Scholastic Assembly Presented at Fifth Hour Today

Foundation Awards Scholarships in Health Field

ceived by this school for students interested in the National Foundation's new multi-million-dollar scholarship program for careers in the health fields.

Students who want to become nurses, physical therapists, or occupational therapists should apply to the guidance counselor at once.

Application blanks have been re-for full information concerning these scholarships which pay $500 a year, or a total of $2,000 for four years of college training.

This is the first time in the nation's history that this type of scholarship has been open to high school students. The scholarship program also includes awards to college students for the fields of medicine and medical social work.

Minimum of 505 Scholarships

Through this program, a minimum of 505 scholarships, financed by March of Dimes funds, will be offered each year, the first to be awarded before the end of the 1959 school year. Scholarships will be offered on a geographical basis with no state receiving less than five, one for each of the health professions included in the program.

The National Foundation is now engaged in familiarizing high school students with the opportunities open to them in these professions. The fields of nursing, physical therapy and occupational therapy are today severely understaffed, and there is a job waiting for every graduate. These jobs are open in all parts of the nation and a trained specialist can pick his own area.

At least 70,000 nurses are needed now, and it is estimated that the need will steadily increase. Though most people think of the role of a nurse as that of assisting a doctor at the bedside, there are many other opportunities open in the nursing profession. Nursing may lead to public health work, teaching, administration and research.

Physical Therapy

In physical therapy there are three times as many openings as there are qualified physical therapists to fill them. A physical therapist uses heat, massage, baths, exercise and other physical means to restore motion to disabled limbs, joints, and muscles, thus quickening the patient's recovery and return to work and a useful place in life.

A position now awaits every registered occupational therapist and the demand will increase in the years to come. An occupational therapist, using the creative arts, skills, crafts, educational and recreational programs, help patients to rechannel their talents into new interests—occupations by which they can overcome limitations imposed by disease or injury.

Applications must be in by May 1, 1959. Winners of the scholarships will be announced this June or July. Graduates of the scholarship program are not restricted to work in the health fields of special interest to The National Foundation, which are polio, birth defects, and arthritis. They are, however, expected to serve the health fields, working as members of the profession for which they are prepared,

Contest Winners to Represent B.H.S.

Don Josephson was the highest scorer in a field of 22 seniors and 12 juniors who took a mathematics exam March 5, in conjunction with the annual high school mathematics contest sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the Society of Actuaries.

Don's score will be totaled with those of runner-up Alan Munson and third place winner Jim Hartley, to represent Boone High in regional competition.

The United States and Canada are divided into 10 regions on a population basis for the test.

Jon Gustafson was high scoring junior and Karen Bennett took second place in the junior class.

Awards range from a mathematics pin for the local winner to a bronze cup for the school whose team wins first place in the district.

Each contestant was given a booklet on opportunities for mathematical careers.

Questions were all multiple-choice, with the scoring done on a percentage of the number of errors being subtracted from each contestant's score. The test was designed to probe the student's skill with mathematical terminology, methods, and skill with mathematical logic in solving problems.

All contestants were charged a registration fee of 35 cents.

Inside Cuba

by Nancy Westfall

Americans are often like ostriches. They stick their heads in the sand and pretend that a situation just doesn't exist. In reference to this is the Cuban revolt.

According to a letter recently received here from a missionary in Cuba, the real crimes were committed by Batista and his murderers, not by Castro. We Americans are now crying "Halt" to the trials of the men that Castro's revolutionists call murderers. The time to have called "Halt" was several years ago when Batista's men began torturing innocent villagers.

We are now condemning Castro, but perhaps we would not if we would understand the situation under Batista.

According to the missionary, young men and women, old folks, and babies were dragged from their homes in the middle of the night by Batista's unmerciful soldiers.

Whether or not a person was a rebel did not matter—all were treated alike—beaten, burned, and cut while still alive, and many were hanged. Twenty-two thousand young men gave their lives for Cuban freedom.

Is it any wonder that the people rose against the tyranny and demanded justice?

The missionary states that Castro has not killed indiscriminately. Every chance is given to prove a victim's innocence.

Those of us who have never been under dictatorship cannot realize the terror.

We should be thankful for men like Castro who fight against unjust governments.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

When the old Washington School building was torn down, the Board of Education adopted the Motor Vehicle Parking and Driving Regulations for the students of Boone High School and Boone Junior College to be effective at the opening of the 1956-1957 school year.

The Board of Education, as of Monday, March 2, 1959, issued a statement that any student who violated the rules by not parking in the parking lot would be dropped from classes and reinstated only upon appeal to the Board of Education. This was to be considered as the first and last warning. Action will be taken immediately against any violators.

Ninety-five Participate

The Annual Scholarship Assembly was held today. Dave Otto opened the ceremony of presentation with a talk on scholarship. Following this were speeches by Joyce Alsin on Commerce, Glenda McCambridge on Arts and Crafts, Lynn Anderson on English, Leila Kemmerer on Language, 'Chuck' McGriff on Science, Jim Moore on Social Studies, and Donald Josephson on Math.

