

Scholarship Opportunities Announced

As the end of the semester approaches, all those seniors who are seriously thinking about attending college and are interested in financial aid should be checking into available scholarship programs. Many scholarships of all kinds are available and should be investigated thoroughly by contacting Mr. Abbott. Also, a student planning to attend a specific college should either write to the college or refer to the catalog (which can be found in Mr. Tillson's office) of that school concerning available scholarships.

All students planning to enroll in college should check into the matter of restricted enrollment and determine whether an entrance exam is required. A number of colleges throughout the nation require a student to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test set up by the College Entrance Examination Board. This exam consists of a three-hour Scholastic Aptitude Test which is given in the morning, and a series of one-hour Achievement Tests which are given in the afternoon. The tests are administered on several scheduled dates during the year at testing centers throughout the country and overseas. Candidates taking these tests register for them in advance, take the tests, and have their test scores reported to any college or university. The scores may also be reported to sponsors of scholarship programs. The tests will be given on the following dates and centers in Iowa: February 8, March 15, May 17, and August 13, in Cedar Falls, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Des Moines, Dubuque, Fort Dodge, Mason City, Mount Pleasant, Sioux City, and Waterloo.

BOONE JUNIOR COLLEGE SCHOLARSHIPS

Any student planning to attend Boone Junior College who is interested in a scholarship should contact Dean Heyen or Mr. Abbott. Application blanks can be obtained in Mr. Abbott's office.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR NURSES

A great number of scholarships are available for those persons interested in nursing as a profession. One of these is the program offered by the American Cancer Society, worth $500.

IOWA STATE SCHOLARSHIPS FOR FRESHMEN

Prospective freshman students at Iowa State should also check with Mr. Abbott on available scholarships. Iowa State College offers many scholarships in nearly every field a student might enter. Applications for these scholarships should be made as soon as a student completes his seventh semester of high school.

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM FOR IOWA STATE TEACHERS, IOWA STATE COLLEGE

A committee made up of men from the three state schools of higher learning in Iowa each year organize the Iowa College Scholarship and Placement testing program. This program was set up for two basic reasons: The first of these was to provide Iowa colleges with objective test data for admissions, placement, and scholarship purposes. The second is to provide in one program the necessary testing that is now being carried on independently by several different colleges. All seniors who are planning to attend one of the state schools should plan to take this exam on either Tuesday, April 1, or Wednesday, April 2, 1958. For further information on this program students should contact Mr. Abbott.

I. S. C. Students Will Present Program

On January 16, from 2:15 to 3:15 o'clock, a group of Iowa State College home economics students will present a program on what Home Economics has to offer a girl—now as a student and later as a homemaker or a career woman. They will also try to answer any other questions students may have about college life.

Some of these questions may be: "But I can't afford to go to college." To persons asking this question we suggest they try for a scholarship. Many are not being used and this we feel is due to people not applying for them. Many college students carry a part-time job. Then one can also get a loan. Another reply by students is:

"I don't think I'm intelligent enough." True intelligence to a degree is necessary, but one also needs to have ambition and to take pleasure in learning. To be able to think and to have enthusiasm and energy plus a willingness to put a lot into work you enjoy. So often we hear girls say:

"My mother says that it is not practical for a girl to go to college, because she gets married either during school or after she graduates and then her education and money is wasted." In this day and age we feel one's education is never wasted. We as the leaders of tomorrow must be much better educated than our forefathers to meet the present day problems. Many things one learns in college can be used whether they are a homemaker or a career woman.

Along with these questions many high school students have a problem trying to decide what courses to take if they can and do go to college. In most colleges your first two years are quite general with everyone taking similar subjects. Therefore you don't have to decide definitely what you want until the end of your sophomore year. These are just a few of the questions and problems on students' minds these days; however we hope we can answer any other questions they may have right now.

These college students have presented programs to students in the Waterloo and Grinnell high schools and have arrangements made to go to the Des Moines and Mason City schools. They have also talked at career days throughout the state. The second Wednesday of each month at 9:00 o'clock they have a radio program over WOI and they also present television programs every so often over WOI-TV.

KRNT-TV Adds New Program Series

KRNT-TV has added to its program schedule a new series on world travel and adventure—"Around the World with Don Soliday." This new educational series can be seen each Tuesday night from 10:30 to 11:00 p.m. on Channel 8. The first of the series, 'Mysterious Congo Witch Dancers,' was seen Tuesday, January 7.

