Plans for Prom Take Shape

With the beginning of the second semester comes the thought of the forthcoming Junior-Senior Prom.

It is the job of the juniors to put on the traditional prom for the seniors. To handle the many problems brought on by such an undertaking, the Executive Board of the junior class was established.

The executive board, composed of the class president, Lloyd Courter; vice-president, Bill Hedlund; secretary, Maxine Sturtz; and the junior class homeroom presidents have been meeting before school with the faculty advisors to work out the various problems put before them. A way of obtaining better attendance at the annual prom is just one of these problems.

To get the thoughts and feelings of the students they represented, the executive board prepared a series of questionnaires which were given the juniors and seniors. The results of the questionnaires are as follows: the majority of juniors wanted to definitely sponsor a prom and 75 per cent of the voting juniors and seniors wanted to open the prom to any partner of a Boone High junior or senior attending. It was also voted that individual instead of class flowers would be the policy. The juniors voted to support the prom by junior class dues of $2.50. A fee of $1.00 will be charged for a partner other than a junior or senior of Boone High.

Seniors who have already paid their last year's junior class dues are invited to attend free of charge, with the exception of the dollar for outside partners, which must be paid by April 1.

Any senior who did not pay his dues last year must pay the full amount this year if he plans to attend. If in doubt whether or not you have paid, see Miss Hicks for records.

The junior class voted that girls should come in a formal dress and boys in either white dinner jackets or suits. However, there were so many votes cast for the affair's being semi-formal that any girl dressed informally will be admitted.

After tabulating and weighing heavily the results of these questionnaires, the executive board compiled these ideas of the students into a petition, which was turned in to the administration for their approval. The petition also contained the fact that the executive board itself would be responsible for carrying out the Boone activity policy at the prom.

The orchestra committee has already been organized, and includes Dick Longworth, Rosalie Gibbs, Janet Todd, and Marilyn Weimer.

The job of this committee is to write to various orchestras to find out whether or not they will be available May 2, and also what each one would charge for the evening.

The executive board has asked that all junior class dues be paid by March 1, so that the money can be budgeted. The dues may be paid to any member of the executive board, who are acting as the finance committee for the prom, or to Miss Hicks.

The Y.O.B. Club now has a new place for advertising. It is in the second window from the stairs by the principal's office. Watch for news concerning Y.O.B. there.

Pocahontas County Music Festival

Mr. Konrad Scholl and fourteen string members of the Boone High Orchestra went to Laurens, for the Pocahontas County Music Festival, Wednesday, February 6th. The members of the orchestra who made the trip were Carole Nelson, Janice Brown, Ruth McCall, Marjorie Pesek, Rosalie Gibbs, Merna Siders, Jean Kost, Janet Todd, Marilyn Hartman, Marlene McAlpine, Roma Achenbach, Tom Sandell, Mary Hutson, and Patricia Thompson.

The reason of the trip was the invitation of Mr. Scholl to be guest conductor of the massed band and orchestra. The members making the trip were also invited to play in the massed orchestra, which had forty members. The massed band from nine towns of Pocahontas county had 287 members.

Quill and Scroll Initiates 11

Phil Billings' voice boomed through the Bon Appetite with "Welcome to Quill and Scroll" for the eleven new members initiated at the banquet Tuesday evening, February 12.

The new members underwent an informal initiation Tuesday afternoon dressed as reporters. They donned press hats, wore a different shoe on each foot, bow ties, and carried candy, scrolls, and original headlines. Jay North's headline read, "School Hours Cut to Three Hours; Students Need Rest."

The banquet that evening was the highlight of the initiation for the new members. A chicken dinner was served in the party room of the Bon Appetite. The dill pickles for some reason made a big hit with some members. After everyone had eaten his fill the new and old members joined in singing a welcome song to each new member, at the end of which Phil Billings would sing out the famous chorus of the evening, "Welcome to Quill and Scroll."

On the more serious side was formal induction ceremony, conducted by president Joan Enquist and secretary Pat Peterson. The new members are Shirley Grant, Dick Longworth, Marilyn Weimer, JoAnn Morris, Martha Minson, Carole Nelson, Jay North, Myron Stolte, Bill Hedlund, Jim Brunner, and Marilyn Parisho. Pictures were taken of the 17 members of Quill and Scroll. The sponsors are Mrs. Taylor, Miss Pagel, and Miss Ealy.