The following students hold a 3.2 average or better, qualifying them for the Scholarship Honor Society.

Sophomores: Lonette Alber, Diana Allie, Judy Appenzeller, Linda Boyd, Sandra Burke, Lynn Clark, Jacquelyn Dolphin, Lynne Doran, Barbara Erbe, Mary Goodwin, Judith Rae Hendricks, Kay Hyatt, Caryl Kristianson, Elizabeth Latham, Ann McDermott, Carol Sue Moore, Barbara Murken, Pamela Parrish, Barbara Jeap Pestotnik, Donna Sue Pestotnik, Neva Rogers, Linda Suthern, Joyce Thede, Joyce Utterback, Janna Weston, Mike Ahlstrom, Bob Ashbaugh, John Doran, George Hannum, John Kueck, Richard Lamb, David Moeller, Dennis Mylenbusch, Timothy Pepper, Jay Pieper, John Poyzer, Carl Saubert, Thomas Sellers, and John Tannehill.

Juniors are: Charlotte Ashbaugh, Karen Bennett, Karen Lee Carlson, Cynthia Case, Jerolyn Dixon, Dixie Enslow, Susanne Frohardt, Kathleen Gibbons, Jean Goeppinger, JoAnn Grasso, Luann Hauge, Cherylin Henderson, Lynne Hohenshell, Karen Hubby, Rachel Lansing, Donna Pesek, Carol Peterson, Carol Pieper, Janet Schroeder, An nSenholz, Janet Smith, Marilyn Smith, Judy Thacker, Nancy Westfall, Kay Wiley, Barbara Wilhelm, John Clymer, David Frank Graves, Keith Johnson, Gail Nystrom, James Howard Pritchard, Mark Tompkins.

Seniors are: Joyce Alsin, Lynn Anderson, Janet Carter, Carolyn Dahlin, Delores Deal, Mary Hagaman, Delores Hampton, Leila Kemmerer, Barbara Krah, Doris Lundstrom, Glenda McCambridge, Sandra Shadle, Millicent Stutzman, Sandra Suthern, Christie Thede, Carroll Clabaugh, Jim Hartley, Don Josephson, Charles McGriff, James Moore, Alan Munson, Dave Otto, Leslie Sellers, Steve Shaler, Kent Smith.

5 Speech Students Advance to State

Speech contestants who were not eliminated in the preliminary contest participated in the District Speech Contest at Spencer, March 6-7.

Five students, by receiving I ratings, were chosen to compete in the state finals to be held at Storm Lake, April 1-3.

Those students were: Beth Sorenson, Joyce Utterback, Phil Knudson, and Jim Stumbo. Emily Shaler, who was unable to attend the contest due to illness, will automatically be sent to the state finals to compete with the other winners.

Students who received excellent, or II, ratings were: Linda Hutson, Beth Sorenson, Beth Severtson, Jim Stumbo, Gary Grasso, and Sandra Trevarthen.

Among the nifty top fifty are the niftiest of the nifty, which have been chosen by all teenagers.

Among the up and coming discs are: 'I Had to Get My Daddy Out of Jail,' which is recorded by the Everly Brothers on the Cadence Label; Ricky Nelson's recording, 'It's Late,' on the Imperial Label is another fast rising disc.

A new song by Elvis Presley just released is 'I Need Your Love Tonight,' and on the other side, 'Fool Such as I.' This disc will probably be a big hit and earn Presley another gold record.

This week's pick hit, 'I Go Ape,' is recorded by Neil Sedaka. This song has rhythm and good lyrics.

KWBG's top 50 poll listed the following as the top five for the week of March 1-7:

- (1) 'Venus,' by Frankie Avalon
- (2) 'Charlie Brown,' by the Coasters
- (3) 'I've Had It,' by the Bell Notes
- (4) 'Avalon's Harmonica,' by the Chipmunks
- (5) 'Apple Blossom Time' by Tab Hunter

Mrs. Jones had just lain down to rest when the butler knocked on the door.

"What is it?"

"I hate to be the one to tell you, but your husband has been run over by a steamroller."

"Well, I'm tired," she said, "just slip him under the door."

Dear Ann,

Dear Ann Slanders,
I would like to take a trip to Europe. The only problem is that men just can't seem to resist my beauty and charm. On my first voyage I was constantly bothered with proposals of marriage. How can I make them leave me alone?

Signed,
Irresistible.

Dear Irresistible,
Swim to Europe this time.
Ann.

Dear Ann Slanders,
I am 18, good-looking, have a sparkling personality, and am a heavenly dancer. My only trouble is that all the girls beg me to date them. Don't get me wrong, Ann, I like this O.K., but I want a nice, quiet, sedate girl, one who likes to read and sew. What can I do?