Don Soliday, master of ceremonies, presents the films taken by the Hal Linker family on their visits to interesting places all over the world. The program is much like a National Geographic feature in motion pictures.

The first 13 episodes in sequence are: Mysterious Congo Witch Dancers, Carnival in Cuba, Khyber Pass Adventure, Whale Ho, Sailboats of the Sand, Giants of Urundi, Wonderful Way to The Welsh, Fearless Lumberjacks of Finland, Paradise in Bali, To Israel on the Wings of an Eagle, Morris Dancers of England, Juggernaut, and the Four Faces of Siva. A short synopsis of each episode is posted across the hall from Mrs. Engen's office.

This 'wonders of the world' feature is just one of a new nightly series of programs which will be telecast Monday through Friday at 10:30 p.m. The lineup of 'On Camera' program is: Monday, Russ Van Dyke and the KRNT news staff; Tuesday: 'Around the World with Don Soliday'; Wednesday, 'Private Line,' a discussion program; Thursday, 'Sports World' with Al Couppee and sports staff; Friday, Mary Jane Chinn, presenting a variety of unusual and interesting features.

Student Council Adopts New Schedule

Student Council meetings have now been scheduled through the month of May. The meetings will be held on alternate hours to prevent a student from continually missing the same class. The schedule is as follows:

Date	Hour
January 14	2
January 28	3
February 11	4
February 25	5
March 11	1
March 25	2
April 8	3
April 22	4
May 6	1
May 20	5

Special meetings will be called when necessary.

Boone High School Orchestra Chosen

Last month Mr. Scholl, head of the music department, received a letter from the Educational Department of Scherl & Roth, Incorporated, asking for a picture of the Boone High Orchestra to be put in a book, 'How to Select String Instruments,' which is being prepared for distribution at the Music Educators' National Conference convention to be held in Los Angeles.

They want to illustrate it with pictures of some of the more prominent youth orchestras which exist throughout the United States and feel Mr. Scholl and the orchestra have achieved remarkable success. The letter went on to say, "you have become recognized as one of the leading orchestra directors in our schools and your orchestra enjoys a wide and wonderful reputation. Therefore we would like to include a picture of your group in the book."

Mrs. Shirley Johnson has taken over the job of Mary Lind, who went to California, as a secretary in the principal's office.

A graduate of Davenport High School and the State University of Iowa, Mrs. Johnson has been working since January 2 and says she likes it. She is married to Bill Johnson, who was a graduate of Boone High.

The staff is sorry to report the misfortunes of two Boone high faculty members. These are the illness of Mrs. Engen's husband and the death of Miss Osborne's brother.

Thespian Troupe Holds Initiation

Thespian Troupe 1732 held an initiation for 16 members on December 18, 1957, at 8:00 p.m. Candidates were allowed to invite at least three guests.

The initiation was formal with the girls wearing cocktail dresses or formals, and the boys, suits.

Decorations:

The stage was decorated with two white pillars with an altar between them. Two Thespian masks were hung above the altar.

The altar was draped with red velvet, and the same red velvet covered the aisle leading to the altar. Seven candles stood on the altar, and each one represented a certain place in the ceremony. The room was completely dark except for the stage. It was illuminated by a different color, one red and one green. Amber was used in the center to spill over and brighten the Thespian masks.

Ceremony:

The initiation began with the president welcoming everyone to the meeting and asking the usher to escort in the candidates.

The usher then called the candidates in and they were told about the club, and its organization. Then Mr. Bissell welcomed the candidates, and explained that they would now be instructed in the many fields of dramatics, and they are: literature, art, music, theater, speech, and dancing. He spoke of Thespian, who was the first actor, and from whose name the club gets the name Thespians.

After the instruction, Mr. Bissell gave the Oath of Allegiance and the meeting closed.

Refreshments, punch, and cookies were served, and many pictures were taken of everyone.

The club would like to remind all of those who want to join Thespians that there will be another initiation in the spring.

Chemistry Dept. to Be Enlarged and Remodeled

Farsighted Boone school board members are leading the procession toward a more extensive and complete curriculum in scientific education for Boone High students. Wednesday, January 8, the board of directors approved plans for the enlargement and remodeling of the chemistry department. The new department will include an added lecture room and the remodeling of the present lecture room into a storage, preparation and analytical balance room.

Introducing Mr. Iyer

"It is so very cold up here," said a small man shivering underneath a heavy topcoat and suit. It was Mr. Iyer, who is in the United States on a Fulbright scholarship, and is observing Boone High.

