Council, Mayor Selected

Dave Dearing and Mervin Eastberg are the two candidates for mayor of Boone on Student Government Day.

These two candidates were selected by the senior problems classes and were voted on today by all senior high students.

Today the juniors, seniors, and sophomores each selected two council members from their respective classes. The senior candidates are: Joanne Jacobi, 'Chuck' Musser, Betsy Otto, Marilyn Pesek, and 'Chuck' Westberg. The junior candidates are: Paul King, Jerry Lind, John McGee, Bob Musser, and David Sebring; and the sophomore candidates are: Larry Firnhaber, Brian Knezevich, Ben Pollard, Glenn Ohlmann, Denny Ferry, Deloris Hampton, and Steve Shaler.

Next Monday the newly elected mayor and the council will meet to appoint a number of other city officials. The following officials will be appointed: city clerk, city attorney, city treasurer, city engineer, superintendent of public works, city assessor, police chief, fire chief, building inspector, health officer, sanitarian, city nurse, airport commissioner, park commissioner, and library commissioner. Each council member will also be appointed to a standing committee.

Wednesday, May 8, will be Student Government Day. During the morning, each elected and appointed official will meet with the city officials whose place he is to be taking for that day. In the afternoon a mock council meeting will be held.

Seniors Visit Woodward

Senior problems classes made field trips to Woodward State Mental Hospital on April 24 and 29. The first order of business was a discussion of the patients and the function of the institution which was held in the school gym by the heads of the different departments of the hospital.

Students were then taken to Pine Hurst, a home for boys, where the guide pointed out the different types of mentally defective individuals. The group also saw displays of the crafts which were made by the patients to sell, and a nursery school, taught by volunteers, in session. They observed young girls working in the kitchen and doing other jobs to prepare them for life outside the institution. Chaperones for the groups were Mr. McLeran, Miss Holmquist, and Mr. Roloff.

Senior Picnic Being Planned

Plans are now underway for the senior class picnic to be held May 15, following the Class Day program presented in the morning. The picnic, to be held at Ledges State Park, will start at 1:30 and will last until approximately 3:30.

Members of the class picnic planning committee under the direction of Miss Linderblood are: Caroline Stephenson, Marilyn Pesek, Denny Hora, Larry Jackson, and Betsy Otto. The students will eat at approximately 2 p.m. The food served will be wieners and buns, baked

Columnist Answers Teen Problems

Ann Landers, author of the syndicated column 'Your Problems,' was interviewed by 30 high school students when she visited Des Moines recently.

Ann Landers, who is in private life Mrs. Jules Lederer of Chicago, began writing this column only 17 months ago and already it is syndicated in 108 newspapers all over the country. She receives about 6,000 letters a month; and with the help of three secretaries, answers each one with a return address.

Of these 6,000 letters 25% are sent by teen-agers, and the majority of this 25% are girls. The letters she receives from boys deal mainly with the use of the family car.

Those who attended the press conference were able to get a good idea of Miss Landers' views on topics relating to teen-agers.

Miss Landers has a 17-year-old daughter, and therefore feels that she can see a problem from the attitude of the mother and the daughter.

Although her daughter went steady, she feels that going steady is wrong. It is, she says, merely a form of social security. Neither the boy or the girl needs to worry about getting dates. Often it doesn't mean much, because many teen-agers go steady only until someone else comes along. One of the chief faults of going steady, according to Ann Landers, is the opportunities 'steadies' miss of learning about other people.

Miss Landers understands how the use of the telephone can become a problem in a family. In her household her daughter is limited to 20 minute conversations although she may call the same person again.

Dates on school nights should be prohibited, she believes, unless absolutely necessary. Her own daughter, beans, ice cream, pickles and olives, and pop.

Following the lunch, games will be provided. These will include softball games and the traditional hunt for a hidden bucket. The finder will receive a prize of five dollars.

ter, Margo, can date only on Friday and Saturday nights and must be in then at one o'clock. Miss Landers thinks that parents should be understanding and take the fact of distance into consideration when setting a deadline for a date.

One other important question brought up was that of early engagements. Miss Landers said that 20 seems to be a very good age for marriage (for a girl). She feels that high school girls are too young to decide with whom they want to spend the rest of their life. "What looks good at 17 usually will not look so good at 21. If it is love, it will keep."

