They were puzzled over this for sometime but could not decide why he should be in El Hule.

That day nothing broke the monotony of the journey through alternating jungle and desert. The night was spent in Teliucan, near midnight Bill was awakened by the opening of the door to their room. He sprang up at the entering figure shouting, "Who's there?" The figure of the intruder vanished and Jack was awakened. They discussed this for sometime and connected Obergon's servant with the intruder. The remainder of the night was spent in cat-naps. Jack discovered a long slender knife on the door the next morning and which he placed in his saddle bag.

They pushed ahead rapidly that day but although nothing occurred, they both had a feeling of being watched. The night was spent in a first class hotel in Pueblo and the following night was spent in Amercameca.

On the sixth day the young men left at dawn as they wished to reach Mexico City before nightfall. The trail lead through several sleepy villages where the strangers aroused considerably curiosity. At noon the trail passed through a narrow gulch, both sides of which were covered with a dense growth of bushes and trees. It was the hottest hour of the day and consequently the trail was deserted. As the two road into the gulch they were startled by yells from all sides. Horsemen and men on foot swooped down upon the two effectively cutting off an escape. Two shouts rang out and the "Gringos" horses dropped dead throwing their riders to the ground. Immediately they were pounced upon, tied and thrown helpless in the road. Bill was then searched by masked men in faded uniforms. Bill managed to loosen one hand and ripped off the mask, displaying the visage of Alvaro. In the latter's rage the young American received a sound thrashing which left him in a daze.

Jack was then searched and in a coat pocket, the Don discovered the desired papers of the Obergon estate. Here the searcher's face lighted up with joy. He yelled to his men and after a deep bow to the captives he and his ragged troop rode off.

Time passed and Bill regained consciousness. The two attempted to free themselves but to no avail, for the harder they struggled the tighter the bonds became. After another stretch of time the "Clap-er Clap" of approaching horses was heard from the back trail. A horseman rode up, dismounted at Jack's side and soon had that worthy free. Then moving to Bill, he released him. The boys discovered that their saviour was Obergon's man servant.

The servant spoke rapidly, "I am Juan, servant to Senor Obergon who sent me to see that you arrived at no harm."

This caused a wail from Bill, "That's all right, but the papers are gone now!"

"Don't fool yourself Bill," interrupted Jack, "Those were fakes. The real articles are in the lining of my coat. How can we get to the capital with no horses?"

Bill was overjoyed at Jack's cleverness and tried to dance with Juan. The latter conducted them to the next village where he secured mounts for the rest of the journey. He also accompanied them to Mexico City, where they arrived after dusk.

The following day the signatures were secured and stamps purchased which ratified the sale. Juan left soon for San Juan. As he left he heard Jack exclaim, "Now for home, Bill! Were going back to the good old U. S. Think what we've been through in the last week! We'll get home and be done with dudes and Dons."

—James Lockard.

AND THE CAT CAME BACK

Mary was a healthy little scamp. She roamed the woods all day, alone, or with her Uncle Harry, a big strapping man who could pick her up and carry her for miles if she got tired. But she didn't get tired. Not she. Cheerily she'd trudge along beside him, quiet as a mouse if he were hunting, or boisterous as only a healthy child can be if they were just out for a hike.

But at night, well she wasn't tired perhaps, but it was nice to crawl into her bed. Every night, as soon as she touched the pillow she would relax a little and then, "There, you forgot to put the cat out last night Harry. It's on Mary's bed again," would reach her ears, and it was morn'ing.

One day Mary and her uncle were out looking at some traps he had set. As they were coming home, Mary heard a noise behind them. It sounded like a man sneaking along after them. Her uncle laughed at her, but scouted around the bushes just to show her no one was there. When she was satisfied they went home to supper.

After a good supper which was topped off by some ice cream she started for bed, grabbing a hand full of pickles as she went. She crawled into bed and was asleep even quicker than usual.

Suddenly she felt a hand on her throat. Another, as hairy as the first, closed her mouth so she could not scream. But she was not the girl to give up that easily. She wrenched and jerked, but although her hands were not tied they seemed to be tangled up in her bed clothes so that she could not use them.