Mr. Iyer is a resident of Kollengode in the state of Kerala, which means the land of the coconut, near the southern tip of India.

He not only speaks fluent English, but also Tamil, Malayan, Hindu, and Sanskrit, the oldest of languages. He is headmaster of a school which he says, "Is about the size of Boone High."

His school begins at 10:00 a.m. and runs until 4:30 p.m. "We originally started around 8:00," he explained, "but many students had to walk four or five miles to school and could not make it on time."

It is hard to imagine what life would be without dating, but Mr. Iyer says that it does not exist in India. So dancing as we know it does not exist. In India most marriages are planned by the parents.

Mr. Iyer claims, "In the south of India, almost 100% of the people can read and write, and many attend college."

"The caste system," he says, "does not mean much. I have friends from all castes."

A Hindu, Mr. Iyer finds a big difference between our rapid, hurried life and that in India. He sums it up, "In America you say a man runs for election, in India we say he stands for election."

In addition there will be new laboratory tables and a new instructor's desk purchased and installed. The move will allow storage of chemicals outside the laboratory itself.

Superintendent of Schools, Donald F. Seaton, said that the changes would allow the doubling of capacity of the department provided another instructor could be obtained.

Dear Mother's Wild Night

by Betsy Lorentzen

It was about a fortnight ago. Dear Mother and I were taking tea in the garden. Jeeves had passed the cakes and was pouring, and Dear Mother and I were listening to the song of the lark and admiring the roses. "Have some sugar, Dear Mother," I said, passing the sugar bowl. "Dear little Fauntleroy," she crooned, smiling fondly, "Always the perfect little gentleman."

As the sugar dissolved in the cup, greenish fumes rose and tickled Dear Mother's nostrils. The tea bubbled and boiled in a most mysterious way. Right then I knew I'd made a horrible mistake. Instead of sugar lumps, I'd accidentally given Dear Mother a double dose of rock-'n'-roll pills that I keep hidden in the lace up my sleeve.

Suddenly Dear Mother's gentle face grew frantic. "Hey, Jeeves, throw some disks on the turntable, man; I wanna dance," she yelled, jumping up and upsetting the tea table. She kicked off her arch-preservers, messed up her hair, threw down her shawl, and began to dance around in a most unladylike manner. "Dear Mother," I cried. "Do sit down and rest a moment. Remember your blood pressure!"

"Blood pressure, shmud pressure! Loosen up your collar and dance, Faunt-babe! Ain't you never had no urge to dance, man? Jeeves!" she screamed, calling him an unpleasant name, "What we got to drink in this jernt?"

"Cooking wine, Madam," Jeeves answered, looking frightened.

"Well, let's have it, man, on the double," she said, lighting the filter end of a Benson and Hedges.

"Yes, Madam, very good, Madam, right away." Jeeves scurried off in the direction of the pantry.

"He don't dig jive," Dear Mother said, snapping her fingers and tapping her feet. "I guess I'll have to get some help in here which understands my language."

I shuddered to think of the tales the servants would carry. After Dear Mother had danced around in a loose, jerky manner for about 20 minutes and had downed the cooking wine, she collapsed in her chair and muttered a last "23 skidoo" before she dropped off to sleep.

Ten minutes later Dear Mother opened her eyes and sipped her tea. "Fauntleroy," she puzzled, "Why is the tea cold? And what are all those empty cooking wine bottles doing out there amongst the roses?"

"Never mind, Dear Mother," I sighed wearily, knowing she wouldn't believe me. I resolved never to let Dear Mother get hold of any rock-'n'-roll pills again. Why, she could become an addict!

"How did you break your leg?"

"Threw a cigarette in a manhole and stepped on it."

BUMBLE 'B'

Published bi-weekly by the students of Boone High School.

Rates: Activity ticket plus 10 cents, or 15 cents a copy.

Classify Your Cronies

Each student has certain distinguishing habits which reveal his outlook concerning high school. Perhaps you have noticed such traits among your friends. If not, we invite you to try this quiz which will enable you to classify your friends' school habits. In order for this test to be most effective, select one of your friends and follow him about during the course of the day (with a pencil and note-pad) and observe his every action. But, be careful, he may be doing the same thing as you.

When teacher gives an assignment, does he...

1. Copy it down immediately in his assignment book which he always keeps close at hand?
2. Stare blankly at the teacher and then copy the assignment from a classmate after class?
3. Open his left eye?