'Y' NEWS

February, the Live-Y-ers met at 7:30 at the Y.W.C.A. for their regular meeting. For the program they had a 'special treat' with Phil Billings and Kenny Dodd giving their speeches for declamatory contest.

Wednesday, February 13, the Hi-Tri met at the Y.W.C.A. at 7:00. After the business meeting Miss Carol Nelson, sister of Miss Lou Celle Nelson, showed pictures of Miss Nelson's trip through Europe. She also gave two short humorous readings.

February 21, 1871, the District of Columbia was given territorial government, which lasted until 1874.

Faculty Star In Benefit

A recent affair at Boone High, which might be classified as the 'most outstanding event of the year' was the Faculty Assembly. Besides being a big success in entertainment, it also was a financial success, as they raised $227, all of which went to the Community Chest to help reach their quota for this year.

A full house waited for the show Friday afternoon, February 8, at 2:15. The first scene opened at the home of a very haughty landlady (Mrs. Williams) and her henpecked husband (Mr. Pinkham). The landlady, due to circumstances beyond her control, was going to have to rent out her rooms. But, she would only rent to those having talent. So the maid (Miss McCoy) straightened the house a little. An ad was put in the newspaper and, with the butler (Mr. Smoot) all ready, the auditions began.

Mr. Tillson, acting as Miss Tilly Jackson, started by playing the piano. Then the performers started to swarm in. Miss Long, Miss Swanson, Miss Thompson, Miss Hicks, and Mr. Gilbert, Mr. O'Toole, Mr. Bukoff, and Mr. Jones, dressed very effectively, did a backward dance.

Mrs. Henry sang a song and gave a poem, 'In the Usual Way.' Mr. Baird, known as Mr. Boogy Woogy, acted out his name at piano. Mr. Scholl appeared first with the bass viol, but because the landlady wanted something of a higher pitch, he played everything up to and including a twelve-inch violin.

"A new crooner is born," was the remark as Mr. Gilbert gave his rendition of 'And So to Sleep' and 'The Gypsy.' Mr. Kossives, who might well qualify for television, did some imitations, among them the famous 'Romeo and Juliet.' His response from the supposed Juliet came from Miss Simon in the balcony. A mixed quartet, consisting of the two Nelson sisters, Mr. Martindale, and Mr. Gilbert, presented their selections of 'You're Just in Love,' and 'Dance Me Loose.' Miss Ealy's orchestra, made up of Mr. Elslager, clarinet; Mr. Baldwin, cornet; Mr. Baird at the piano; Mr. Scholl, bass violin; Mr. Gilbert, cornet; Miss Pagel at the drums; and Miss Skilling playing the triangle, proved very popular.

After all the auditions, Mrs. Brunner, the household secretary, was to write the letters of acceptance to those that deserved it.

The second scene took place after everyone had moved in, and all joined in song together. The song was about Boone's Community Chest, written to the tune of the loyalty song.

The rousing applause, even after the 3:30 dismissal bell had rung, showed the appreciation of the audience for the stars' fine performance.

On February 27, 'The Literary Theater' will present a portion of the school play, 'Minick.' 'The Necklace,' another short play will also be given. Be sure to listen in March 5, at 7:00 when 'Your Hit Parade' will again be broadcast.

Mr. Baird especially requests the student body to tell him or any member of the Radio Club suggestions as to the kind of drama, music, and discussion they would like to hear on future programs.

F.N.C. Organized

The first meeting of the Future Nurses' Club was held in the home-making room February 6.

Officers elected are: Kathleen McCoy, president; Christine Poeschel, vice-president; Carol Miller, secretary; and Julie Doyle, treasurer. Pat Peterson was appointed publicity chairman.

Mrs. W. H. Longworth, representing the Boone County Medical Auxiliary, gave a preview of the activities and support in the F.N.C.

The programs are now being planned by the executive board. Field trips and guest speakers will be highlights of the club.

The club will meet once every month.

