Math Classes

Top far left.: Hannah Hikiji ('18) and Ayla Brown ('18) listen to what Mrs. Gansen is teaching.
Top-left: Dalton Murphy ('16) works hard on his math.

Top-right: Joshua Ryan ('18) laughs at something funny that was said.

Right: Madisen Desher ('18) concentrates on the criteria.

Beginning of year was just a review but there was a lot of challenges.

Anna Baldwin ('16)

Koltyn Moeller ('16) looks up at the camera. All of the Boone students worked hard.

*X - The opposite of B

Sarah Schrupp ('17)

Matt Hora ('17) and Austin Harvey ('16) converse about the math they were assigned. This year the Boone High students tried hard to achieve their goals.

Dillon Calkins ('15) working hard. The students of Boone High have set the bar high for next year.

It has been an amazing year. The students have set the bar high for future students. I can't wait to see what the future holds for my Boone students.

Annie Carpenter (Teacher)

P.E. Classes

Top far left: Mitchell Yett ('15) and Jacob Cunningham ('16) listen to Mr. Eastland explain that day's workout.

Top far right: Summer Thielen ('15) does some lunges.

Right: Hannah Anderson ('15) exercises by doing kettle bell swings.

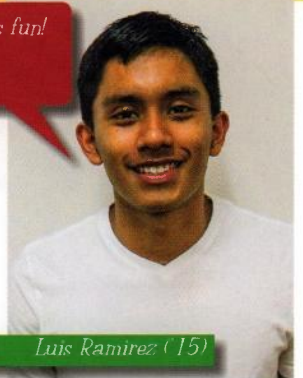

Charlie Eastland observes the students as they participate and work well in class.

Overall I feel that our PE classes were a success. We offer a wide variety of classes for students to take from strength and conditioning in a weight room to recreational activities in the gym and aquatic activities in the pool. I would encourage students to sign up for one of the PE options they want to learn about and/or enjoy participating in.

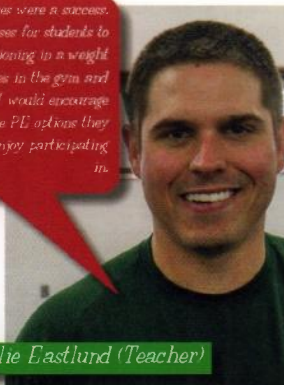

A close up shot of Boone's new weight lifting facility which students and teachers alike view as a good investment.

It was fun!

Luis Ramirez ('15)

Charlie Eastlund (Teacher)

P.E. was fun because I was able to reach my fitness goals.

Guan Lin ('15)

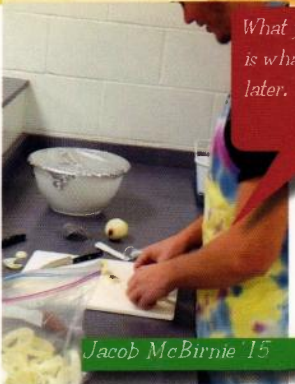

Students in strength and conditioning work on box jumps. The students in this class primarily do weight lifting activities.

FCS

 Top Left: Textiles students show off their designs.
 Top Far Right: Housing students finish up their project.
 Left: An apple made to look like a bird. They took a simple apple and turned it into art.
 Right: Food made to look like a tree and another apple made to look like a swan.

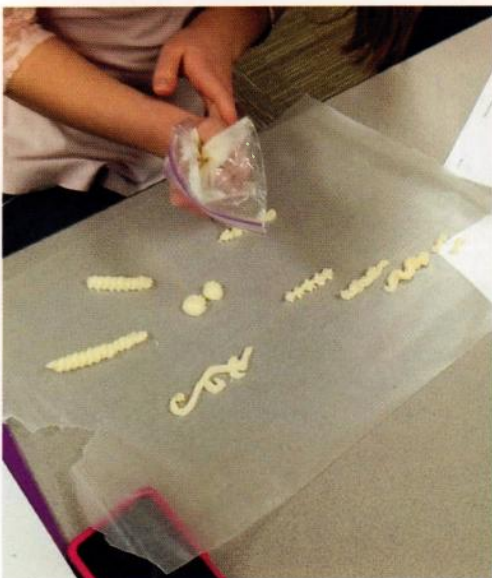

What you strive for now is what you will get later.