Gradually she felt herself dragged away, over-powered. She felt, rather than saw herself slipping over the edge of the opened window. Struggle as she would, she could not stop herself. Those awful, irresistible hairy hands pulled, dragged, forced her through that deathly window.

Suddenly she was released. Down, down she fell. Oh! What would they do to her. Crash! She hit the ground. With a supreme effort, she freed herself from those bed clothes and jumped to her feet. Running away, only a few feet from her went—a cat.

"Oh! That man," her mother exclaimed as she entered the room. "He left the cat in again—why, what's the matter Mary?"

—Wilder Canfield.

THE BUSY "B's"

JUNIOR BUSI-NESS

Popc—

Hey! Over this way. Yes! Five cents a piece. How many? Two? Four? Only have three, be back in a minute. Thank you.

What's all the cause for the excitement? Nothing more or less than the Juniors' selling popcorn! Hurrah for them! How much have they sold? Enough already to give the Seniors a lively time at the Junior-Senior Reception.

Yes sir, the Juniors have been actually working, they have in the treasury clear now, at the very smallest figure, $165. They expect to raise that sum considerably during the State Tournament, so even if you are not a Junior or Senior bring a nickel, two or three, for you'll get your money's worth. Don't forget!

The Junior class has several newcomers. Boyd McCarthy has again decided to see if the teachers will agree with him. We hope some sort of compromise will be reached.

Harry Ringland, from Tama, Iowa, has helped also to increase the size of our Junior class. Hope you'll like our school and better yet our Junior class.

The Junior class held a meeting, Tuesday after school in the assembly. The business of this meeting was to decide upon the best actor, musician, talker, and athlete. The winner of each group will be fortunate enough to have their likeness in the "24" Scroll.

SENIOR COMMITTEES APPOINTED

It begins to look like the beginning of the end, when the dignified Senior committees start to work. For the next two months you may expect to see much consultation and hobnobbing in the Senior class.

For the task of selecting the invitations a committee composed of Helen Douglass as chairman and Dan Wheeler, Jeanne Showers and Miss Crawford has been appointed.

A committee with Cecil Canady as chairman and consisting of Louise Shafer, Walter Dutton, and Miss Getty will see that the class play is presented.

The cap and gown committee as appointed consists of Lois Cobb as chairman, Archie Pohl, Maxine Morgan and Miss Garrett.

CIVICS SENATE TO BE ORGANIZED

The Civics classes are starting to organize a Civics-Senate. The purpose of this is to pass laws of government and administration as a study. They will attempt to pass laws such as those regulating immigration. The value of this Civics-Senate will be, first it gives the students a chance for debate; second, it gives the students more confidence in themselves, and lastly it will help them to put into practice the knowledge they have gained through the study of the textbook.

SPRING HOUSE CLEANING

Friday, March 14th, the Boyer Brothers whose business it is to establish a hospital for ailing books, appeared at Boone High. Three hundred and fifty-five volumes suffering from various complaints, torn backs, broken bindings, loose leaves, were carried to the lunch room where the work was done. Monday morning 355 volumes were already to be returned to the shelves. Strengthened in backs and sides with renewed resisting power they are waiting to wrestle with the groups of eager, knowledge-seeking students who storm the library shelves each day. Their backs are not invincible—so be gentle. The volumes which had new backs will be lettered by the Mechanical Drawing classes before they are returned to the library.

THE MUSIC MAKERS

What! Has Boone High an orchestra? Well I should say they have! Under the direction of Mrs. E. N. Mann, there are forty orchestra pupils come lugging their instruments, cornets, clarinets, trombones, saxophones, flutes, drums, and banjos. Of course the piano is already here. They can play any kind of music that is needed. Well some people may think we can't but just come to the State Tournament and find out, for we are learning all sorts. If you don't believe it invest a little money in a State Tournament ticket and come.

THE FEAST OF THE RED CORN

Characters:

Weeda Wanta, Queen of the Weeda Wantas
Impee Light Her younger sister
Wudgee, Fudgee, and Pudgee
Three children of the Queen
Old Squaw, the sorceress of the tribe

Scene:

A wooded glen, decorated with corn stalks and tassels.

