

The modern high school boy is like a blotter: he can soak up all the sentiment and flattery a girl has to offer him without ever spilling a drop.

Cynthia Crary—(Seeing a water wagon for first time.) "Oh, lookit, what the man has on his wagon to keep us from riding on hehind."

She probably thought that it was another coal wagon.

AN APPRECIATION

The Scroll Staff has been assisted in putting out this annual by a number of underclassmen and interested persons. Their willingness and helpfulness has had a great part in making this Scroll what it is.

Our advertisers should receive especial credit, for if it had not been for them it would have been impossible to have a Scroll at all.

To Mr. J. B. Hughes we are especially grateful for his help in the photographic make-up of this book. To Mr. A. G. Umbreit, for his spirit of co-operation we are also grateful. We express our thanks to the following who have helped us materially: F. C. Coulson, Mr. G. S. Wooten, Mary Merrick, Ruth Short, Harry Lewis, Ted Beck, Loraine Ellis, Harold Pohl.

Ed. Boehmer: "A movable settee for girls."

It takes a mother many years to make a man out of her son—and a high school girl but a few minutes to make a fool of him.

Barney's idea of "safety first" consists of getting tangled up with a lot of girls in order to avoid getting tied up to one.

The faculty have at last discovered why the Boone Hi boys are so eager for a "B", the freshmen boys tell us that the "B" man can have any girl he pleases.

Soft, sweet things with a lot of fancy dressings—that's what a Freshman likes to eat, but a Senior prefers to date with.

True love in a high school boy is evidenced by his perfect willingness to make an utter fool of himself.

Miss Ford—(To history class) "We will take Washington's life tomorrow so come prepared."

In a recent test in English VII Miss Cruikshank asked for some of Shakespeare's plays, she received the following answers: King Liar, A Merchant of Venus, Old Fellow, McBath, Omlet, and A Midnight's Scream.

These pupils probably thought that Shakespeare's best poem was "Venice and Adenoids."

Brown's Good Scheme

YOUNG BROWN has made a discovery that is quite profitable to him. He has learned that he can make more than 100% profit by investing some of his spare pocket money.

Here is his plan:

He frequently has a dollar or two that is easily spent if carried around but is also easily saved if put away at the right time.

Brown makes it a rule to go to the bank every week and deposit as much as he can spare—even a dollar or two at one time.

The very fact that he saves this money pays him 100% profit for it is all gain to him. And the bank pays him interest on this money, too.