Jacob McBirnie '15

Next Rachel Ray.

Caitlin Moorman '15

Left: A student using dough to make creative designs. Students spent a chapter in foods working with dough.

Above: Student rolling dough.

Cook what tastes good, not just what looks good.

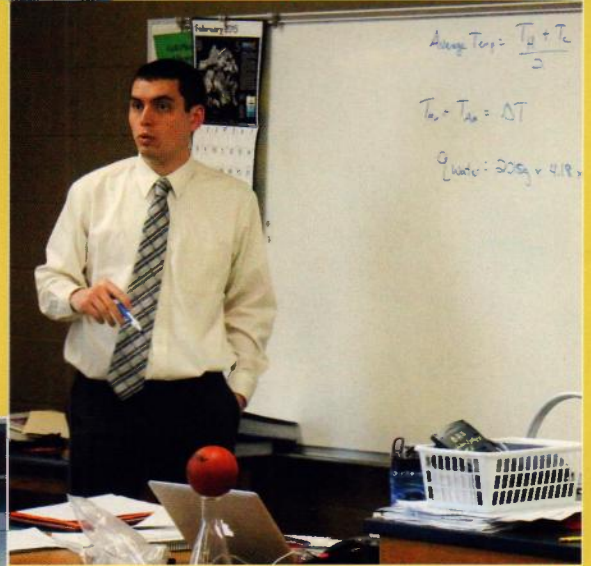

Nathan Haynes '16

Science

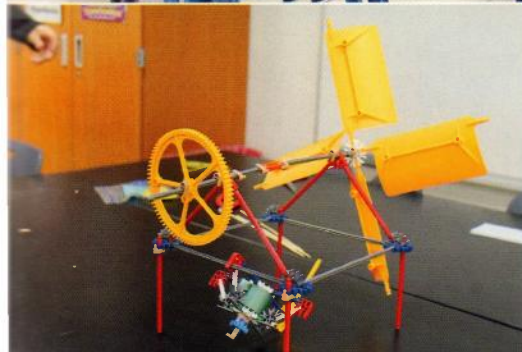

Left: Students working on squid dissections for Mrs. Lumley's Marine Biology class. They had to take out the spleen and examine the insides.

Right: Mr. Baute teaching his student chemistry equations. The students then had to calculate the average temperature of different word problems.

Homemade windmill for RET.

I like interactive learning with chromebooks.

Erin Castle '15

I liked watching whales explode. P.S. did you know that volcanoes don't get angry?

Katharina Commins '15

Forensic students testing a crime scene for finger prints and DNA evidence.

Harrison Smith's face when the smell hit him.

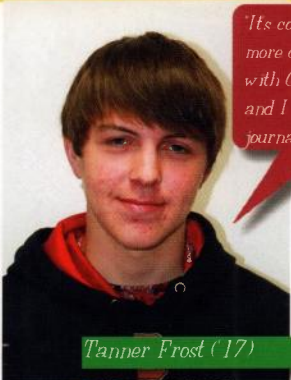

Kiley Jones '15

English

Left: Alexandria Mullins and Serena Sandvig ('15) present their satire to the class. Mrs. Dupis's DMACC Composition 106 is packed full of fun chapters--such as satire.
Right: Mrs. Grotzke's Sophomore class silently reads To Kill a Mockingbird. The class enjoyed reading a book with regional dialect.
Below: Mrs. Schuler's Freshman class studies Romeo and Juliet. The Freshman got to challenge themselves by reading the play outloud.

It's cool to get into some more classic literature with Grotzke and Kramer and I hope to get into journalism.

Tanner Frost ('17)

Quote from the person in the picture. Quote from the person in the picture. Quote from the person in the picture. Quote from the person.

Hannah Anderson ('15)

Mr.Kramer and Mykell Clinton ('15) help Laura Anderson ('17) name people on her yearbook page. Students in Journalism 1 and 2 worked hard to make the yearbook.