Eight Win in Speech Contest

In the preliminary state speech contest, held at Ogden High School February 14, the following boys and girls from Boone received a 'I' rating. Interpretive reading: Elaine Moore, reading 'The Creation' by Johnson. Radio speaking: Harriet Cameron, who gave 'Blood Donations'; Tom Sandell, with 'The Great Destroyer,' and Bob Carpenter, 'A Democracy in Fact or in Theory.'

Original oratory: Bonnie Carter, with the oration 'Battle Ground'. Oratorical: Everett Hickman, reading 'The Supreme Menace' by Dunbar. Dramatic: Kenneth Dodd, whose selection was 'A Cask of Amontillado' by Poe. Humorous: Phil Billings, who gave 'From Pillar to Post' by Allen. The others, who rated II's are: Interpretive reading: Patricia Brown, who read 'Evening Prayer' by Burr, and 'The First Snowfall' by Lowell; Loris Shadle, reading 'The Law of Death' by Hay. Extemporaneous speeches, which will be given by Mary Lou Fritch and Jim Monroe; and the one-act play, 'The Happy Journey' by Wilder, whose cast includes Carolyn Herman, Harriet Cameron, Conrad Faber, Everett Hickman, and Gracia Conard, were certified through to the pre-district contest because they had no competition in the preliminary contest.

The pre-district round will probably be held the first week in March.

Dorothy Gibson Featured Soloist

Because of the illness of many of the group, the concert of the Boone High School Symphony Orchestra, originally scheduled for last night, has been postponed to Tuesday, February 26. With Mr. Konrad Scholl directing, the group will play a balanced program of modern and classical numbers as a part of the 1,000 Club concert series.

Dorothy Gibson, pianist, is the only soloist, playing with the orchestra 'Concerto No. 1 in C Major' by Beethoven.

The program will open with 'The Moldau' by Smetana, a symphonic poem. The second number consists of two movements from 'Serenade for String Orchestra' by Tchaikowsky.

A feature of the program is Mr. Scholl's 'Prelude' which has been performed publicly before by the Ohio University Symphony, the Iowa Music Teachers Association Orchestra, the Cedar Rapids Symphony, and the Cornell College Symphony.

Other numbers on the program are 'Rosenkavalier Waltzes' by Strauss, 'Knightsbridge' by Coates, 'Savannah' by Barthleson, and 'Dance of the Comedians' from 'The Bartered Bride' by Smetana.

The Radio Club needs some male voices. Come on, you boys; check with Mr. Baird. There may be a role for you in some of those B.H.S. broadcasts. By the way, they're getting better all the time.

And then there's the long, long story about the poor young girls who have to go to work in the button department of the shirt factory and sew on and sew on . . .

A Trip on the Magic Carpet

Let's board the carpet for another trip through the halls of B.H.S. Here's Mrs. Stevens' room, and there's someone reading an article from the 'Reader's Digest.' Back to Mr. Johnson's room, where the students are busily writing out the answers to 'Newsweek' questions. Down by Mr. Baird's room, Oh! what's that odor? There it is; somebody's cutting up a crayfish. Speaking of odors, smell that one from the chemistry room. What's this the J.C. students said about rotten egg gas? Now to the library; what a bunch of daydreamers! There is one person studying over there in the corner, though. That's an interesting group of pictures outside the art room. Somebody's a real photographer. Mr. Baird has a different class now. They're taking a test. My what long names those muscles have! Let's buzz down by the gym while we're at it. Umm, a girls' badminton tournament. Let's just set the magic carpet down and watch awhile. We'll take another ride sometime soon.

Last Thursday the applied psychology class had a psycho-drama. The four students taking part in the play were Joan Duncan, Phyllis Pollard, Roger Orr, and Don Baker. There was no printed plot; the students spoke extemporaneously. The situation as presented by Mr. Martindale: a young girl and boy wanted to get married; they were going to visit the girl's parents, who had put up a stiff resistance before this time. Joan was the mother, and Roger the father. Phyllis was the girl, and Don the boy. In the discussion several good points on why the students should and should not get married were given. The conclusion was that they were in love! You know the result.

The educational psychology class visited Washington school last Friday. The J.C. students observed the girls and boys in the first and second grades while they read and worked their numbers.

The Boone J.C. will be host to the Junior College Speech Festival on April 1. The Junior College Music Festival will be at Webster City on April 22.

