Don't Try to Pass a Bad Check

JUST BUZZIN'

Members of the Future Teachers Club enjoyed a demonstration by two kindergarten teachers, Miss Pearl Hawbaker, from Page, and Miss Ruth Hanson, from Garfield, on Tuesday, March 1, in the Little Theater.

Finger plays and games were demonstrated by the teachers. The future teachers joined in with Miss Hawbaker and Miss Hanson during the games. It was overheard that the girls really enjoyed themselves as they danced around the room like little Indians and also as they pretended they were snowmen.

Miss Hawbaker passed out typed sheets of finger plays and went through them with the group.

Miss Davitt, the club sponsor, and Miss Pagel, the girls' counselor, were present for the meeting.

Mr. McCarten, Mr. Abbott, and Mr. Hartley were the judges for the local F.F.A. speech contest held February 16. Winners in the four divisions were: Daryl Murken, public speaking; Art Roby, extemporaneous speaking; Dave Williams, soil and water management; and Wally Nelson, farm mechanics.

Captain O'Keefe from the W.A.C. recruiting office at Des Moines spoke to the Future Nurses' Club Thursday, March 3, in the Home-making room. Her topic was the armed forces' nurse and her qualifications. She also told the girls some of her experiences.

A short business meeting followed in which the forthcoming trip to Broadlawn General Hospital was discussed. The date is set for Wednesday, March 30. A fee of 50 cents will be charged for the bus trip.

Grinnell, Iowa., Feb. 25—Rosemary Humm, of 211 South Boone Street, Boone, was recently elected to the house council of her residence hall at Grinnell College for the second semester of this year.

Miss Humm, a sophomore at Grinnell, will serve as kitchenette chairman for her hall. She is a 1953 graduate of Boone High School.

The Rev. Edwin Frohardt was the speaker for the character education assembly March 1 in the auditorium. A brass sextette made up of Richard Conard, Richard Alber, Richard Harvey, Richard White, Frank Mesich, and Shirley Carter played 'O Salutaris.' Darrell Kruse was the student chairman for the day.

About 30 members of the Future Teachers Club enjoyed their first annual banquet Tuesday night, February 15, at the Bon Appetite. The two sponsors of the club, Miss Davitt and Miss Pagel, each were presented with a corsage by the president, La Vonne Groth, in appreciation of the help they have rendered.

Co-op and Juniors

There are many subjects and extra-curricular activities from which Boone High students may choose. Many of these are not always completely understood. A clear explanation of one of these in particular may be very helpful to some of you.

Many who aren't acquainted with its nature ask, "What is this Co-op that is spoken about so casually by some of the seniors? I wonder if I should be taking something like it?"

To understand just what Co-operative Business Training is, we must first determine the purpose and why this training is offered to the senior students of our school. The purpose of Business Training and Sales Program is to provide an opportunity for students to complete their high school business course under actual business conditions and to develop through experience, observation, and discussion those attitudes, traits, skills, and knowledges that are important to them as citizens of the community and as workers in business.

There are a few general policies that should be complied with in order that the program might operate smoothly. They are as follows:

(1) Final work arrangements are arrived at through mutual agreement of the trainee, employer, and co-ordinator. Any deviations from the original arrangements must be discussed in advance with the co-ordinator.

J.C. to Franklin In Future

Under consideration by the school board is the proposal to move the junior college to Franklin School. This was brought up at the school board meeting Monday night, February 14. It will be decided upon definitely at future board meetings.

If this plan is accepted, all the J.C. classes will be held in the grade school building except laboratory, chemistry, physics, and mechanical drawing. All that need be required for this new project would be some additional desks and chairs.

One of the reasons the school administration decided on changing the J.C. location is that the new addition to the school is just intended for classes such as shop, band, orchestra, and for the lunch room. The junior college enrollment is increasing as is the high school enrollment. Classes at present are crowded and will be more so in the future as the seventh grade enrollment is over 200 compared to the senior enrollment of 155. Some elementary grades are as high as 265.

Artists Take Treasure

Two senior girls and four junior high students were announced gold key winners in the recent scholastic art award contest. Receiving the awards were Betty Reed, opaque water color; Mary Steffy, opaque water color; Bill Herman, chalk; David Reynoldson, mixed media; Janice Bibbons, transparent water color; and Marilyn Miller, chalk color. Twenty-five students received honorable mention for their entries. Those were: Nancy Westfall, Barbara Mush, Lynn Anderson, Janice Rinehart, Jack Kelley, Karen Bulberson, Eddie Mondt, Leslie Selbu, John Coleman, Bob Clark, Emily Grabau, Glenda McCambridge, Lynn Hohenshell, James Diver, Alan Munson, Jim Moore, Sandra Southern, Kathryn Disney, Barbara Kralh, Coleen Duncan, Richard Dahlberg, Dorothy Olson, Betty Reed, Pauline Smalley, and Gary Grabau.