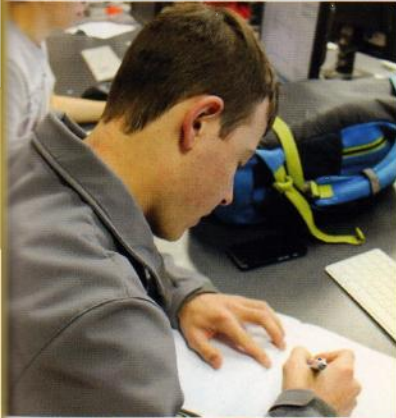

Skyler Eslinger ('17) and Wesely Wilmes('17) read along.

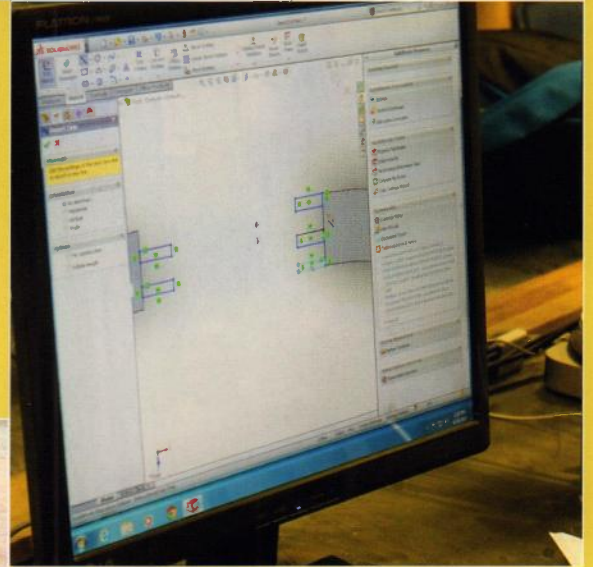

I feel that the English classes at Boone High School really helped to improve my skills in writing. It really prepares people for college.

Alton Miller ('15)

Industrial Tech

Left: Ben Weldon ('15), sketched a design on graph paper. The design he is creating is how a moped spinner would work. Right: The program solidworks was worked on for engineering. Two connectors are being combined into a steering wheel. Below: Trevor Elsberry ('18) uses a hammer to nail his box together. He is using the box to get a basic knowledge of creating an object with wood.

Being able to do things with my hands that will apply to the real world is my favorite part about this class.

Levi Patterson ('18)

The coolest part about this class was using solidworks and working with 3D printing.

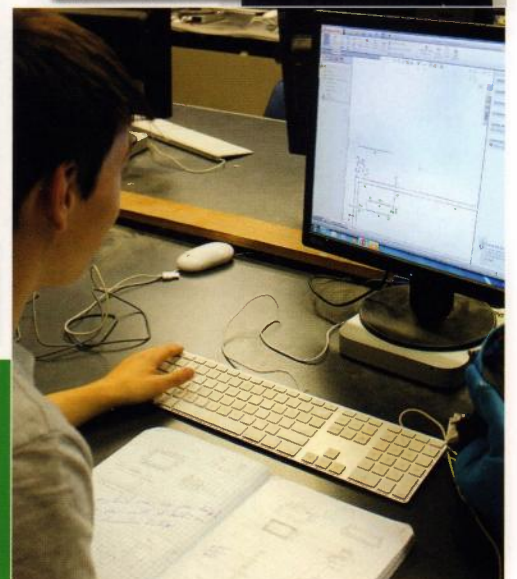

Kaleb Fuentes ('16)

I like this class because it allows me the ability to create whatever I want to create.

Logan MacRunnel ('16)

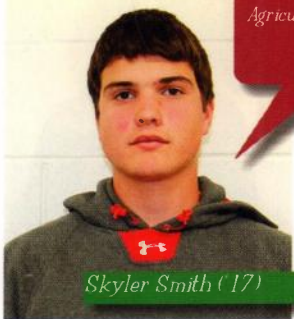

Michael Foley ('17) observed his creation for a steering system. He then is putting his creation onto the computer.