Radio speeches have been given in speech the past week. Some very good and original speeches have been given. A few of the best speeches might be taken to the speech festival.

One day in educational psychology the students saw the movie, 'Tips for Teachers.' After the movie questions were directed to Miss Pagel and Mr. Elslager. Some very good questions were asked and some very good answers were given. The question, 'Should men and women teachers receive equal pay?' caused quite a discussion.

Advice to the Lovelorn
FROM NELLIE NOLOVE

Do you have a problem? Are you feeling low and depressed, literally 'beat'? If so, Nellie Nolove (who has been an avid reader of Dorothy Dix and Elizabeth Woodard all her life) can help you. If she doesn't know anything about the subject—don't worry—she answers any way. So no one gets disappointed. Now for today's column.

Dear Nelly Nolove: My sister's best friend goes with my boy friend's cousin who really likes me, but because his girl friend is my sister's best friend and because he is my boy friend's cousin we do not know what to do. What would you suggest?

[Signed] Confused.
P. S.—I like my boy friend very much but I can't stand my boy friend's cousin.

Dear Confused: My advice is to do everything you can to break up your sister's best friend and your boy friend's cousin even though your sister won't speak to you for it and your boy friend, whom you are very fond of, will be so mad because you interfered with his poor cousin's life that he will quit you once and for all. This will leave a clear track for you and your ex-boy friend's cousin, whom you can't stand, and who will probably not be able to stand you after the dirty trick you played on his cousin, who used to be your boy friend.

[Signed] Nellie Nolove.
Dear Nellie: Maybe you could help me with a very serious problem. I have been engaged to a girl seven years and recently she keeps bringing up the subject of marriage. Is she hinting, or am I imagining it? I am afraid she will think me fresh if I ask her.

[Signed] Bashful.
Dear Bashful: I agree she would think you fresh if you asked her such a personal question and I also think you are definitely imagining things! No girl would think of hinting marriage to her fiancé. Besides you probably don't know the girl well enough to take any serious step. Just sit tight.

[Signed] Nellie Nolove.

The Terrible Typewriter

Maybe you've never met a typewriter. Here's to enlighten you. It's a small, complicated individual whose sole aim in life is to break fingernails, misspell words, and tear tempers to tatters.

An ordinary typing period begins with a sunny greeting from the instructor. First come finger exercises. Having always considered myself something of a muscular prodigy, I do this rather offhandedly. Then I place two sheets of paper in the machine, spin the cylinder knob, and settle back with an offensively toothy grin.

"First, girls and boys, we will have a short, warm-up period." Clackety, clack-clack-clack.

I stare at six neatly cut holes in the paper. Hmm-no tape. I get tape. I fix the tape, turn the cylinder slightly, smile cheerfully, and return to home position, flexing ink-covered fingers.

"We will now have a time test. One minute."

My typewriter clicks ominously as all the others start in a rattle of keys. Letters begin to pile together and jam against the paper, while I hit keys helplessly. I frantically try to undo the mess of tangled keys. Fifty-two seconds later they are untangled. The time-bell rings.

"Time?" asks the teacher. "Seven words a minute."

The smile is becoming set. The typewriter chuckles evilly as I concentrate on finger exercises.

"We will now type an inverted, modified, block-style business letter. Set your machines."

I press on the tabular key. Nothing happens. I press the space bar. Nothing happens. I throw the margin release lever. Nothing happens. I open all three at once, spin the cylinder, slam my fist on the keyboard and rise to my feet—the bell tinkles weakly. I kick the typewriter table against the wall and march from the room.

Boone Drops in C.I.C.

It was just an off night for the Boone High Toreadors as they fell before the quick hands of the Oskaloosa Indians Friday, February 15, by the slim margin of two points, 34 to 32.

The Toreadors couldn't seem to pot the ball as direct proof, the score clearly shows. It was Boone's center, Mike Huddleston, who led the losers with eight points, followed closely by John Musser who netted only seven points, a very low score for Boone's potential point-getter.

After all the Central Iowa Conference personal scores were tabulated, Musser placed fourth in the conference scoring, which was led by Oskaloosa's Crookham, who also led the Indians to victory against Boone with 12 points. Grinnell's Dick Ritter followed Crookham in the scoring column, and Jim Sinning from Marshalltown edged out Musser by a few points to take over third position.