When teacher delivers a lecture, does he...

1. Pull out his typewriter, which he always keeps close at hand, and type pages of clear, concise notes?
2. Frequently ask questions unrelated to the topic in an attempt to get the teacher off the subject?
3. Open his right eye?

When teacher gives a test, does he...

1. Keep his eyes glued to the paper, cover his answers, and double-check each one in an attempt to do his level best?
2. Have a false coughing spell, sign out, and then go to his locker to look up the answers?
3. Cheat? (6 points)

In the hall, does he...

1. Walk briskly, books and briefcase in hand, with his head held high and his eyes straight ahead? (mainly because he's following this girl he's had his eye on).
2. Maliciously deface school property by making 'Z's' on everything in sight with chalk which he 'borrows' from his home-room teacher?
3. Seem to have trouble finding his lunch (evident by his opening every unlocked locker until he finds a lunch with his favorite kind of sandwich in it)?

In the cafeteria, does he...

1. Study while he eats?
2. Talk with others while he eats?
3. Play the harmonica while he eats? (add 50 points.)

In study hall, does he...

1. Diligently study the day's work and carefully plan his study time for tomorrow's lessons?
2. Create a general disturbance by talking to his friend (who happens to sit 15 seats in front of him)? (-35 points.)
3. Awaken with a start when you lean over and whisper gently in his ear, "Wake up, you've been asleep for three periods"?

In a pep aud, does he...

1. Cheer, applaud, or laugh at the appropriate time?
2. Show disinterest by reading a comic book which he always carries with him for just such an occasion?

3. Stand up and call loudly for his faithful masked companion?

After school, does he...

1. Devote time to his extra-curricular activities (athletics, clubs, girls, etc.)?
2. Dash out to his 'hotrod' (which has been parked all day in a two-hour zone) and spend the next three hours racing back and forth downtown?
3. Wake up from eighth period study hall, (where he had been for three periods) go home, and go to bed?

Score as follows: All answers preceded by a number one, count four points. Answers preceded by a number three, count minus one point; by a number two, count two points. Numbers in parentheses, count the indicated number of points. Take the sum of the points, subtract your age, multiply by your locker number, and divide by the change in your pocket.

Jack: "Have you a book in the library called, 'Man, the Master of Woman'?"

Librarian: "The fiction department is on the other side, Jack."

A fat man and a very thin man collided on the street, to the annoyance of both. The fat man looked at the thin man and sneered.

"From the looks of you," he said, "there's been a famine around here."

"From the looks of you," retorted the thin man, "you caused it."

Timmy: "Mommy, may I give Aunt Elly a kiss?"

Mommy: "Yes, dear, but don't fall into the coffin."

OH YEAH?

A girl who'll swear
Is apt to smoke;
A step from there
She likes a joke.
Late hours next,
No ma to guide her;
Sin's got her
Like fly and spider.
Now if she'll drink,
She'll kiss goodnight;
Then comes the brink—
The victim's tight!
What could be finer?
The prey is caught.
You see this shiner?
That's what I thought!

Barb: "Why did the moron go to the football game?"

Tom: "I don't know. Why?"

Barb: "Because he thought the quarterback was a refund."

Do you know what college team has won the most football games? Notre Dame or Oklahoma are the most used answers, but the correct one is Yale.

Is This Love?

This is 'The Story of My Life' 'All the Way' from 'The First Kiss' to 'How Do You Say Good-bye.'

In September when it was 'Back to School Again,' I asked 'The Prettiest Girl' in school, 'Peggy Sue,' to be my date 'At the Hop.' After a minute of 'Hesitation,' she replied, 'I'm Available.'

When that night finally arrived, I picked her up at her place, then we did the 'Love Bug Crawl' to the hop. We 'Dance(d) to the Bop' and 'The Stroll,' later ending up at a 'Party Time' get-together at 'Bony Maronie's' house.

Our second big date was in December when she asked me to the 'Jingle Bell Rock' put on by the 'Classy Babe's' in school.

As we walked home 'Alone' later after the party under the 'Full Moon Above,' I asked her to be 'My Special Angel.' She replied, 'Chances Are,' if you 'Treat Me Nice' 'I'll Love You, Baby.'

While I was walking past her house late the following night, I saw a 'Light in the Window' and two 'Silhouettes' on the shade. I 'Cross(ed) Over' the lawn to see and heard her say, 'I Only Want to Love You.' Then the 'Raunchy' shadow replied, 'You Send Me!'