Agriculture

Students in Agriculture classes studying the cycle of plants, as well as experimenting with soil around the town. They learn from basics of where food comes from to learning more about animal science.

"I really enjoyed learning new information about the Agriculture Industry."

Skyler Smith ('17)

"Agriculture classes have taught me about more than just animals and tractors. they have helped me find what I want to do when I grow up."

Erica Mehlhaus ('15)

Students Cade Burma ('16) and Zachary Hockemeier ('15) testing soil at Geoppinger Field.

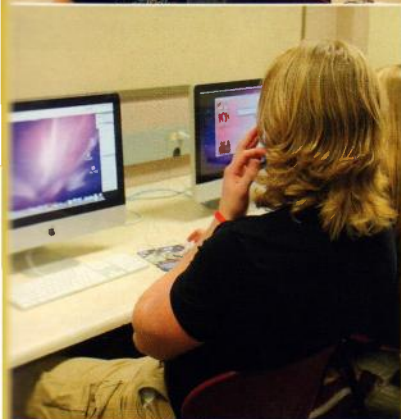

"I like being involved in the future of agriculture. we also have a little fun too."

Cade Burma ('16)

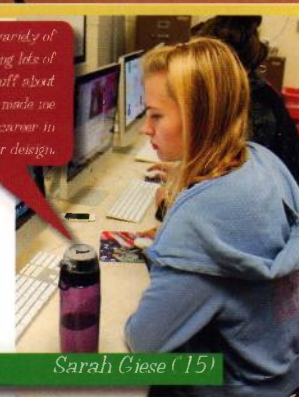

Computer

Students engaging in learning many different computer applications, such as graphic designing, audio and video production, coding and web designing.

I loved working on a variety of projects and learning lots of interesting and useful stuff about computers. This class made me decide to go into a career in computer design.

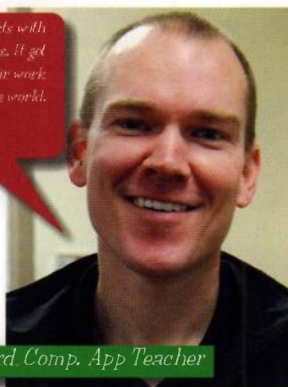

Sarah Giese ('15)

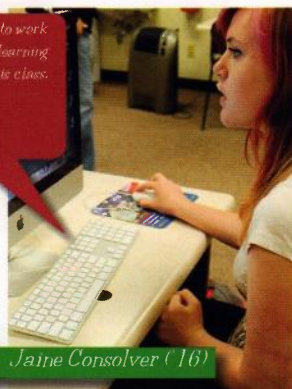

Hans Anderson ('17) and Mr. Bravard working on graphic designing.

I really enjoyed the projects with the real world applications. It got the students to see how their work in class affects the world.

Mr. Bravard Comp. App Teacher

I was glad to learn how to work in movie production and learning how to use iMovie in this class.

Jaine Consolver ('16)

Dante McWilson ('15) learning more about different computer applications that could be used in his everyday life.

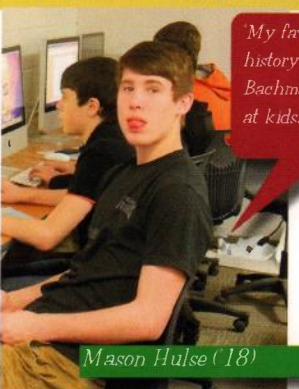

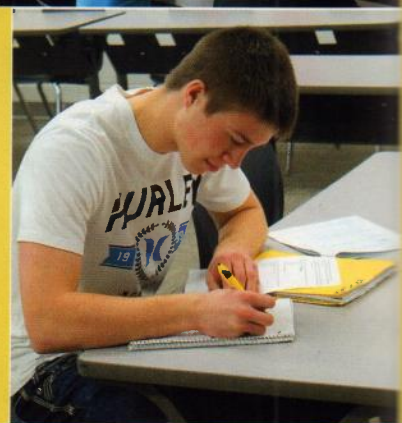

History

Left: Freshman students attentively learn in World Studies. This class is taught by John Bachman.