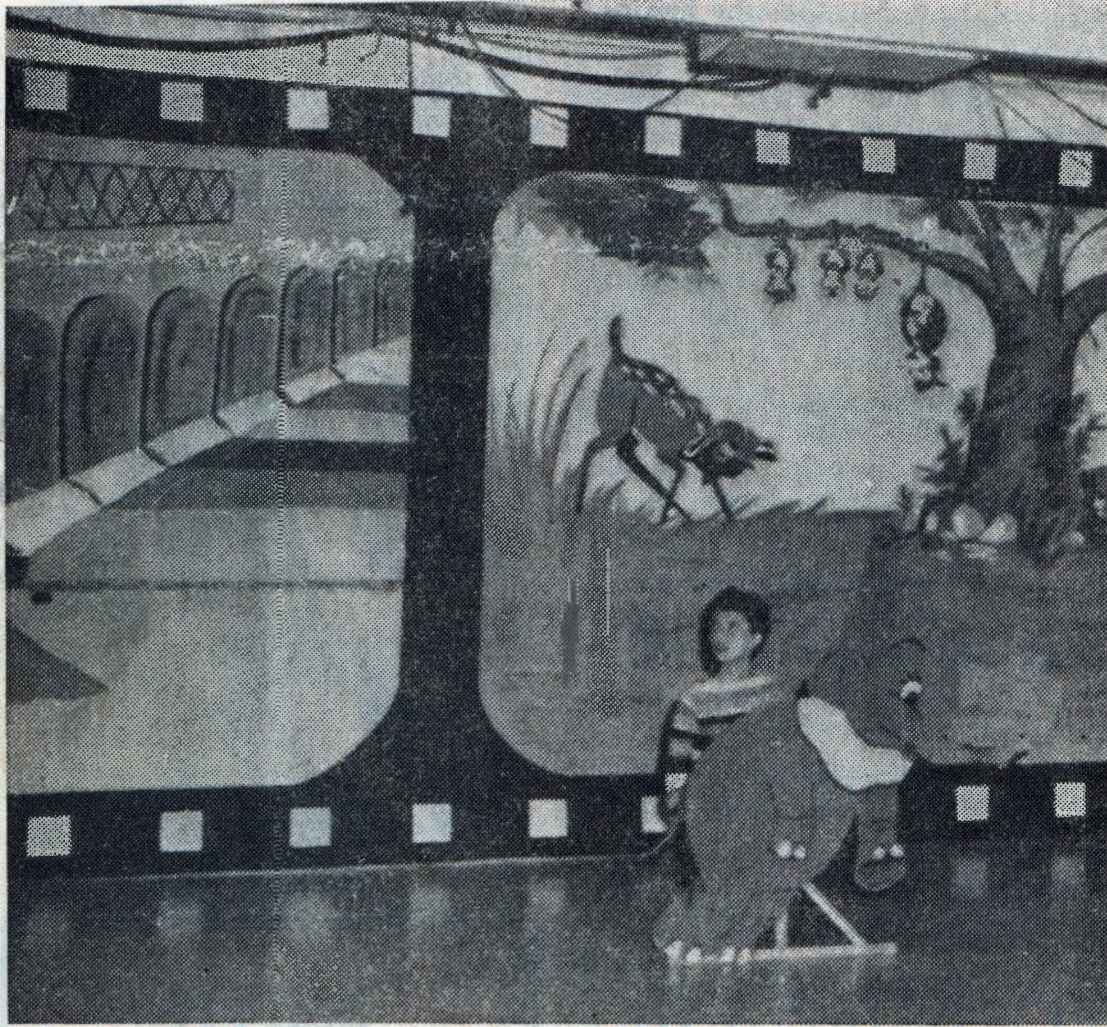

Miss Landers commented that many teen-agers have asked her to write some pamphlets incorporating her ideas, and she is doing just that.

Sophomore boys interested in photography or who have had experience in developing and printing pictures are invited to make application to Mr. Stock, Scroll sponsor, for positions on Scroll staff for the coming school year.

Bring a written application to room 309 stating your experience and qualifications. Applicants should have a 'B' average.