'Loverboy.'

Dear 'Loverboy,'
Have you ever thought of dating your grandmother?
Ann.

DON'T ---

Don't neglect to slam your locker whenever opportunity permits; there is seldom any commotion in the halls, and such a light noise can't make much difference.

Don't fail to whisper in library; no one goes there for study anyway.

Don't pick up any waste paper you see lying around because janitors are hired to pick up scraps of paper; and the smaller the pieces the more interesting the work.

Don't fail to walk with a heavy tread when coming into library late. This does not disturb those who already are interested in their work.

Don't fail to deposit your gum in the fountains; the sight of it adds much to the pleasure of those who come to drink.

Don't let anyone beat you to the lunchroom when the lunch bell rings; it's your right and privilege to get there first, even if you have to knock several other students down in the rush.

KAR KORNER

Phil Sherbon is the owner of this 1949 Ford hardtop. The color is wine, and Phil has owned the car for a little over a year. It was owned by his father in the beginning, but when he purchased a new one, Phil took over the old one.

The car has been completely overhauled and now has duals, but the spinner hubcaps no longer remain on the car.

The Ford gets most of its mileage in this area but has been as far south and east as Davenport, as far north as Minnesota, and as far west as Omaha, Nebraska.

Although Phil doesn't have time to work on the car himself, he pays for its upkeep.

"Honey, while we're sitting out here in the moonlight, I want to ask you a question."

"Yes, my darling."

"Could we move over a little? I'm sitting on a nail."

Two camels trudged along side by side in a caravan crossing the burning desert. Finally one of them looked around furtively and spoke: "I don't care what anybody says," he whispered, "I'm thirsty."

As We See It . . .

The place—the United States of America. The time—early morning of the first day of the week, so long as that is Easter week. A little more precisely, it's Easter morning.

On this particular morning, it really matters whether or not it is sunny. Even in the North. It's not too logical to want it to be sunny in the North when it's too early in the year for the golf season and the fishing season, and the outdoor barbecue season.

But now to tell the reason. You see, for one thing, there are supposed to be Easter egg hunts. It seems that some little flop-eared rabbit gets around leaving painted hens' eggs (hard boiled). Young children are supposed to go about searching for these. It is imperative that they feel a competitive drive in this matter, for if they are not interested in being the most successful, they are abnormal. Really it seems foolish to think of all this, since nothing happens to the eggs, for we now have breakfast cereals which contain a more balanced source of nourishment than these hard-boiled eggs.

The event scheduled for later in the day varies with the locality. The important thing is that everyone wears new clothes available to the vision of many without having to go through the motion of singing traditional, stuffy hymns and

Now then, at this point we find a little variance in the lives of our American citizens. Some wear these clothes to church, and some wear them in lengthy Easter parades. The latter are much more desirable, since by doing this they can make the clothes available to the evisionn of many without having to go through the notion of singing traditional, suffy hymns and listening to the sermon of some pompous preacher, who undoubtedly means well.

The dinner at noon should center around baked ham.

Then could it be that, well, maybe, somebody sits down and thinks? Thinks about a man executed in a cruel, or rather, inhumane way, on the crest of a hill called Golgotha, the place of the skull, Calvary. You know, this event is the basis of our calendar.

Think of the death of this man called Christ, and the Burial, and then, as the soft, clear light of a rising sun shone on an empty tomb with its huge stone door removed and a body gone. Sit and think of men with a belief in a resurrection, who threw their security to the dogs, and dared the anger of the Roman Eagle and many lesser administrations for the sake of deep and new-found faith. But somehow, although enthusiasm is supposed to be short lived, and illogical, and definitely radical, this spirit has come down through the years. About 2,000 of them.

Yes, maybe someone does think, and roll hard echoes and old phrases on the tongue of imagination—"Christ is risen"—"Rabbonis"—"We have seen the risen Lord"—"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." —D. O.

Al Walker on I.D.P.A.'s First C.I.C. Honor Squad

Al Walker, Boone's leading scorer for the season, received all-conference honors when he was placed on the I.D.P.A.'s first Central Iowa Conference honor squad. John Malcom was given honorable mention.

Walker has also been named to the fifth all state team on the I.D.P.A. poll, on which Al Munson was given honorable mention.

Munson and Walker also made honorable mention in Jack North's Des Moines Register honors column.

Future Teachers Guests of B. J. C.

Members of the Future Teachers Club were guests of the Junior College Chapter of Delta Tau, a future teachers' organization, on March 11, at 7:00 p.m., in the lounge of the junior college.

A panel of girls who have been student teaching in the grade schools discussed their experiences. The group, moderated by Mrs. Ruby Johnstone, showed the work of the J.C. students, discussed lesson planning, and related amusing anecdotes about their experiences.

Following the panel discussion a movie pointing out the problems of a particular pupil was shown. An informal social session followed, at which coffee and cookies were served from a table set with a St. Patrick's Day theme.