Time:

The evening before and the day of the "Feast of the Red Corn."

Synopsis:

The finder of the first red ear may have her dearest wish granted by the Old Squaw, who invokes the Four Winds. This year however no wish will be granted because someone has committed a grievous offense. The guilty one, Impee Light is found out. She later saves the lives of the Queen's children thus appeasing the Four Winds. The Queen then asks the Old Squaw to again invoke a sign from the Four Winds which she does with success. The Queen finds the Red Ear and in answer to her expressed wish she sees a vision of her King who is alive and well and on the journey home. The feast is progressing gaily when the curtain falls. Every student of Boone High will find that this latest operetta is well worth the time.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

First we had Gypsies and now we have Indians! The operetta, "The Feast of the Red Corn," to be given by the Girls' "B" Glee Club will be staged Friday evening, April 11th. The cast includes eighty-four girls in the chorus and the principals. This operetta will feature American Indian music and will rival if not out class "The Gypsy Rover" in costuming and stage effects.

Harry Lewis the youthful musician has written two new songs which are taking the country by storm.

They are: "The Cellar's Locked and Daddy Carries the Key," a great "Blues" number; and "After Hearing Father Sing, One Can't Blame Baby for Crying," a great waltz.

Sophomores

"Swede" Anderson, with a new pair of "specs" hangs around the boys' cloak room. Perhaps the mirror is the big attraction.

Fred Noland wants to know if there is a Latin word for "nut." Maybe he is trying to put something over on "Bundy."

Wilfred Burke recently asked if a person living in Hamburg was a "Hamburger."

There was a meeting of the Sophomore III's in the lunch room, Thursday at the close of school, for the speaker, actor, musician, and athlete purpose of voting for the best in the class. The returns of the election will be announced in the Scroll.

Have you heard Richard Morrow's latest hit, "Chuckie, Chuckie"? Bundy also announces that his motorcycle will soon be working.

Clifford, the notorious "girl-kidder," wore half a vanity case on his nose and a pair of kid gloves to English the other day.

Freshmen

Harriett Lendit has been missing from school for about two or three weeks. It was found out on March 14th, that she has been ill and we don't know when to expect her back.

Le Roy Harris failed in Mathematics and has been reporting in room twenty-two for three nights to stay a half an hour.

English I book reports will not be given until the first Friday in April after the Spring vacation.

For their lesson in General Science, Jess Stonehocker and Harry Short were sent to see how the high school was heated and where they get the air.

A meeting of the II's and III's was called in the study hall after school Friday for the same purpose as that of Wednesday. This vote cancels that of the previous election.

"D" GOOZEBERRY BARREL

One time dey wuz a ole' man what had a lot of money, and he happened to think that he wuz goin' to die 'for long so he mize well enjoy it some way. So he tol' everybody far and wide, dat he wuz goin' have a contest and gif anyone $1,000 if dey could eat a half barrel of goozeberrys, wid out makin' a face. He thought di would be impossible and he'd enjoy it and still haf his money. Anyway La Vinsky thought he'd try. When he 'rived at his house he saw a lot o' people bendin' over a barrel makin' faces and a ole' white haired man laughin' till tears wuz a runnin' off his eyes.

"So," says La Vinsky, "As I walked over towards the man I stepped on an ole' can an ole' Browne hopped out and struck me over the ne' wid his krutch for smachin' his house. He heard a noiz and on seein' everybody makin' faces he thought he waz goin', ta deprive me o' sompin' everybody did so he waved his krutch and said, 'Till your next birthday you shall eat like a giant and never make a face like your fellow people'."

When I heard him say this I started in a laughin' cause my birthday was do next day, and he got so shocked he fell over dead 'fore he could change my sentence. Dis wuz my chance so I goes up and signs in and started in a eatin' and everybody seein' me, shut up and signed out. The ole' man looked 'stonished and for he come to, he decided I win.

ON BEING SHORT

If one should travel the United States he would most likely be impressed by the people he met. He would most likely see many short persons and many tall persons.