Boone's loss left them with a season's record of four won, six lost, to share the cellar with Newton, who has a similar record.

Marshalltown won the C.I.C. crown with a seven-three record; Grinnell, last year's champs, Oskaloosa, and Ames recorded a five-five slate to divide second place honors.

The Boone-Oskey game was a close one all the way. The tight Toreador zone defense kept the Indians from under the basket, and they were forced to fire from 'way out.

As the Toreadors would move down court with the ball in a vain attempt to score, Oskaloosa's speedy Jerry Kichen would act as a one-man interrupting party and slip the ball from his opponents' grasp.

The Indians led Boone by six points with approximately one minute to play, and Jim Brunner scored a basket for the Toreadors to cut.

With 18 seconds remaining in the lead to four points.

game, Jim Cowhick scored from 'way out to bring Boone within two points of their challengers.

Sophs Win 45-37

The Boone High sophomores racked up their seventh win of the season by successfully defeating the sophomores from Oskaloosa, 45 to 37.

Em Dearborn led Boone with 15 points, followed by John Cooper with 14 markers. Boone's decisive win left them with only five losses out of 12 starts.

SPORTLIGHTS

That green trophy the girls netted at Ogden for our trophy case surely brightens up the case. Be sure to look while you're on the landing between first and second floor.

It seems there are quite a few things lost or forgotten in the girls' coat room after the games, especially boots and billfolds.

And speaking of the swimming team, we would like to offer congratulations to Coach Gordon Brookhart and his charges for a job well done. Winning two meets during the course of the season while losing five, the Toreador tankmen met some of the ruggedest squads in the state, including the state champion and one of the best in the nation, Roosevelt of Des Moines. However, they gave an excellent account of themselves in every meet they entered, whether they won or lost. In addition, they journeyed to Ames last Saturday to compete in the state meet, giving a good demonstration of their prowess in that engagement.

The many fans who crowded the local gym Tuesday, February 12, to see the annual 'B' Club cage festival were treated to the treat of witnessing the game of the century between the B.H.S. coaches and a 'mystery' team, the Bloomerettes, made up of local businessmen. Playing girls' rules, the coaches won, 16 to 15, paced by 'Chuck' Lovin's last-minute basket and 'Butch' Lewis' sensational long shot from behind the time stripe.

Boone fans were interested recently in the advent of Paul Stark, all-conference cager from Boone in 1950, into the Iowa-Michigan game, which Iowa won by a wide margin. In the short time he was in, Paul played fine ball, dribbling well and scoring an assist on one basket. It was the first Big Ten game that he has entered and it certainly will not be his last.

Latest word has it that Perry Spies was seen sloshing through the melting snow on the Boone golf course, in an attempt to get a head start on the rest of the golf team, which is scheduled to begin practice with the first nice weather after the close of the basketball season. Perry's iron shots are off and his putts are rimming the cup, as usual, but don't worry; by the end of the year he will be the new Iowa Junior Golf Champion (if not the National Junior Champ).

Tuesday, February 12, was a big day for the sports staff of the Bumble 'B'. On that day four of the five members of the staff were initiated into the Quill and Scroll. The four characters carrying around self-advertising signs Tuesday were Shirley Grant, the sports co-editor, and Bill Hedlund, Myron Stolte, and Dick Longworth.

Silence of the week: The pall that fell over the Boone crowd when Jay Vees lost to Boxholm, 60 to 58, in a double overtime after leading by 19 points at the half-time. What happened?

BEAT CEDAR FALLS

Cedar Falls and Ft. Dodge Last Games

The Boone High Toreadors will wind up their 1951-1952 schedule this month. They meet the Cedar Falls quintet Friday, February 22, at the Cedar Falls gym.

The following Friday, February 29, the locals face the strong Fort Dodge five, also an 'away-from-home' game.

The Toreadors will turn right around and face the Fort Dodge team the first part of the following week, the week of March 3, in the District Basketball tournament to try to gain a berth in the forthcoming state contest.