Boone High Future Teachers who attended the meeting were: Charlotte Ashbaugh, Mary Jo Caldwell, Mary Hagaman, Lois Howard, Karen Hubby, Leila Kemmerer, Ann Senholz, and Nancy Westfall. The group was accompanied by Mr. Hal Lyness, sponsor of the Boone High Future Teachers Club.

Future Teachers from United Community and Madrid also attended the meeting.

Hometown Boys Make Good

GRINNELL.—William Herman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Herman, of 805 Park Avenue, Boone, is one of 50 students named to a special honor group of top-ranking freshmen for the first semester at Grinnell College. They are the top 25 men and top 25 women in the current freshman class.

During the second semester the group will take part in a series of meetings devoted to the discussion of intellectual and artistic subjects.

Bill also was a key performer in helping Grinnell College win the Midwest Conference freshman telegraphic swimming meet, results of which were announced this week. The Pioneers won eight of nine events to pile up 77 points to second place St. Olaf's 25.

Herman, a 1958 graduate of Boone High School, won the 220-yard butterfly and placed second in the 220-yard freestyle. He also swam on Grinnell's winning medley relay team.

Dennis Collis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth O. Collis, of 222 Story Street, Boone, is one of 99 students at Grinnell College to be named to the Dean's List for outstanding academic achievement during the first semester of this year.

The Dean's List is made up of approximately 10 per cent of the entire student body, and those listed hold the equivalent of an A-minus average or better.

This is the second time that Collis, a senior at Grinnell, has appeared on the honor list. He is a 1955 graduate of Boone High School.

I LOVE THAT PAPER—

I love the paper,
I think it's swell,
The day it comes out, I run pell mell,
To get my copy and read each line.

The stories and columns, I think are fine.

I laugh at the jokes,
I read all the ads.

I note all the news,
I take in the fads.

When I praise the paper, I scorn those who laugh.

I'm really loyal, I'M ON THE STAFF.

REMEMBER WHEN?

WITTICISMS

"Do you think that girl has ever been kissed?"

"Heavens, no! Why she won't even have her photograph retouched."

"How can you keep eating day after day in the cafeteria?"

"Oh, it's easy, I just take a table spoon of Drano three times a day."

"A rich old man and a penniless young fellow want to marry me and I'm at a loss which to choose. Which one would you marry?"

"Neither one of them. I prefer girls."

"Forty-eight hamburgers, please," the boy ordered.

The clerk looked surprised, so the boy explained, "Oh, I'm not going to eat all of them myself—I have three friends outside!"

Though I'm constantly railing at bores,
It dawned on me only today
That nothing I think of myself
Is too important to say.

A fugitive scientist from a horror picture dreamed up a serum that would bring life to inanimate objects. He first tried it on the statue of a great general in Central Park. The statue gave a quiver and instantly later came to life and climbed down from his pedestal. The scientist was overjoyed.

"I gave you life," he exalted. "Now tell me, General, what is the first thing you are going to do?"

"That's easy!" rasped the general, ripping a gun from his holster. "I'm going to shoot about two million pigeons."

"I met a boy on a park bench and he insisted on spending all our dates there as a romantic gesture, but I say it's downright cheap. Don't you agree that it is cheap?"

"Absolutely not. It costs your city plenty to maintain that park and bench."

"What an interesting mountain! There must be stories about it."

"Sure are! Once two men went up there from here and never came back."

"Goodness! What happened?"
"They went down the other side."

Caddie: "Yes, sir."

Scotch Gent: "And how are you at finding lost balls?"

Caddie: "Very good, sir."

Scotch Gent: "Well, look around and find me one and we'll start the game."

Employer: "Sorry, young man, but I don't need any help. I just couldn't find enough work to keep you busy."

Applicant: "You'd be surprised how little it takes."

"Look out!" shouted the motorist to the pedestrian he had just knocked down.