'Baby, I Don't Care' if you're going to give your 'Kisses Sweeter than Wine' to all 'The Joker(s)' available. Let's hope you 'Don't Let It Get Around' that you were once a part of my ('Johnny's') Dream.'

Thanks are in order for the help given by Sharyn Thompson and Jim Stehn in getting the Bumble 'B' out on time.

Toreadors Lose Conference Game

On Friday, January 10, the Toreadors suffered defeat at the hands of the Oskaloosa Indians. The final score of the game was 35-29. Even though the Indians came out on top their playing wasn't much better than that of the Toreadors. In shooting, Boone finished with a 16.7%—11 for 66.

High scorer for the Toreadors was Dick Hamilton with 10 points. Next, with nine points, came Ray Gragg. Hamilton also led in the rebounding category, taking 10 off the boards.

During the last quarter the Toreadors really played hard even to the point of narrowing the gap to two points within 50 seconds of the end of the game. Osky bagged two more during this time to cinch the contest.

Winning their second conference game, the Boone sophomores took Oskaloosa, 46-40. Boone led at the end of each quarter, the scores being 5-3, 15-14, 25-21, and 46-40. Keith Ablett was once again Boone's top scorer with 13 points, followed by Gustafson with 12 points. Osky's top scorer was Nattix, with 12 points.

Toreadors Whip Iowa Falls, 65-41

In one of their best games of the season the Toreadors whipped Iowa Falls, 65-41, on January 4.

The Toreadors shot 79 times during this game—more than in any previous game this season. Of the 79 they hit 19 for 25%.

On the free throw line Boone did very well; out of 40 attempts the Toreadors sank 27 for a 67.5 percentage. In the rebounding department, Musser and Hamilton led the winners, each taking 10 off the boards.

Scoring highest for the Toreadors was Dick Hamilton with 19 points. Coming in second, Musser and Gragg tied with 11 points each.

Really firing away in the last half the Toreadors pulled away out in front. In the fourth quarter they led by as much as 32 points. During the game five of the reserve players also got into the scoring column.

Girls Win from Story City

Going for its eighth win this season, the Toreadorettes sank the Story City girls, 55-40. Leading all the way, the Toreadorettes really played a good ball game. The scores by the quarters were: 17-10, 33-14, 41-28, and 55-40, all being in favor of Boone.

Boone's ace Alsin was the high scorer of the game with 21 points, followed by Rita Howard with 20. Story City highest scorer, Shaw, made seven points. The Boone girls'

Heap of the Week

Our chosen heap of the week is a black 1931 Model A Ford belonging to George Eckstein. "George's 'A,'" as it is known around school, was given to George by his father, as pay for some work George had done.

The most impressive feature on George's car is the yellow spokes on the wheels. Other features that have been added since George has had his 'A' are radio, new valves, rings, bearings, and clutch; also repainting and reupholstering.

If the speedometer is correct, this car has seen 98,500 miles of traveling. Among these miles was a trip to the Ozarks this summer. When asked if he had any mishaps, George replied, "I didn't have any trouble at all going to the Ozarks; I couldn't get very good mileage though. I got around 29 m.p.g. and didn't get the 'carb' set right until we got to the Ozarks. We got around 33 m.p.g. coming home."

"De boids choip pretty."

"Those aren't 'boids.' They're birds."

"No foolin'. Dey choip just like boids."

Toreadorettes Defeat Knoxville, 78-46

On Friday, January 4, the Toreadorettes walloped Knoxville in a sizzler, 78-46. The Toreadorettes as a whole shot 47.57% (29 out of 61 shots) from the floor. Boone did nine straight until one was missed well on the foul line, too, hitting in the third quarter.

Rita Howard topped the scoring column with 38 points, hitting 17 for 30 of her shots from the floor. Alsin came second with 25 points, picking up 11 from the free throw line.

This was one of the best showings of the Toreadorettes yet this season.

Iowa Falls Sophs vs. Boone

Losing to Iowa Falls, the Boone sophomores were edged by only two points. Boone made six to their 11 points in the first quarter, 10 to their 15 points in the second quarter, 13 to their 12 in the third quarter, and in the last 11 points to their four. Boone's high scorers were Keith Ablett, with 13, Gustafson, with 12, and Gilchrist, with eight.

Future Nurses Hear Speaker

Mrs. Janice Lindmark was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Future Nurses' Club held Tuesday, January 7, at 3:15.