Right: Jake Escher ('16) takes notes from the lesson.

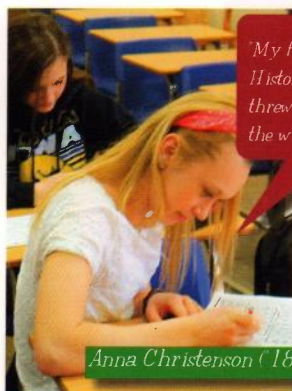

My favorite memory in history class was when Bachman randomly yelled at kids.

Mason Hulse ('18)

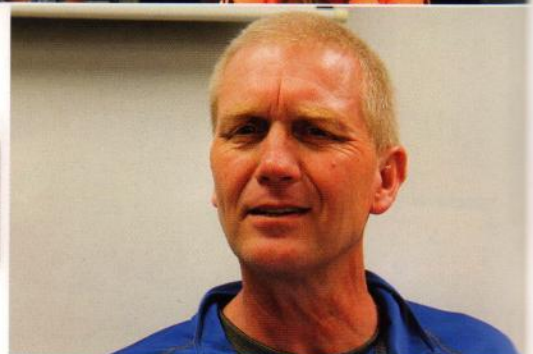

Above: American History teacher, Dave Schrieber, lectures his students.

My favorite memory in History was when Bachman threw Kalei Bock's shoe out the window.

Anna Christenson ('18)

Above: Teacher, John Bachman poses for a picture in class.

My favorite memory in History was when Bachman pointed at New Mexico on the map and said it was New Jersey.

Mitchell Moore ('18)

Buisness

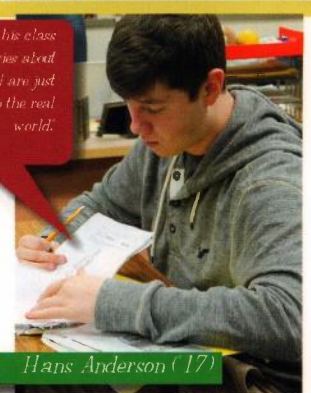

Right: Student Ethan Lewis ('17) works on his homework. He is involved in General Buisness.

Left: Joey Cornelis ('16) Reads through the book in general business class. This is Dobelis' last year at Boone High.

"Favorite memory of his class was his life long stories about college and high school are just everyday compared to the real world."

Hans Anderson ('17)

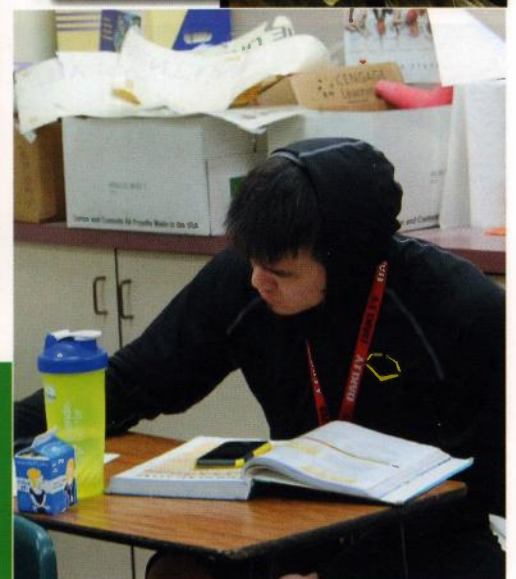

Student Gabby Fuentes ('17) works at her desk.

"My favorite memory has to be when he talks about his dream of owning a bread truck."

Greg Paul ('17)

Right: Student, Ian Herrick ('16) studies at his desk. He is in one of Dobelis' Accounting classes.

"I always enjoyed the quotes he would repetitively use such as 'This is candyland'."

Zane Hehnke ('17)

Spanish

Left: Members of the Spanish Club went to the Boone Movie Theater to watch "The Book of Life". The movie is based off of the Day of the Dead which the club studied.

Right: Spanish Teacher Mr. Sallen taught Spanish I about the basics of Spanish. He is reviewing over a worksheet with his students. Below: Spanish III used the iPads for a project Mrs. Anderson assigned them to. The project is based off of a hispanic music research study.