Candidates for City Council

The Question for This Week

The question for this week is: "What do you think is the most valuable course for a student to take in high school if he isn't planning on going to college?"

Don Smith: Machine shop.

Mrs. Stevens: I think that depends on what field you go into after you graduate, such as, if you were going to be a secretary, a commercial course would be best. But for a good all around course, I think literature would help you the most because of the many things it teaches you.

Larry Land: Library.

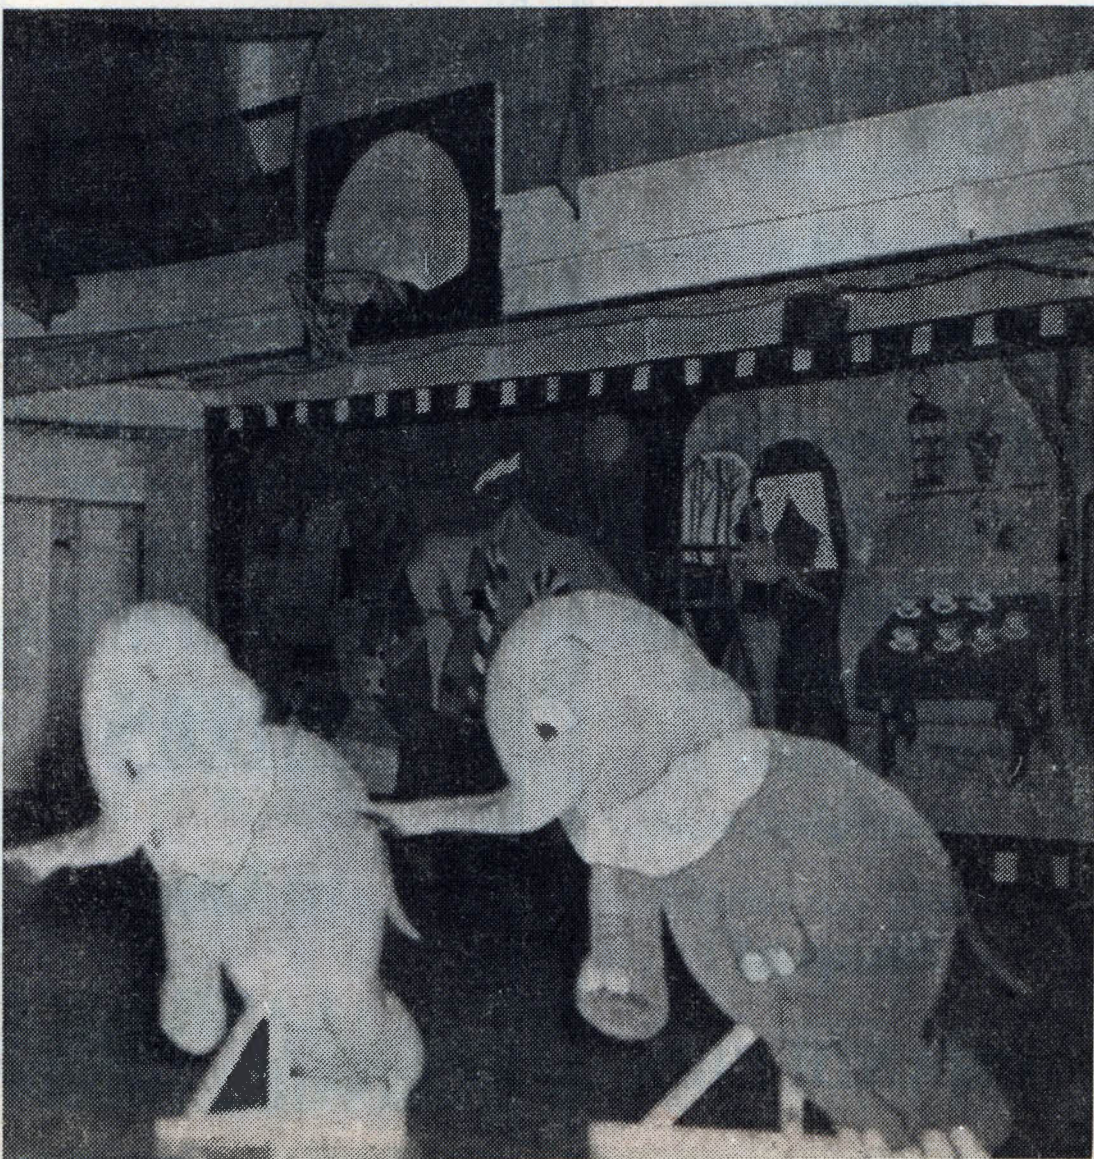

Janet Moeller: Co-op and machine shop.