Tankmen Down Des Moines, East

The Boone High swimming team took their second meet of the year Wednesday, February 13, as they plunged to a 53 to 20 triumph over the East of Des Moines tankmen in the local pool. The outcome of the meet was never in doubt, as the Toreadors took eight out of nine events, losing the one event, diving, by only 7/10 of a point.

The eight swimmers who captured first places for Boone were John Petersen in the 40-yard freestyle, Tom Canfield in the breaststroke, Dean Stoneburner in the 200-yard freestyle, Gary Weston in the back stroke, Bill Otis in the 100-yard freestyle, Don Jaschke in the 120-yard individual medley, the 180-yard medley relay team of Weston, Canfield, and Denny Shaffer, and the 160-yard relay team of John Meyers, Stoneburner, Otis, and Petersen.

In defeating East the Toreador mermen stroked to their second victory of the current season as opposed to five defeats. The meet also finished the dual meet for Boone, as they have entered but one meet since then, the state meet last Saturday at Ames. Although their record is not seemingly impressive, they were up against some of the toughest competition in the state.

Winter track is getting a slow start in B.H.S. Starting with Willy Mondt around the first of the month, a few more boys have come around to work out with the barbells and other conditioning devices, with practice really starting in earnest this week.

Bob Hammond, the boy with a million jokes, and as many solid laughs, just wants his name in the paper.

Boone Stopped By Grinnell

The Toreadors lost their fifth C.I.C. contest on the Grinnell floor last Thursday evening, February 7, by a close score of 35-34.

The Boone offense slackened in the third quarter to allow the Tigers to tie the score and win a one-point thriller in the see-sawing final frame.

Led by Dick Ritter, the Tigers slowly came from behind to draw a tie with Boone in the conference standings. Ritter sank 18 points in the skirmish, to lead all scorers and regain second place individual scoring honors from John Musser, who was limited to a scant nine points.

John Seaton found his scoring eye, as he led the Red and Green in pointage with ten markers.

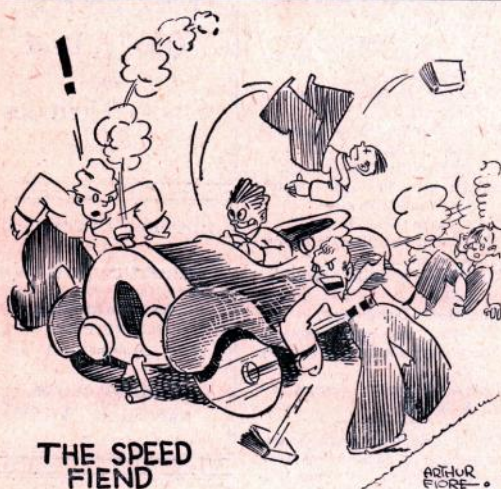

Both teams were extremely cold from the field, Boone hitting on only 22 per cent, and Grinnell accounting for only 20 per cent.

For the victorious hosts it was sweet revenge. The Toreadors had previously beaten the pre-season favorites in the Boone gym.

The girls' trampolining club climaxed a season of work with a half-time show at the Boone-Oskey game last Friday night. With several girls participating, the club, under the direction of Miss Shirley Long, demonstrated various tricks on the tramp.

The sophomore team has been making an amazing comeback recently in conference play. Losing more often than not at the beginning of the season, the sophs defeated Marshalltown and Perry in two consecutive games before losing a surprisingly close one to Ames, the loop leaders.

The pep band has worked up some new numbers to play at the games. It makes for a little variety.

The students of B.H.S. didn't know their teachers had so much talent! We would like to see more of it.

What's this we hear about Mrs. Markwalder keeping 52 students after school on February 6?

Why do so many ninth grade girls have headaches after gym? Could it be old age is creeping up on you since tumbling started?

K. Marie Brightwell, Leroy Dew, Jake De Voogd and Joyce Larson have started a new fad of walking on crutches.

Spring isn't here yet, but from the way certain couples look it must be around the corner.

Why does Margaret White like civies? Could it be Charlie J.?

Is S. Caywood after a certain boy or his convertible?

Congratulations to all the speech students.

Dennis S. has been seen walking with Susan J. a lot lately. What's this, Dennis?

One of the future Toreadorette guards will probably be Joan C.

Mrs. Williams sure did a swell job in writing the script for the faculty assembly.