An office nurse for Dr. Sutton and Dr. Kane, Mrs. Lindmark spoke to the group on the four-year course of nursing taken at the State University of Iowa where she attended. She explained the different courses taken, the hospital work, and answered questions from the group.

Mrs. Mary Jane Downey, who is the nurse for the grade schools, was a guest and will speak at the next meeting.

Mrs. G. H. Sutton is the sponsor from the medical auxiliary and Mrs. Carlson is the school sponsor.

Teens Against Polio

Dear Fellow Students:

Our Public School System of Iowa is to be honored on January 25, when Superintendent Richard Schuchert, President of the Iowa Association of School Administrators, will be presented a plaque recognizing our part in the continuing battle against polio.

As the State Teenage Chairman of the March of Dimes, I urge you to be mindful of the Salk vaccine shots which many of you have not completed yet. Crippling polio in Iowa will not be erased until we students have made every effort to protect ourselves and others from the disease. Our cheerleaders yell the hardest when we are on the 5-yard line with victory in sight.

Let me congratulate you on the wonderful work you have done in the past. Your support is still needed, not only to encourage vaccination, but to assure that your county polio patients will be given every opportunity to live a satisfying life. Please assist your county polio chapter in any way you can to honor the 20th anniversary of the March of Dimes program both materially and educationally as we gather our strength for the final assault.

This is a golden opportunity for the youth of Iowa to finish strong in a program which has always had a most generous public acceptance. I feel confident that you will join the thousands of young people who are already assisting in the current Teens Against Polio program.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Turnquist
State Teenage
M.O.D. Chairman

Character Education Assemblies Held

The character education assemblies held January 7 during the sixth period were a bit different than usual. The Rev. La Rue Jensen, the speaker, had questionnaires containing ten questions on the subject 'How Are You Around the House?' issued to the students, who were asked to choose one of three possible answers given for each question. The Rev. Mr. Jensen then discussed the questions and read the correct answers.

David Sebring was the senior high chairman, and John Doran the junior high chairman.

There are no tricks in plain and simple faith.—Shakespeare.

Girl of the Week

The girl of the week is a popular, blue-eyed blonde in the seventh grade. She is five-foot one-inch tall and is 12 years old. Her address is 2128 Crawford Street. Being very athletic, she loves horseback riding, basketball, and swimming. She likes to dance and prefers Sal Mineo to all other recording stars. Her favorite food is pizza, her favorite subject, reading, and her favorite color, light blue.

If you haven't already guessed, the girl of the week is Donna Miller.

In the drive for Christmas food baskets the Student Congress collected $46.41 from both junior and the senior high. This money paid for hams, potatoes, crisco, sugar, candy, fruitcake, nuts, laundry and toilet soap, flour, and onions.

Junior high students brought canned goods. Mrs. Brunner donated 10 pounds of butter and also gave several pairs of mittens from the mitten tree.

The baskets were packed by Mrs. Carlson and Student Congress representatives. Mr. Lovin and Mr. Thompson delivered two or more baskets to each of the five needy families.

Joy surfeited turns to sorrow.

Inquiring Reporter

Russia has a school program requiring much more science and mathematics as high school requirements than most schools in our country do. Would you be in favor of a required year of physics and chemistry?

Donna Deal, 11th: "No, because all people don't go into fields which require those subjects."

Carolyn Reed, 11th: "No, because some people will not use these subjects in future years. but I think a person should take at least one of them if he has the chance."

Richard Hutson, 12th: "The ones who have minds capable of understanding those subjects should be required to take them, but that would present a problem of discrimination."

Gerry Raettig, 11th: "No, because some people will never make use of them, so they should take subjects that they will need for their life's occupation."

Sven Sterner, 11th: "I believe that physics and chemistry should be elective."

Mary Hagaman, 11th: "Yes, because physics and chemistry can be applied not only to a scientific field, but would be practical in everyday life. Even though you don't plan to go to college, you should have some knowledge of these courses, to be able to compete in our ever-changing world."

Millicent Stutzman, 11th: "Maybe not physics, but chemistry should be required, because every person who plans to get somewhere in life needs to have a knowledge of chemistry."

Larry Ford, 11th: "I think 'yes' for chemistry; take physics if it is required in what you want to do."

Sandi Suthern, 11th: "Yes, because it will help you in your daily life."

'Chuck' McCubbins, 11th: "No, because it is not as useful in some fields as in others."

No one can boast of his modesty.