Mr. Roloff: It depends upon what value the individual places on the course and how it will affect future vocational plans.

Dick Hicks: Physics.

Ruth Josephson: I don't think you can name one particular course as the most important.

Sandy Chance: English.

After working behind closed doors for a week, the junior class today revealed the secrets of the Prom to be held tonight, May 3, in the Boone High gym. Keith Killinger's nine-piece band will play in 'Fantasyland' as the grand march begins promptly at 8:30 p.m. It will be led by the junior class president and his date, the senior class president and his date, followed by the members of the decorating committee and their dates.

Members of the program committee are as follows: Karen Trulin, Dianne Duffy, and John Kost. The refreshments committee is made up of sophomore girls under the direction of Mrs. Plath.

An evening of outstanding entertainment and fun awaits all prom goers. Right after the prom ends, the Ki-Hi-Kapper party, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, begins.

At 12 o'clock a first-run film will be shown at the Rialto Theater. This will last until approximately 2 a.m.

At that time the entertainment at the Elks will begin and will last until about 5:30 a.m. A six-piece band composed of college students will play for the dancing. This year instead of serving a breakfast, the Kiwanis Club will provide a buffet table from which students can help themselves at anytime during the evening.

The floor show, which will last approximately one hour, will be m.c.'d by Wally Black who will also provide a comedy harmonica act. Bud Jacobson, who has just finished playing at the Sands Hotel in Los Vegas, is billed as a mystery magician. The Mary Joyce Lind dancers and Roger Hollingsworth, a juggler, will complete the floor show.

There will be dancing before and after the floor show.

As the students enter the theater they will vote for their choice of the candidates for the Ki-Hi-Kapper party.

The following are the king and queen candidates: Joyce Clarke, Carolyn Kirk, Janet Land, Betty McElyea, Marilyn Pesek, Dave Dearing, 'Chuck' Musser, Jim Taylor, Darryl Trulin, and Fred Vitt.

VACATION DAYS ARE NEAR!

From Far Away Places

How would you like to live in one country till you were about 11 years old and then move to another? Do you think you would like it? Francine Belhassen did and she likes it.

Francine came from Tunis, Tunisia, North Africa, with her mother, two brothers, and a sister. They traveled on one boat from Africa to France, boarded the Queen Mary, and came to New York. This was a seven-day trip and after spending a short while in New York, they came to Des Moines by train, where they lived for three years before moving to Boone.

As previously mentioned, Francine came from Tunis, Tunisia. It's on the coast of the Mediterranean Sea. "When I was there is was a pretty nice place," Francine said, "although I like it much better here. The first look I had at America was coming into the New York harbor. It was 8:30 p.m., and I'm glad it was at night because from a distance New York looked beautiful. As we neared the harbor and entered it, I was shaky and happy. To look at the skyscrapers I held my head almost as high as I would for the Eiffel Tower. I was at last in America and I never regretted it and I'm sure I never will."