(2) The trainee must be punctual and regular in school attendance and on the job, and is expected to notify the employer if an absence becomes absolutely necessary.

(3) The trainee will be expected to attend weekly conference periods arranged with the coordinator during school hours and complete any assignments as requested by the coordinator. One school credit may be earned.

(4) It is hoped that the employer will complete reports every three weeks, and work co-operatively with the coordinator in developing the trainee's abilities.

All students who are enrolled in this experience type of learning and are taking the secretarial, clerical, or selling course in school are eligible to apply. They carry on this respective work for their school employer.

Miss Ealy, who is in charge of the Co-operative Business Training, says that there are 18 seniors taking part this year. The subject is in effect only in the last semester of the school year.

Quill and Scroll Accepts Tramps

Members of the junior and senior class have attracted another invitation. This time it was for those entering Quill and Scroll, national high school honorary journalistic society. Last Monday morning, March 7, they were obliged to dress up in old raincoats, covered with headlines cut from newspapers. Besides this, they wore old men's pants, overshoes, and an old hat with a press card stuck in its band. A pipe, a rolled up newspaper for a scroll, a feather for a quill and a painted-on mustache curled at the ends, completed the costume. The regular members were treated to candy and serenades in the halls to the tune of 'Sincerely,' the words being:

"Sincerely, oh, yes, sincerely, cause we love to so dearly. We promise to work. You know how hard we have worked to get into 'Quill and Scroll.' We've never faltered and we've always worked so hard to make our goal.

"Sincerely, oh, yes, sincerely, cause we love to so dearly. We promise to work."

That night they were presented at an informal initiation at the Lincoln Restaurant in Boone, and there they received their pins.

Those initiated were: Scroll staff, Rosalie Bullock, Darrell Kruse, Keith Smith, Wayland Swain, and Joyce Larson; advertising staff: Koreen Ballard, Elaine Blaess, and Shirley Crouse; and Bumble 'B': Romey Chance, Helen Clarke, and Mary Evans.

Photographers Further Fame

Four top awards worth $300 each, besides many other prizes, are being offered by the Photographic Illustrations Division of Eastman Kodak Company in this year's $5,000 photo contest for high school students. The contest closes March 31, 1955, and any prints will be eligible provided they reach headquarters by that date and were taken after April 15, 1954. Winners will be announced in May.

Judging will be done in four categories: school activities (including athletics and any pictures made for school publications), people (outside of school), pictorials, and animals and pets.

John Harrington and Laverne Bancroft are the only Boone photographers entered so far.

New Horizons For Writers

At the beginning of next school year, 1955-1956, a journalism course will be initiated as an elective for juniors and seniors. The purpose of this course is to survey journalism as a prospective career, and it will be a prerequisite for members of the Bumble 'B,' Scroll, and advertising staffs.

All phases of newspaper production will be introduced but the emphasis will be placed on writing. Most writing is done outside of class. The class is to be divided into units or tables with each table having its own leader and working at its own rate. It will be more or less similar to a regular reporting job.

Students wishing to enroll at the end of this school year are assumed to be good English students. By that it is meant that about a 'B' average must have been and be maintained. The course will be repeated each semester.

Future Farmers Feted

Approximately 50 persons were present at the annual parent-son banquet for F.F.A. members at the Christian Church on the evening of February 24. Two men were made honorary chapter farmers: Mr. Harlan Weeks, News-Republican reporter, and Les Buzzell, who presented the local chapter with a gift for their gift project. Invocations were given by the Rev. Arthur Robey.

After the speaker, Mr. Clarence Bundy, professor of agriculture education spoke, the members of the chapter presented Mr. Hove, advisor, with an official advisor's jacket.

Because Dick Dalberg moved from this city, Don Nystrom took over Dick's former office of reporter. Gary Low moved into Don's old office as sentinel.

At the first Boone County barrow show, two boys showed and received awards. Daryl Murken received first in pens of three and also with an individual pig, while Don Nystrom received third.

The Sportsmen's Club sponsored a wild game dinner Tuesday, February 22, which was enjoyed by Mr. Hove and the officers.

Eye on Etiquette

In accordance with a release from a high school press club, the Bumble 'B' is sponsoring a poll to uncover or recover, as the case may be, the interest and beliefs concerning certain social practices. On the following blank please state your answers and turn the paper in at the Bumble 'B' room, 220, between today, March 10, and Monday, March 17, 3:30. Results of our findings will be published in the next issue.