I have heard many people say, I'm glad I'm not short." Often times one hears these words when he is watching a parade from the sidewalk in some large city. Imagine yourself as being very short and attending a movie, some tall person is bound to come along and sit down in front of you and then you have the pleasure of looking on one side and then on the other side of him the rest of the evening. Or, picture yourself as being in a crowd of people on a busy day in some large city. The people are rushing past on each side of you and you have to be content with gazing at the sky and wondering who is going to be the next fellow to step on your feet or shove you where ever he desires to. But, on the other hand think of two men working in a coal mine, one being very tall and the other very short. The short man is digging away and moving very fast when he walks from one place to another, but the tall man is digging very slow and creeping around on his hands and knees about as fast as a snail moves.

After studying the problem of being short I have come to the conclusion that the tall person has no advantage over the short person and vice versa. —Guy Owen Campbell.

MASQUE AND BUSKIN MEET

The Masque and Buskin Dramatic Club held their regular meeting in room thirty-nine, fifth period, Thursday, March 6th.

Following the regular business meeting a one-act play "A Girl to Order" was presented by the following members of the club: William Schroeder, Helen Hill, Dick Canier, Willard Nelson, and Garland Hancock. The play was well presented and showed several problems of college students who were preparing for the visit of one's father.

The program committee have chosen the play "An Obstinate Family" for the next meeting.

The cast follows:
Mr. Harwood, father-in-law of Mrs. Harford
Everett Getty
Mrs. Harwood
Erma Goeppinger
Henry Harford
Carl Halliday
Jessie Harford
Charlotte Osgood
James (Harford's servant) John Jones
Lucy, servant
Helen Noland

Mary Merick insists that she was part of the elephant and was therefore ineligible to be the Spanish Dancer as was stated in the last issue. That honor goes to Marian Yerkes.

GIRLS! STOP! NOTICE

Girls did you ever stop to think of what the boys mean to you and to Boone High? Did you ever think of how you would be handicapped if you didn't didn't have the young shieks at your elbow all the time? You wouldn't have only to carry all of your books to and from class, but you would have to do all the reciting in class. Just try to imagine what you would do if there wasn't a John or Henry to say that they knew the proposition in "Solid" or knew what the efficiency of a pulley is.

Do you know that out of seven hundred and eighty-nine students in high school, three hundred and eighty-nine are boys, between four foot six and six foot four? Of one hundred and forty-one Seniors there are fifty-six boys, each ready and willing to take the sheepskin (if it is offered to him).

As to the various class officers, nine of them are boys. The Junior class seems to have used their heads best, having boys in all of the offices. The Senior and Freshmen I's are a little above the average with two of three offices held by boys. And say while we are talking about it, did you ever see a class prosper like our Junior class? A couple more basketball games and the class will be declaring dividends.

The best talkers (understand real talkers) are to be found among the boys. The winner of the oratorical section of the declamatory contest was a boy. Our great debaters and orators are boys (or men). Both the affirmative and negative debate teams are boys and they are real debaters too.

The boys have their Fridolf and Albert to win honors in the honor roll. The dramatic clubs are both headed by boys and the radio club is composed of boys. So young lady, be he big or small, rich or poor, if you are fortunate enough to have one, take good care of him or you may lose him.

OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE AT JEFFERSON

The Annual Tri-County Older Boys' Conference is to be held in Jefferson, April 12th and 13th, this year. It is to be sponsored by the Hi-Y Clubs of Jefferson, Ames, and Boone, and will be conducted somewhat the same as in previous years. A basketball tournament is being planned besides the discussions, talks, and feeds.

C. E. Ford, State Boys' Work Secretary, and W. H. Crawford, Boys' Work Secretary of Des Moines, will lead discussion groups. Fred M. Hanson, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Geo. W. Weber, General Secretary at Des Moines, and Rev. F. G. Codd, Pastor First Baptist Church at Carroll are to be the principal speakers. W. A. D. Parks, Social Secretary at Des Moines and W. H. Crawford will lead the singing. The meetings will be held in the First M. E. Church and the First Presbyterian Church.