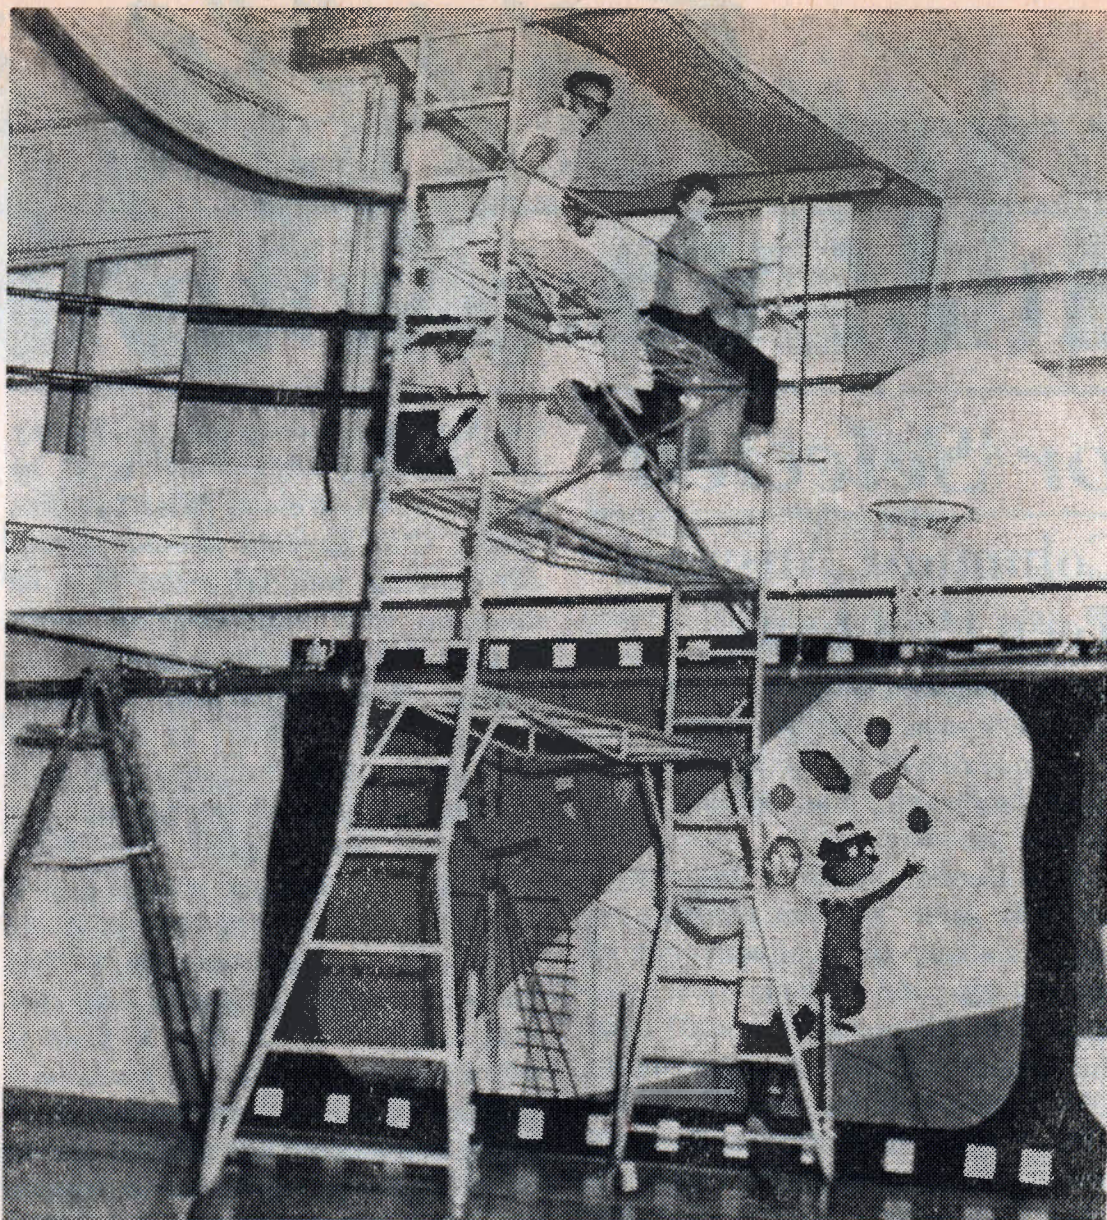

Francine said that the people they met were friendly and looked very interesting. They asked them several questions, although only one of her brothers and one of her sisters could speak English. They had learned what they knew during World War II from American and English soldiers. "I don't think English was to learn," continued Francine, "and I'm glad I picked it up so easily or I don't know what I would have done." She learned most of the English she had to know in less than two years, and has learned the extra since. "But some people do find English hard to learn," Francine said. "My mother still speaks bad English, although she has understood it most of the time, of course it's harder for older people to learn fast."