Going on the Spain trip was my favorite part I liked the food there and seeing all the interesting sites.

Spencer Peterson ('15)

My favorite part of Spanish is the interactivity and just the atmosphere in the room.

Ezekial Pearson ('16)

Gabriel Kraficisin('17) does individual work in Spanish II. He is focusing on the diffrenet tenses in the language.

This is my fourth year of spanish and my instard you having Mrs. Anderson. I have so far enjoyed this year because now you get to know the teacher the class becomes more fun.

Bridgette Alexander ('16)

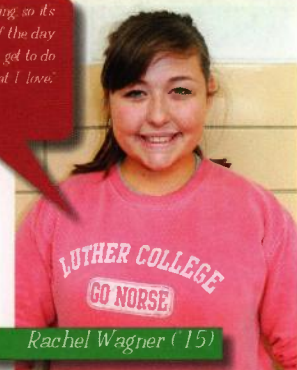

Choir

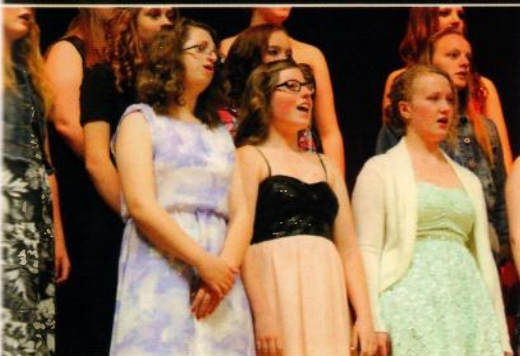

Right: Connor Peterson('18) and Katelyn Mehlhaus('18) sing solos along to The Phantom of the Opera. They recieved the solos after having to audition for the parts. Left: Catherine Sikes('16) and Anna Baldwin('16) practice using a piano The Water Is Wide for an upcoming concert. Below: Choir Director, Mrs. Earll, leading Chorale during the song O Mary, Don't You Weep. The song involves a slow melody that students need to watch for.

"I've always liked to sing so it's my favorite part of the day because at the end I get to do what I love."

Rachel Wagner ('15)

"Mr. Earll has a good connection with her students and that helps everyone enjoy choir."

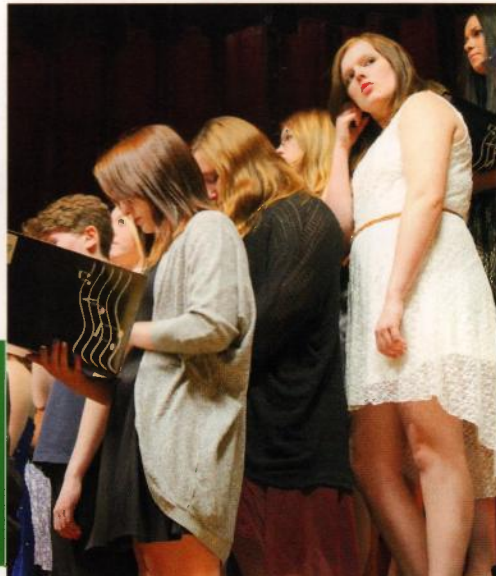

Isidro Gonzalez ('17)

"I like how we get to perform in other places for chorale we get to go to two different drivers and we also want to a church."

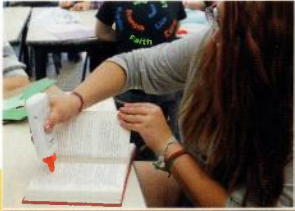

Mikayla Eppert ('17)

Taylor Irwin('17) sings with the alto section Richard Rodgers in Concert. If preformers needed to use sheet music they were allowed to have their folder.

Art

Left: In advanced painting, Isabella Fraetis ('15) paints her angel of color. She precisely planned each stroke.

Right: Elizabeth Coleman ('17) is gently rounding out the eyes in her painting. Eventually, she created a beautiful portrait of herself.