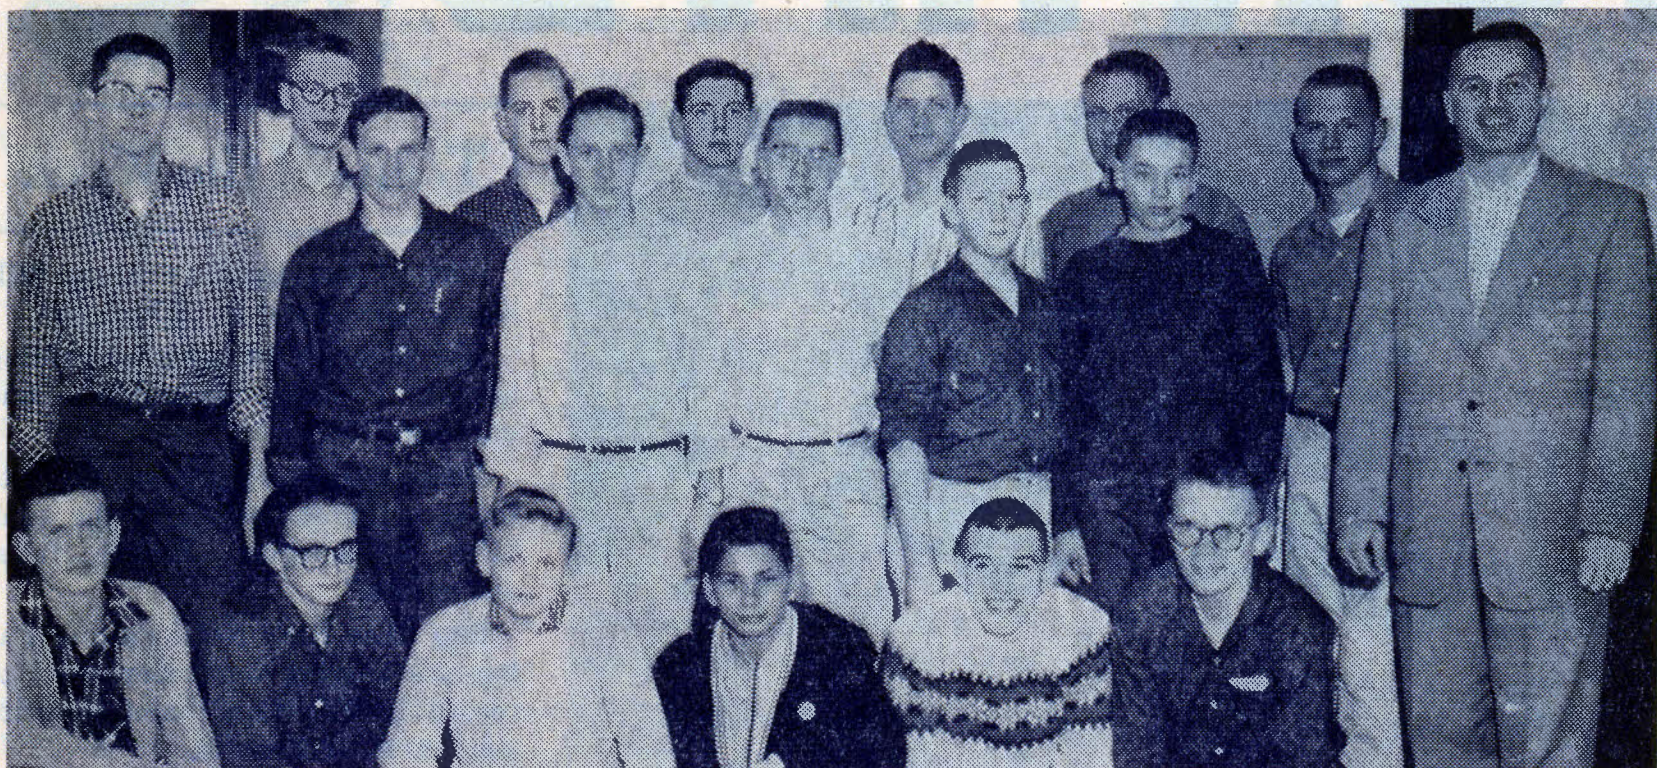

"Why?" despaired the victim. "Don't tell me you're coming back?"

Boys', Girls' B.B. Teams Attend State Tourneys

Both the boys' and girls' basketball teams attended the state basketball tournaments. The boys had planned to see the games on Friday, March 6, but due to the snow storm, the games were canceled and rescheduled for Saturday, March 7.

Members of the team who attended were: Keith Ablett, Dennis Bennett, Carroll Clabaugh, Donald Dutton, Jon Gustafson, John Malcom, Bill Monen, Alan Munson, Darrell Richards, Phil Sherbon, Kent Smith, Alan Walker, and managers Larry Ford and Leo Lortz.

The group was accompanied by Mr. Parr, Mr. Clifton, and Mr. Carroll.

On March 12 the girls' basketball team went to Des Moines to see the games of the girls' tournament. Girls from Boone High who attended were: Gail Adams, Joyce Alsin, Irene Smart, Susan Peterson, Barbara Wilhelm, Marilyn Smith, Myra Aspengren, Judy Thacker, Ginger Roby, Sharon Jones, Patty Wilhelm, Barbara Fetzner, and Mary Jane Walker.

Mrs. Judith Morris, Mr. Ralph Carroll, Mr. G. B. Moore, and Mr. Howard Stutzman accompanied the group.

Little boy: "Why is it that cream costs more than milk?"

Milkman: "Because it's harder for the cow to sit on the little bottles."

"I'm not wealthy and I don't have a yacht and convertible like Jerome Green," apologized the suitor. "But, darling, I love you."

"And I love you, too," replied the girl. "But tell me more about Jerome."