The registrations will take place 11:30 Saturday morning, probably in the M. E. Church. Registration fee is $1.25. The number of delegates from the local Hi-Y Club is not yet known but it is expected that a large majority of the members will attend.

NOTICE!

In the last issue the Boone-Fort Dodge basket-ball scores were given 15-14 but it should have been 14-5 in favor of Boone.

DECLAM AT FT. DODGE

The Northwest District of the High School Declamatory Association of Iowa met at Fort Dodge, Friday, March 14th.

Boone entered one contestant Miss Pauline Quinn in the dramatic section with the selection "The Man and the Song."

Miss Quinn won first in her division at the sub-district contest held at Carroll, March 6th. Twelve schools were represented at Ft. Dodge. Four in each division. There was keen competition in this contest as it was the final elimination before the state contest in which only twelve contestants may participate.

Unfortunately Boone did not place in this contest losing to Humboldt in the dramatic division. Humboldt won first in the dramatic division, Rockwell City in the humorous, and Ft. Dodge in the oratorical.

About the middle of April, Boone will meet Ames and Newton in a contest in which Boone will enter three contestants.

B. H. S. PLAYERS MEET

On Monday, March 3rd, the B. H. S. Players met in room thirty-nine. After a short business discussion about Ticket sale and ushers for the coming play, the meeting was turned over to the program committee.

The one-act play, "Two Deaf Men" translated from the French, was presented with the following cast of characters:

Mr. Daniseau Sylvester Halleen
Eglantine, his daughter Mary Lou Peters

Placide, the hero Earl Canady
Boniface, the butler

The Gardener Marlowe Williams
The Policeman John Burnside

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTS NEW HEAD

The student council held a meeting Wednesday, March 13th, in room twenty-seven, to discuss the State Tournament. The new president was elected to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Mary Merrick. Betty Rhoads was elected to fill the vacancy. It was decided that the student council should take charge of the decorating of the gymnasium for the State Tournament. Clyde Paxton and Vera Forbes were appointed to superintend. Colors of the four teams will be arranged as the seats are reserved.

COACH PAGE ENTERTAINS WRESTLING SQUAD

On Wednesday, March 7th, Coach Leland Page was host to his wrestling squad of fourteen men of Boone High at a six-thirty dinner at his home, 309 South Marshall Street. Yellow jonquils and spring flowers were prettily arranged in the decorations. Mrs. Page was assisted by Mrs. D. Q. Williams.

After dinner the evening hours were passed with cards, Mah Jong, and radio. Coach Duke Williams of the high school faculty was a guest other than the men of the wrestling squad.

Boone Takes Second In Debate Tournament

Boone was represented in the Second Annual Drake Debate Tourney held in Des Moines last Friday and Saturday, March 14th and 15th. The team from here was made up of Lyle Quinn, Walter Lundberg, and Harry Lewis. They were accompanied by Miss Ashton, Coach, and Dan Wheeler, Alternate. The team went through to the finals where they lost to our old rival Marshalltown.

The tournament was run just as a tennis or basket-ball tournament. The teams drew to see who they would debate and which side they would uphold. Ten teams entered: North, East, West, and Roosevelt High of Des Moines, Abraham Lincoln High of Council Bluffs, Mount Ayr, Marshalltown, Newton, Ft. Dodge, and Boone. The first round was held Friday morning at ten o'clock. Ft. Dodge lost to Newton and West High lost to Council Bluffs. The second round took place that evening. In this round Boone won from Newton, North High beat Mount Ayr, Marshalltown defeated Roosevelt High, and Council Bluffs defeated East High. In this debate, the first for Boone, Miss Ashton drew the negative.

The next morning in the semi-finals Boone defeated North High and Marshalltown beat Council Bluffs. In this debate Boone upheld the affirmative side of the question.

Saturday night the finals were held. Boone drew the negative and lost to Marshalltown.

The debates were held at Drake University. In the first round two debates were held at the same time so two halls were needed. The Fort Dodge-Newton contest was held in the auditorium and the other took place in the Bible College building. The second round consisted of four contests also held simultaneously and so four halls were used. In this round Boone debated Newton in Athens Hall. In the semi-finals Boone defeated North High in the auditorium.