Francine said that there's quite a big difference in American schools and African schools. This is what she had to say about them: "First of all, you'll never find boys and girls in the same schools. There are boys' schools and girls' schools, even in college. There are many subjects that aren't taught there or not so thoroughly taught as here. We learn to use the pen in second and third grade and use nothing but the pen after that. Everyone wears an apron which is like a uniform because it is either blue or pink so that you won't dirty your clothes or spot them with ink. We have about eight hours and sometimes longer of school and go to school on Saturdays. The grading also is different. There's about 47 pupils in one room and only one or two teachers a day. The grading goes according to who's the brightest pupil in the class. The brightest sits in the first seat, the next-to-brightest in the next seat and so on till the last or poorest pupil. You also buy your own books and if you're poor they're hard to get when the school wants them for your kids."

Francine also thinks American teen-agers have much more freedom than the ones she was among. She thinks the American teen-agers are very nice and friendly. She likes the idea of dating at an earlier age and thinks its good for them to have fun while they are young.

"I don't only like America, but I think I can say I love America as any American citizen should," said Francine. "Although I'm not a citizen yet, I think America's the most wonderful and most prosperous country in the world. Prosperous because of all its freedom. Americans should appreciate their privileges much more than they do. I think they're very careless of their freedom and they take many things for granted instead of being thankful for all they have and how very much it is compared to the many other countries. I do hope they'll appreciate things more—for their good and for America."

PREPARING FOR THE PROM

Mrs. Stevens: What is the difference between a little boy and a dwarf?

Barb Germer: There's a lot of difference.

Mrs. Stevens: For instance?

Barb: The dwarf might be a girl.

Mr. Crozier, to classes on test day: This exam will be conducted on the honor system. Sit three seats apart and alternate rows.

Daughter: Mama, what are men?
Mama: Men are what women marry.

Daughter: We sure don't get much choice, do we?

Bob Appenzeller: How do you like my game?

Caddy: Well, it's all right, but I still like golf better.

"And what is this man charged with?" asked the judge.

"Bigamy, your honor," explained the clerk of the court. "He's got three wives."

"That ain't bigamy," said a voice in the court room, "That's trigonometry."

JUNIOR HIVE

Teens Enjoy Dance

One hundred fifty teen-agers packed the country club on April 20, for a Junior High Easter Dance. Mr. Dan Garretson supplied the sound system and Don Sellers at the Y.M.C.A. supplied the music. Larry Clabaugh bought a ticket and ended up working all evening by playing records.

During the course of the evening many prizes were awarded. The door prize, a corsage, was won by Sandra Tilley who was Brad Beckett's date. Billy Guenther won a record in 'musical chairs.' Patty Kruse from Ogden won a pair of shorty pajamas, Martha Fields won a big teddy bear, and Susanne Frohardt and John Tannehill both won records. Everyone had lots of fun! The next dance will be May 17.

The pajamas were from Riekenberg's, the teddy bear from Red's Toy and Hobby Shop, and the records from McIntyre's.

ALCOHOLIC'S CREED

King Alcohol is my shepherd, I shall always want.

He maketh me to lie down in the gutter; he leadeth me beside the troubled waters. He destroyeth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of wickedness for its effect's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of poverty, and have delirium tremens, I will cling to all evil; for thou art with me, thy sting and thy bite, they torment me.

Thou preparest an empty table before me in the presence of my family. Thou annointest my head with wickedness; my cup of wrath runneth over.

Surely, destruction and misery shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the devil forever, unless I repent.

You can tell a freshman by the way he gawks;
You can tell a sophomore by the way he walks;
You can tell a junior by his manner and rush;
You can tell a senior, but you sure can't tell him much!

The woodpecker gets results.
He uses his head.

I'm through with all guys,
All they do is hand you lies!
They break your heart and make you cry;
You want to drop somewhere and die.

The way they treat you is a sin.
Wow! Dig that guy who just walked in!

There was a little girl,
And she had a little smile.
She gave it to a little boy
Across a little aisle.

He wrote a little note,
But he made a little slip;
And they both went together
On a little office trip.

Larry: Since I met you I can't sleep, I can't eat, I can't drink.

Liz: Why not?

Larry: I'm broke.

Boy of the week is Neil Holley.