Tennis Practice Begins in Gym

Snow still hangs on the hills. And snow hangs over the head of Boone High's tennis coach, Wilmer Hokanson. The snow means no actual tennis for his squad, since the courts are not in shape.

So if you would come into the gym these evenings, you would hear the whap of tennis balls slamming into the gym walls, as his squad works out against the wall.

With this sound in the background, Hokanson spoke of the coming season on an optimistic note.

Two lettermen, Carroll Clabaugh and Don Josephson, return as seniors. Seniors Kent Smith and Dave Otto are out for their third season of tennis, as are Josephson and Clabaugh.

Hokanson feels that this year's squad represents quite a few hours of actual tennis play, and that his squad's frequent playing of tennis throughout the past summer will give them an advantage over most of the schools in the schedule.

He points out, however, that Fort Dodge's netmen will be a serious challenge, since they are in an active tennis program in that city. He is not too certain on the relative merits of the other teams on the Treador schedule.

Faith is the pencil of the soul that pictures heavenly things.—T. Burbridge.

Coaches Show Up Seniors, 59-40

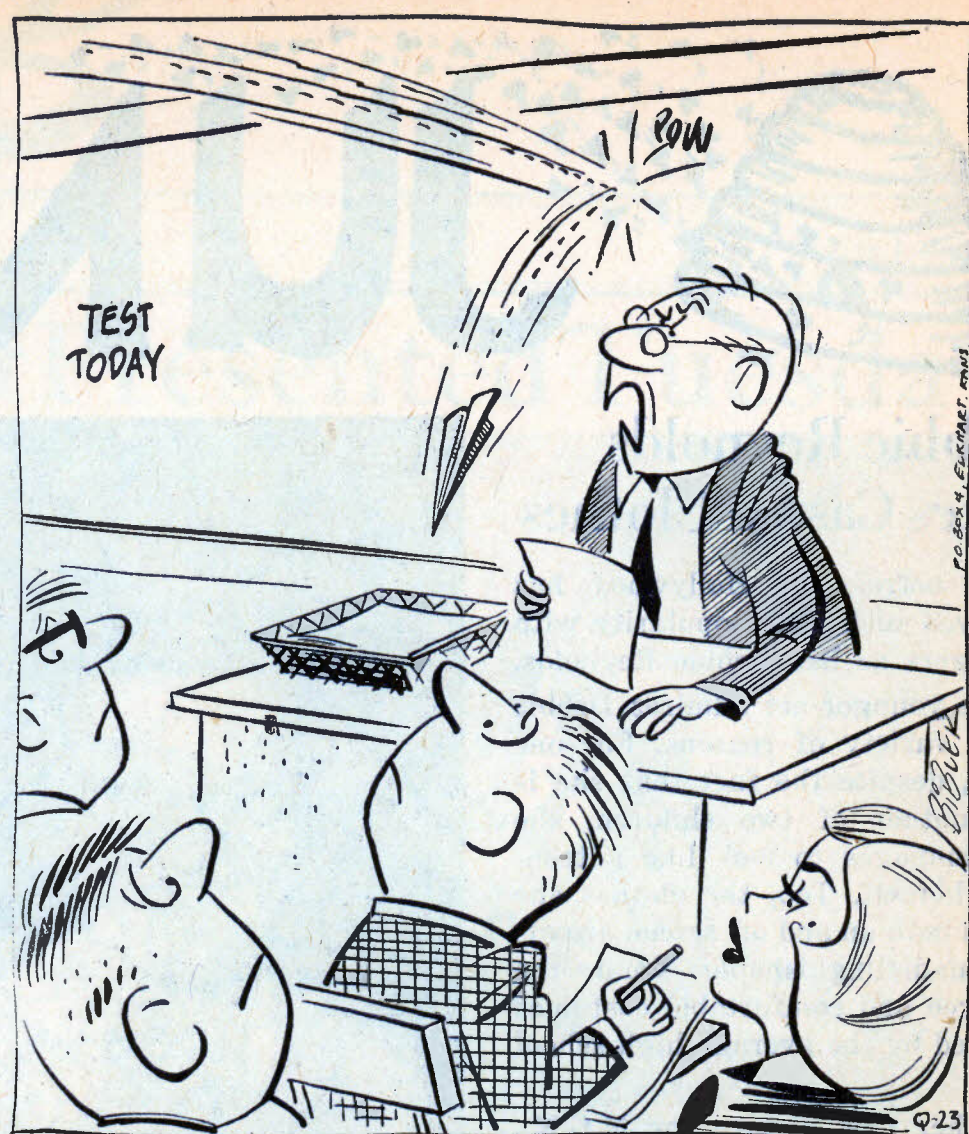

Seven of our Boone High coaches and two other teachers ran past the seniors in a basketball contest at the high school gym Tuesday afternoon. The final tally was: Coaches 59, Seniors 40.