How old do you think a girl should be to:

1. Wear lipstick?
2. Wear other make-up?
3. Wear nylon stockings? High heels?
4. Wear strapless evening gowns?
5. Go out on dates?
6. Stay out after midnight?
7. Come home alone after a social affair?
8. Baby-sit
9. Vote?
10. Marry?

The Life of a Private Ear

My name is Sam Shovel. I'm a Private Ear. One night I was sitting home alone, believe it or not, when a strange sound reached me from the far side of the room. After much debate with myself, I was convinced it was the sound of the door bell. I arose with a strange, tingling feeling—something was going to happen—I could feel it. It did, I stumbled over the sofa. Cautiously, I proceeded toward the door to see what I could see. As I opened it, I found myself staring into both barrels (I have two eyes) of a double-barrel shotgun, revised home version, which means 'sawed off' to you. I distinctly heard three shots but after checking myself very carefully I realized my trigger-happy friend had missed hitting me. One of the bullets had ricocheted off the pipe I was smoking, and laid him out cold.

Exactly one hour and 15 seconds later, another sound reached one of my ears. (Had my head turned.) Someone wasn't using the doorbell. At that rate, knuckles would go out of style before long. Again I started toward the door and again, I stumbled over that blasted sofa. By this time I was getting pretty 'sore' at the thing. When I opened the door, lo and behold, there stood a juvenile delinquent. He had the goods on him. Whoops—It was the grocery boy. Oh, well, better luck next time.

About a half hour later the door-bell rang again. I was watching a good 'Dragnet' episode and wasn't at all happy about having to get up, especially after falling over the sofa for the third time. I made a silent promise to myself that I would never use that sofa again so I threw it out the window. Believe it or not, my visitor was Marilyn Monroe herself, with a pair of open-toed shoes on. I went downstairs and got the sofa. Marilyn had a case, so I reluctantly took her next door to my doctor friend, and he took it from there. I'm afraid it was measles.

Well, that closes another night of mystery and romance in the life of Sam Shovel. It wasn't a particularly exciting night, and Sam rests with the assurance that he may still live to see another day.

Where beauty is, there will be love.

Your Cheveux Is Showing

This is the Snooper with a tearful tale about girls, gals, and members of the female sex. These interesting phenomena are concerned with many things of rare importance such as lipstick shade, leather or suede, nylon or silk, coffee or milk, color of clothes, what kind of hose, and last but not least the hair styles. Shall we dwell a short while on the latter problem?

If you hear it said that your sister has a duck-tail, please don't take it literally. This merely means that she has a short hair cut, with a point remaining at the back of the neck. (At least, we hope that's what it meant.) Also enjoying a lengthy duration is the self-explainable poodle-cut. To be more explicit, in case you aren't acquainted with the nature of this style, it consists of an all-over curl which may be compared to the head of a French poodle.

The pony-tail is just that. Nothing more or nothing less. Just a typical, good old-fashioned pony tail. (Notice how the names remind you of the respective animals.)

The wind-blown type is very simple to create, as you can imagine, and the ever-popular shoulder length style may be seen on one out of every five teens. Another topper that deserves honorable mention is the boy-bob which, by the way, tends to be mighty confusing. It is usually cut very short and is shingled up the back. Bangs, a small amount of hair extending a little way down on the forehead, are sometimes included.

I hope these hints are appreciated by some of you boys especially, for now you may understand the difficulties your girl has in trying to decide between hair styles. Of course we know you'll give her just a few minutes more, now that you realize all the problems your favorite date has.

(P. S.—if you haven't guessed by now, CHEVEUX is French for hair.)

We should all be proud of the boys' basketball team for their fine showing throughout the season. They finished with a fine record and with a few breaks could have been a member of the sub-state field, at least. Our hats off to you, boys!

If Mrs. Stevens doesn't develop some good spellers out of her classes, it won't be her fault. It seems like a spell down is held in at least one class every day.

Beggar: "Have you a nickel for a cup of coffee?"

B.H.S. Student: "Oh, I'll manage somehow, thank you."

VOX POPULI

This week a few of Boone High's students and teachers were asked their opinion of the recent decision to move the junior college to the old Franklin school. This change is to be in effect next year. Here are some of their ideas:

Bill McCoy (a J.C. student): "I think it's a good idea since J.C. has been growing so much the last two years. I believe a building by itself will be necessary in the near future."

Don Schroeder (junior): "I think it's okay. They don't get in our way here, though. The biggest problem is the Bumble 'B' because the J.C.'s always get it before we do in library."

Mr. Shadle (teacher): "Eh!"
Gary Barry (senior): "I think it's a good idea; won't be so crowded here then."