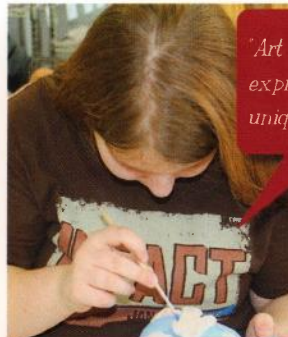

"Without ART Earth would just be eh."

Alyssa Bingaman ('15)

Kate Peasley ('18) built a castle out of cardboard.

"Art is a way to express your uniqueness in school."

Ainsley Schuler ('17)

The craft's class worked together to quilt the BHS mascot.

As an advanced sculptor, Ellen Titman ('15) portrays her clay Santa Claus being put in the kiln.

"I love how in art class you're given an assignment and it's up to your imagination to make it come alive."

Brigitte Alexander ('16)

Orchestra

Left: The orchestra performs on November 11, 2014. The cello and violin section working together in perfect unison.

Right: Brigitte Alexander ('16) intently plays her violin in Orchestra class. She is preparing for their concert on May 1st, 2015.

Alyssa Bingaman ('15) practices playing her cello .

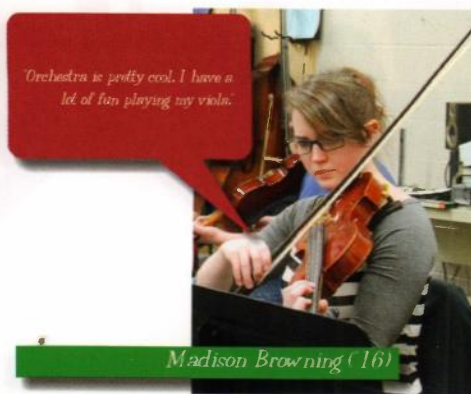

"I really like to play my viola and spend time with my friends during the class."

Mary Peterson ('15)

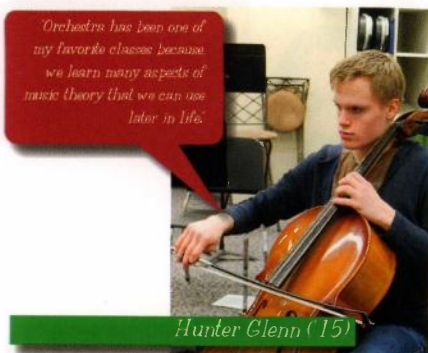

Benjamin Boesen ('15) plays "The Devil Went Down to Georgia."

"Orchestra is pretty cool. I have a lot of fun playing my viola."

Madison Browning ('16)

"Orchestra has been one of my favorite classes because we learn many aspects of music theory that we can use later in life."

Hunter Glenn ('15)

Rachel Edmondson ('15) focuses intently on playing her violin in Orchestra. Her music flowing with all of the other students.

Band

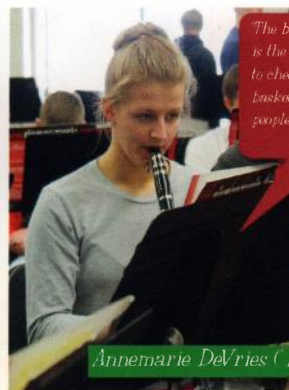

During the class, instructor Chris Truckenmiller will guide the band students during different music pieces that they perform throughout the year such as during the contests and the concerts at the high school.

"I loved Band because of all the opportunities we get together and to work our way up."

Michaela Lendt ('15)

"The best thing about band for me is the community there is... getting to cheer on the football team and basketball team and get the people pumped is exciting!"

Annemarie DeVries ('17)

Student Kayla Williams ('16) playing the clarinet while practicing for the choir and band contest.

Flute players practicing during class.

"I enjoyed participating in band because I got to be a part of the percussion section."

Connor Tharp

1997-2014

Connor Tharp attended Boone schools from 2005-April of 2013. While in Boone he participated in Middle school and High school wrestling. When he was younger he also participated in soccer and basketball. He enjoyed art in high school as well as skeet and clay shooting, hunting, camping, fishing, and attending youth group at Grace Community Church. He loved his Mom, Dad, and brothers Brett and Mason. Connor loved people and had a very compassionate heart.