The coaches were ahead throughout the game, leading 25-16 at the half. The seniors couldn't get anything going and the fine performances turned in by Coaches Clifton and Sapp really stopped them cold.

All nine members of the faculty team saw action, and each turned in a creditable performance. The seniors' big man, Al Walker, couldn't hit as well as usual, mainly because of a good defensive directed by Coach Clifton.

Clifton took scoring honors with 21 points, followed by Sapp with 16, Flemming 10, Harris four, Stutzman four, and Parr four.

For the seniors Munson collected 12, Monen 10, Clabaugh nine, and Walker nine.

Debbie Reynolds Likes Casual Clothes

No actress in Hollywood has achieved such wide popularity with teenagers as has Debbie Reynolds.

The younger set admires Debbie for a variety of reasons. For one thing, despite the fact that she is the mother of two children, she still manages to look like a teenager herself. Too, the clothes she wears both on and off screen are often undistinguishable from the carefree and comfortable costumes adopted by the average high school girl.

In her new picture for M.G.M., for example, 'The Mating Game,' in which she plays a tomboy role of a girl who spends a lot of time on the farm, her favorite costumes were blue jeans.

But above all, the reason for Debbie's great popularity with teenagers is that they feel she has much in common with them. They recall her activities as a high school student in Burbank, California, where Debbie was a leader in Girl Scout activities, an experienced baton twirler, a sandlot baseball player, and a prop girl and prompter in school theatricals. These are much the interests of girls in high schools today.

She was voted 'Miss Burbank of 1948' and was admittedly more thrilled with the blouse she received as a prize than with the fact that she had been seen by a talent scout. The result was a screen test and a contract.