Larry Williams (senior): "True, it won't be so crowded, but the junior college won't have things so convenient as in physics and gym. Although they can probably work that out. J.C. doesn't bother me."

Mr. Heyen (teacher): "Has its problems, but I think it is an excellent idea."

Pat Godfrey (senior): "It sure will be quiet without those noisy J.C.'s in the halls."

Caryl Achenback (junior): "I think it's a swell idea. More room for them, and us, too."

Richard McCoy (junior): "I don't think so much of the idea because when they moved the grade school children out, they said it wasn't fit to be occupied. It will make it less crowded here, but inconvenient for the J.C. students."

Well, there are some of the views.

Toreadors End Season

Ending the season with an impressive 12-5 win-loss record the Boone Toreadors placed third in the C.I.C. Conference, being topped only by Marshalltown and Ames, first and second place winners of the conference, respectively.

The first game of the season, the Toreadors emerged triumphant over the Polar Bears of North Des Moines. Grinnell, always a rugged C.I.C. contender, broke Boone's winning streak by defeating them 59 to 49. Boone had previously beaten North, Nevada, Carroll, and Webster City. Oskaloosa was next on the list and Boone rolled over the Indians 75-40. Another victory was in sight as the Eagle Grove crew bowed to the Toreadors, 91-67. Traditional rival Ames handed Boone its second C.I.C. defeat by downing it on the Little Cyclones' court 70-59.

Perhaps the most exciting game of the season was the Boone-Marshalltown bout. Upon entering the game, the Toreadors were rated as the underdogs, but the outcome of the game recognized the Toreadors as one of the top teams in central Iowa.

After the Marshalltown game, the Toreadors remained on the winning road, by defeating Newton and Perry, until Oskaloosa and Ames loomed up in their path. Oskaloosa, playing on its small gym floor, downed the Boone five by a 10-point margin, 78-68.

Once again the Little Cyclones proved too much for the locals as they sailed past Boone 74-57. Marshalltown, with revenge on its mind, made its wishful thinking come true as it squeaked by the Toreadors 63-62 in the 15th game of the season. Boone again got that winning spark as it edged out Grinnell and Newton 79-67 and 81-71 respectively only to be subdued by Ames, 78-54 in the first games of the district tournament.

Is there really a 'thief' in Mr. Gillespie's fourth hour biology class? There was one reported the other day, but it is still a mystery as to who the 'guilty' person was.

Maybe Next Year

On Wednesday, February 23, the Boone High Toreadors lost their first and final chance for state competition by losing to Ames 54 to 78. Although Ames had beaten Boone twice in regular play, a spark of winning was in the Toreadors.

The Ames six-foot five-inch center, John Krochieski, was matched against Denny Collis almost all of the first quarter. Due to an injury to Collis in the last minute, switching was needed to fill the vacancy. At the end of the period the score stood at a 10-12 lead for Ames.

During the second quarter of play the scoring went much the same, although the C's were getting more than their share of the rebounds. A 32 to 24 lead at the half for Ames showed that the Boone five would have to pick up in order to win.

Third quarter play started with the Little Cyclones putting in some reserve power. A 20-point advantage was a great factor in the last minutes.

Coach Gillespie put in his all-reserve unit for the fourth and final quarter. The Ames reserves proved too much and the final score ended at a 54-78 loss for the Toreadors.

Webster City Wins

The ninth grade Matadors were swamped by Webster City February 26. The game was played on the victor's home floor. The starting lineup for Boone was: forwards, Jerry Lind and Dale Elsberry; center, Dick White; and guards, Carl Von Krog and 'Buzz' Lee. The high scorers for Boone were Dick White and Dick Gilliam, each with eight points. The high scorers for Webster City were Cornmaney with 17 points and Ptaek with 21 points. The score at half time was 20-21, Webster City's favor, and at the close, 39-51, Webster City's favor.

On Saturday, February 26, the Boone eighth grade Matadors were defeated 33-23 by Webster City. The game was played on the victor's home court. High scorers for Boone were Bill Monen and Carroll Claybaugh, both with six points. Leading scorer for Webster City was Thompson with 10 points. The starting lineup for the Matadors was: guards, Bill Monen and Steven Shaler; center, Bob Runyan; and forwards, Bill Barquist and Carroll Claybaugh. The Matadors played their last game against Lincoln of Des Moines Saturday, March 5.

For the Matadors' last game they won a thrilling 32-26 win over Lincoln of Des Moines.

For Boone's starting lineup there was Dick White, Jack Longmade, Dick Hamilton, Jerry Lind, and Bob Erickson.

'Buzz' Lee was high scorer with 10 points.
