YEAR BOOK OF BOONE HIGH SCHOOL PUBLISHED BY THE SENIOR CLASS

Foreword

To record in enduring and organized form the personnel of Boone High School and its activities during the past school year; to publish a book that will be a worthy and accurate product of the Senior Class of 1923, has been our purpose in preparing this Scroll.

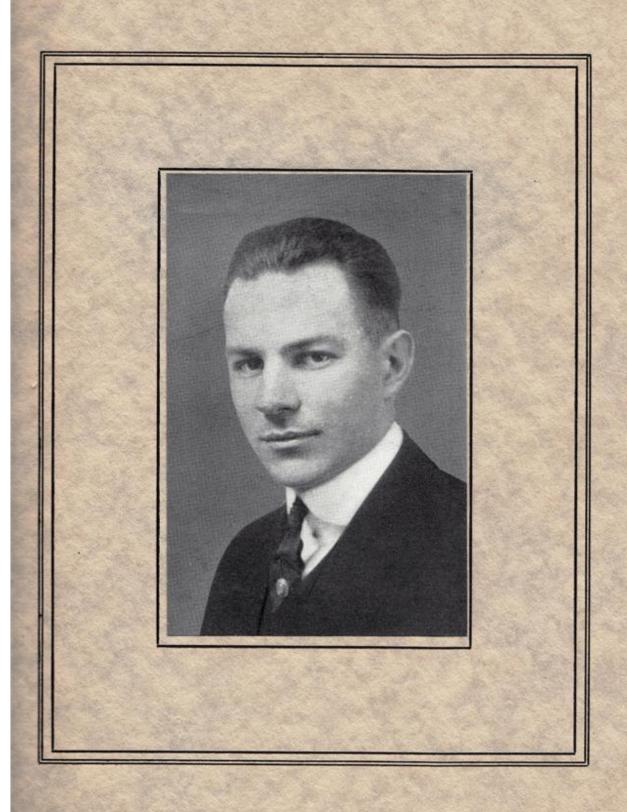

BOONE HI has long been crowded, but better conditions are in sight. In March the citizens of Boone voted in favor of a bond issue which among other things is to provide a new wing for the building, to face the north, and to join with the present building in the west side. After the completion of this wing the school organization will be slightly changed, and with the present ninth grade, the grammar school pupils, and the seventh grades from the ward buildings, a Junior High will be formed—both Junior and Senior Highs to use the enlarged building.

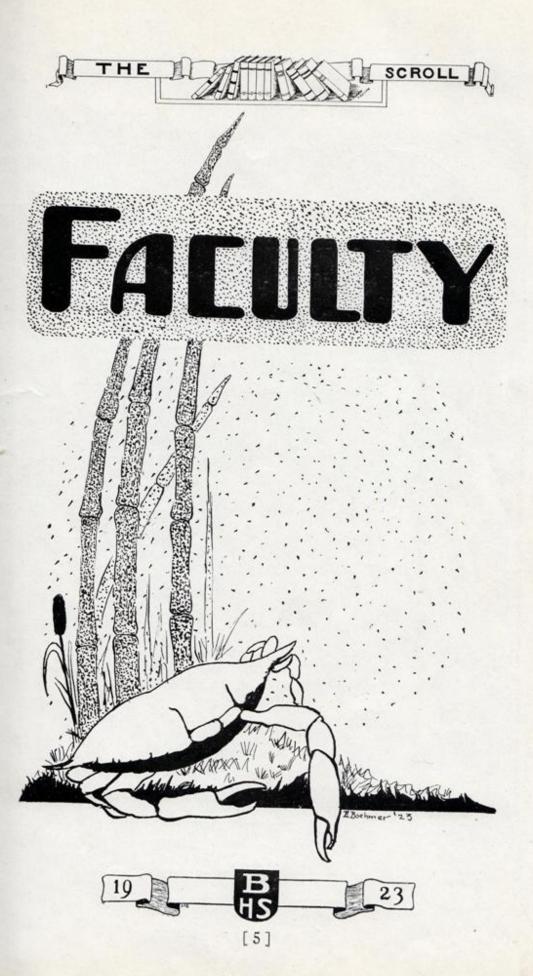

To that good pilot for the right, with purpose true; friend, of righteous bearing and best intent; worker for high ideals; teacher of the best accomplishments; example of patience and of grit supreme; good scout; good sport, always, win or lose — the Scroll of 1923, with these words of affection and true admiration, is most respect-: fully dedicated : :

To Mr. Umbreit,

In Memoriam

JUST away! Thus it seems to the Boone High pupils and faculty who were very saddened by the death of a teacher and a friend. As a teacher Mr. Gaines was careful, faithful and painstaking. He was assiduous in looking after the interests of his pupils. In whatever was undertaken his ardent nature made him an enthusiast. He never did anything in a half-hearted way. He gained early and never lost the confidence and esteem of his associates. Through noble and generous qualities of heart, he secured the warmest attachment of his friends. Although cut down in early manhood, he lived long enough to establish a character for honor, usefulness, and devotion to duty.

"Betty and Bobby Freshman Misbehave"

Bedtime Stories for Freshies.

"Betty and Bobby Freshman," warned Mamma Freshman, "If you misbehave once more, I can assure you, you won't go to the big party. Remember now, be good."

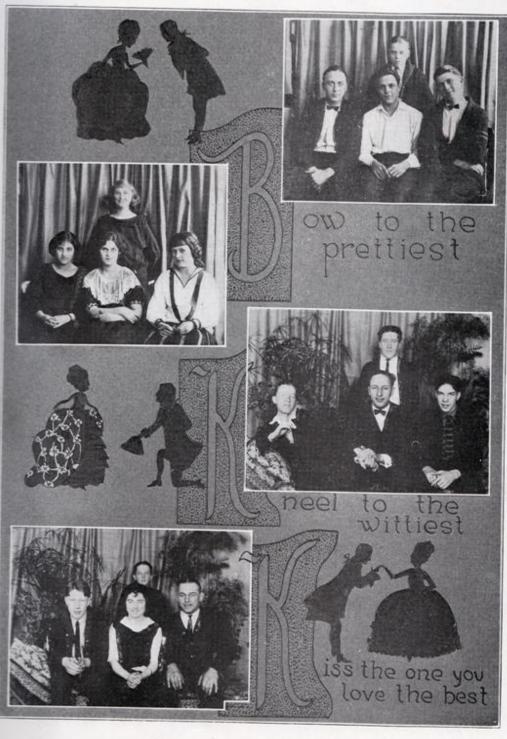

So Betty and Bobby started for school in their Kiddy-Kar, but they didn't give a thought to the warnings of Mamma Freshman. They cut across corners and went up the wrong side of the street and were generally naughty. They stopped a long while to talk to Jim Hookey, a bad little boy who never went to school, and so when they reached school they found that the last bell had rung.

They were so frightened that instead of walking up the sidewalk they ran across the green lawn. The janitor caught them on the lawn and was just about to take them to the principal when he relented on seeing tears in Betty's eyes.

So Betty and Bobby got in school finally, but they had to stay an extra hour for being tardy, and because they didn't know their lessons they got very bad, bad grades. And when Mamma Freshman found out how bad Bobby and Betty had been she didn't let them go to the party. Moral: Obey your mother.