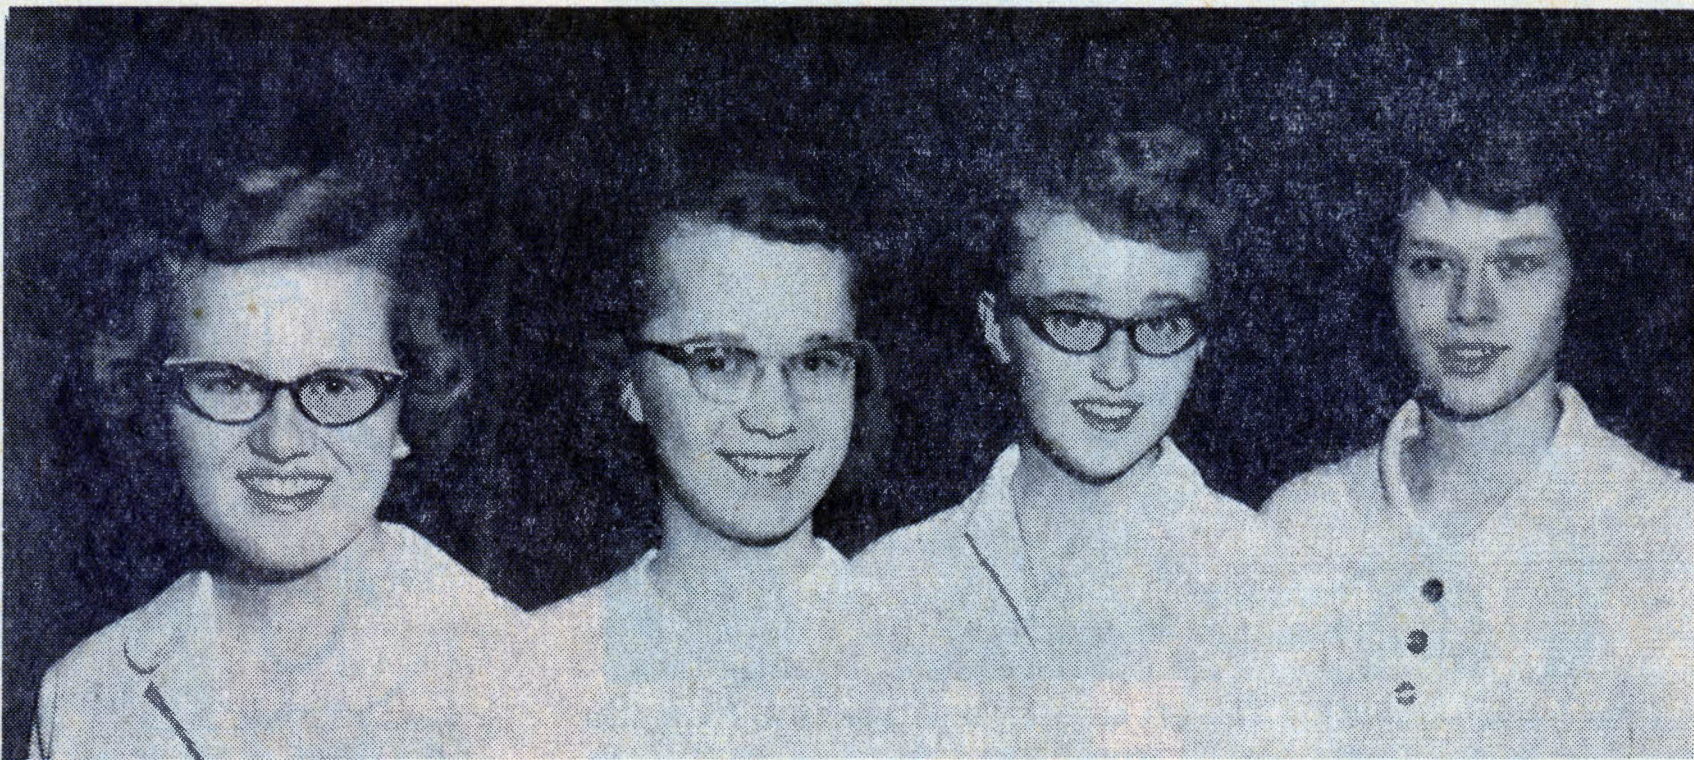

Debbie made her movie debut in 'The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady.' Following that, she was selected to portray Helen Kane, 'boop-boop-a-doop' girl of the early '30's, in the musical, 'Three Little Words.' Her performance led to an M.G.M. contract and a star build-up.

Although she is now one of Hollywood's most-in-demand feminine stars, Debbie has never gone 'high-hat,' another reason for the affection and respect she has won from her teenage fans. She has kept her contact with school friends and often shows up for reunions and other high school activities.

Here are some of the feats Debbie was called on to perform in 'The Mating Game,' story of a zany family who came at odds with the Department of Internal Revenue:

Wrangling a 350-pound boar (she even rode him for 100 feet before getting dumped); a leap out of the hayloft; driving a car at breakneck speed through a fence; jumping a spirited horse; engaging in a free-for-all during which she was unintentionally clobbered with a shovel wielded by her screen mother, Una Merkel; and flipping a lasso, at 50 paces, over the shoulders of Tony Randall, who plays her romantic vis-a-vis.

"The fact that I managed it on the first try was simply a matter of luck," says Debbie.

The newly organized freshman quartet, 'The Four Notes,' are from left to right: Kathy Roberts, Beverly Stutzman, Jan Thatcher, and Audrey Nelson. This quartet sings in barber shop style with four part harmony comparable to men's barber shop quartets. The girls have been practicing for three months and have performed once. 'The Four Notes' were to have appeared in the Boone High School talent show, but due to the illness of two members, could not perform.

..GNOSY GNAT..

Bet you can't pronounce my name! It's acutally pronounced as if it were spelled n-o-s-y n-a-t. The reason for the above spelling? None!

Were you as fooled as I was by our March blizzard? I was so sure that spring had arrived I forgot to wear my fur-lined boots and cap, and I froze my antennae. Have you ever had a frozen antennae? It tickles!

The halls of Boone High just aren't safe any more. I was taking a peaceful nap on a violin case in someone's locker when the case fell out on me. My wings were maimed for a full week. That's just one incident I've had with lockers. Some day I'm bound to get mashed by a book. Everyone throws books in the lockers so fast I'm never even warned. Humans are really puzzling!

I flew into a junior high girl's purse and really hit a bonanza. If you want the latest news, that's really the place to go. I found at least a dozen old and new pieces of paper with such newsy writing on them! I checked with my human correspondent, and he called them notes. But they sure don't sound like the notes the ninth grade girls' chorus sing. (Thank goodness!)

I've loads more to tell you, but I simply can't fly from key to key on this giant typewriter any longer.

See you soon,

Gnosy

Facts About the Ponytail

The ponytails of Boone are very lovely and the rumor that they cause one to become bald is not really a fact.

Although beauty operators have made such statements, they have been proven wrong. A woman who is 90 has had a bun, which is something like a ponytail, for about 30 years.

If you think you are becoming bald, it is for other reasons. Maybe it is a problem that operators can help you with. We would like to see the ponytail of Boone Junior High girls stay to compete with the short hair styles.

Teens of the Week

Girl of the week is Anne Williams. She lives on R.F.D. 1.

Her favorite pastimes are riding horses, bowling, swimming, and hunting.

When asked to name her favorite foods, without hesitation she said, "Um, hamburgers, French fries, and cokes."

She likes Rick Nelson's and Pat Boone's singing best. Her favorite record is 'It's Late'; and favorite subject is arithmetic.

The boy of the week is in the seventh grade and lives at 127 Seventeenth Street.

His favorites are: food, spaghetti; color, red; subject, reading; and teacher, Mrs. Yaryan.

He plans to become an air pilot. If you haven't guessed who he is by now, the boy of the week is friendly Wayne Johnson.

Jean Gauger, a freshman student, has returned to her fifth and sixth period classes after a bout with polio.
We are happy to have you back again, Jean.