A fair sized audience attended these preliminary rounds. This audience was composed mostly of the backers of the various teams. At one of the Des Moines debates enthusiasm seemed to run high although the majority of the audience were not so noisy. The finals held in the auditorium attracted a good sized audience of the various eliminated teams, besides Boone, Marshalltown, and Des Moines people. At the close of this final contest Mr. Finch presented Marshalltown with the McCahill cup on behalf of the Alumni of Drake.

The question for debate was, resolved: That the United States should enter the World Court of the League of Nations at once. Our boys have worked long and hard and although they did not win first place they certainly did their best to put Boone on the map. During the debates the quality of their style was unexcelled. We should be proud to have such fine representatives in out-of-town contests.

Congratulations Marshalltown, but we'll beat you next time.

Among those visiting Des Moines to see Boone debate at Drake were: Mr. Wooten, Miss Rhodes, Miss Hansen, Fridolf Nelson, Birchard Ashenfelter, Addison McDonald, Edward Nelson, Eric Walsh, Francis Nelson, and James Lockard.

DE MOLAYS OBSERVE DEVOTIONAL DAY

The local De Molay Chapter observed Devotional Day, Sunday, March 16th, by attending the First Methodist Church in a body. About forty-five members were present being accompanied by "Dad" Cross. A very impressive sermon was delivered by Rev. F. W. Simpson, which especially applied to boys.

D. Canier: "Can you spell 'coffee' without a 'c' or an 'o', or an 'f', or an 'e'?"

Wilma H.: "Naw, can you?"

D. Canier: "How's this? K-a-u-g-h-p-h-y, kaughphy!"

MARY FICK WINS ESSAY CONTEST

Two or three weeks ago the students of the Boone schools were given a chance to display their literary ability in essay writing. The Safety First Essay Contest was carried out through the English classes and many essays were entered. In some classes the work was required. This contest was divided into three classes: High School, Grammar School, and Grade Schools.

In the High School section Mary Fick won first with her essay, "What Should be Done to Prevent Railway Crossing Accidents" and is entitled to the $10.00 prize. Vera Doran won in the second group and receives the $6.00 prize. In the lower group Eleanor Buzbey won the $3.00 prize with an essay on "Walking Along Tracks."

The prizes were awarded by the Safety Committee of the Iowa Division of the C. & N. W. R. R.

"DAD" ELLIOTT MEETING IS SUCCESSFUL

The high school auditorium was filled at the men's meeting Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock, March 16th. A. J. "Dad" Elliott, Secretary of National Committee of the Y. M. C. A. in charge of work in the colleges, was the speaker at the meeting.

His message which was for men, especially young men, was very effective due largely to the speaker's ability to grip and hold his audience. Everyone present seemed impressed and the meeting was very successful. The noticeable feature was the large crowd for so early an hour on Sunday morning.

The interest was due largely to the Inter-Sunday School Council made up of a member from each men's and young men's class. The classes sat in groups at the meeting, each section

Aside from the mass singing led by being marked in the class name. Mr. Moseley, the high school Boys' Glee Club sang "The Lost Chord." The meeting adjourned in time for the men to get to their respective churches.

NOTICE HI-Y-ETTES!

B. H. S. CLASS SUCCESSFUL WRESTLING SEASON

The second successful wrestling season was brought to a close by the state tournament at Ames, Friday and Saturday, February 22d and 23d. Here the Boone team scored 27 points and Marshalltown the nearest rival only scored 11.

Although only nine men were in the tourney at Ames, 12 were in matches during the season. Nutt participated in only two matches and Jones and Sinclair wrestled only in the meet at Ames. The Morris brothers, Harold and Ray, were in the race until the final meet when two of the others reduced down in their weight. Johnson took Nutt's place in the lowest weight after the second meet, Wilson, Standley, Fox, Erickson, Ewalt, and Yegge went through the whole season. Much credit is due every member of the team for his work for the school.

During the season only the stronger teams were met and as shown below every school on the Boone schedule placed in the meet at Ames. Marshalltown was the only team to defeat the B. H. S. team and this was evened up at the final meet. The season's schedule is as follows:

Boone.....18	Clarion.....13
Boone.....17½	Marshalltown...18½
Boone.....13½	Clarion.....9½
Boone.....23½	Ft. Dodge.....3½
Boone.....19½	Cherokee.....9½

Thus, my heart is filled with cheer.

For one whole week,
Or seven days,
I'll do just as I please,
I'll run and play
Or fly away,
And float past like a breeze.

But when the time
Draws near you'll find,
Me back in school once more;
To study books,
In hidden nooks,
As I did in days of yore.
—Jack Jones.

A Hit on the Girls

There was an old owl,
That lived in an oak,
The more he saw,
The less he spoke.
The less he spoke,
The more he heard,
Why can't girls be
Like that wise old bird?

Little Freshie: "Do cats go to heaven?"

Teacher: "No, why?"
Freshie: "Then where do the angels get their harp strings?"—Sun Dial.

"Let us depart for a short round of golf," said the first flea, as he climbed down off the bear's left fore leg.
"Golf?" said the second flea, "but where shall we play?"
"Oh, over on the lynx!"

A Freshman who hailed from near Creston, replied in this way to a question:

"I feel that I'm floored
As I hash for my board
And I'm seized with acute indigestion!"

I love to hear the rooster crow,
For he's like so many guys I know,
Who boast and brag, rant and shout,
And beat their manly breasts without

The first blame thing to rave about!

Swede A.: "Do you notice any change in me?"

Wilma H.: "No, why?"

Swede A.: "I just swallowed a nickle."

Three Chinese laundrymen they were,
Who toiled the livelong day
Till one broke down from overwork,
And went insane, they say.

His yellow brethren deemed it wise
To take him down the track,
And put him in a mad house
Until his wits came back.

A fast express roared by just then,
And through the trio cut;
That evening on the tracks were found
Two washers and a nut.

Dick D.: "Suppose a man was born in England, grew to manhood in Spain, married in France and was buried in Canada, what would he be?"

Marcella B.: "An Englishman, I suppose."

Dick D.: "He'd be dead."

Truman C.: "Can you play a piano Earl?"

Earl L.: "I don't know; I never tried."

Hard

Aunt Jane: "And where you live is the water hard or soft?"

Little Niece: "I guess it is hard, auntie, 'cause I spattered some on the lamp-chimney, and it broke it all to pieces."

The little boy in this story from "Touche a Tout" was evidently a firm believer in the old adage, "Of two evils choose the less." Turning a corner at full speed he collided with the minister.

"Where are you running to, my little man?" asked the minister, when he had regained his breath.

"Home!" panted the boy. "Ma's going to spank me."

"What!" gasped the astonished minister. "Are you eager to have your mother spank you that you run home so fast?"

"No," shouted the boy over his shoulder, as he resumed his homeward flight, "but if I don't get there before pa, he'll do it!"

An elderly gentleman rushed up to the conductor on a train.

"Is this my train?"

"No, sir. The company has its name on it."

"Well, I'm going to take it anyway."

"You'd better not, sir. There have been several trains missed here lately."

"Do you know how rats get in?"

"Naw."

"Uh-huh!"

THE USUAL THINGS

Monday, March 3rd, at 1:45 three bells called us to general assembly. Of course everybody was in a hurry to get to the assembly to know what was going to be the news. After a few minutes everyone was settled down and things grew quiet.

Mr. Umbreit introduced Mr. North who came from Parsons' College at Fairfield, Iowa. Mr. North began first by singing us a couple of songs which were, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," and "The Road to Mandalay," which everyone seemed to enjoy. He was accompanied by Mildred Myermann of Boone High.

Mr. Umbreit made some announcements about the State Tournament and the report cards and also about the pin contest, the assembly ended and everyone went to their sixth period classes.

The regular mid-week assembly was held Wednesday, March 12th at one o'clock. The winners in the local declamatory contest gave their selections. "The Man and the Song" was given by Pauline Quinn and "Naughty Zell" by Marguerite Clotfelter. De Lancy Silliman will give "Industrial Paradox" at a future assembly.