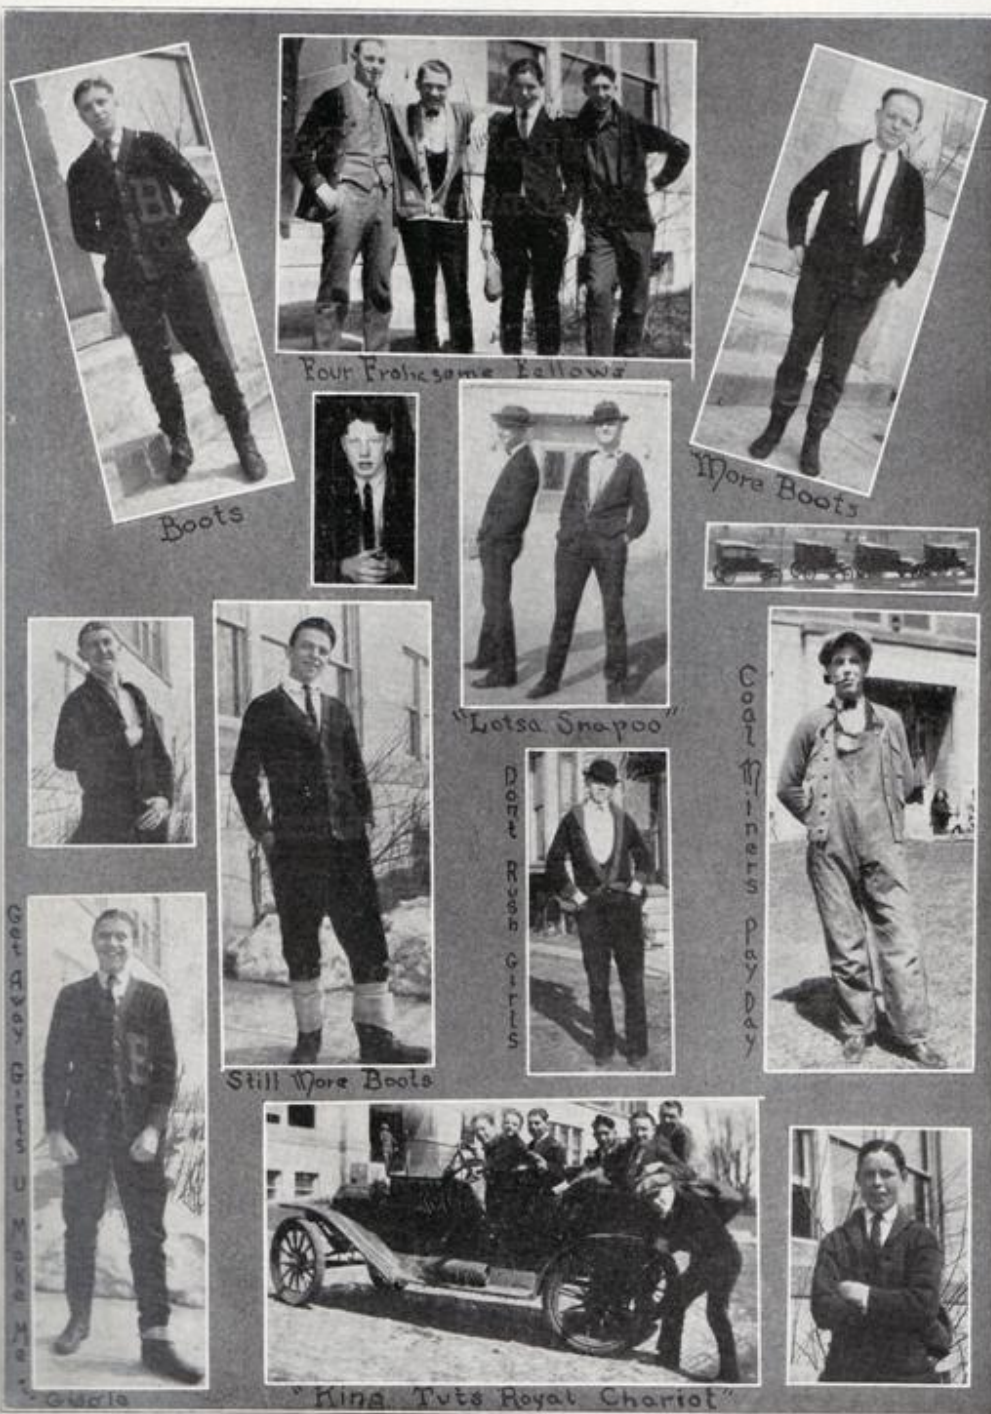

What do you think of his scheme?

Bright Boy—"Counted all the legs and divided by four."

High Muck—(Out west, with a dead auto) "Got a monkey wrench?"

Wild and Woolly—"Got a sheep ranch, who the dickens wants a monkey ranch?"

Packy and Lamb were having an argument one day about the five senses, each claiming they had the most acute senses. The following is one of their arguments:

Packy—"Do you see that barn over there on the horizon?"

Lamb—"Yes."

Packy—"Can you see that fly walking ing around on the roof of the barn?"

Lamb—"No-o-o." (Pause.) "But I can hear the shingles crack when steps on them."

Clarence White, Mgr.

Harold Sandelius tells us of this thrilling experience he had when he was in the Rocky Mountains on a bear hunt:

"One day I had left my camp and had taken my horse and rifle out, to do a little scouting. After I had rode for about an hour I sighted two bears about one hundred yards distant. I pulled up my rifle and fired at them, injuring them both. Then they started after me and I wheeled my horse around and started to retreat over the treacherous mountain path. As I rode along the path became more narrow, and I began to see that if I didn't do something quick I would be overtaken. Looking ahead I saw the place where the path ended, now would be my chance. So spurring my horse to its utmost I rode over the edge of the cliff and plunged down through empty space. When I got about ten feet from the ground I hollered "whoa" and I wasn't jarred a bit."

Sandy—"Don't know."

Man in a hurry—"Walter, bring me some turtle soup, and make it snappy."

"Column right," remarked the book-keeper as he saw the accounts balanced.

"That's the guy I'm laying for," said the hen as the farmer entered the barnyard.

"You surely are fresh," cackled the hen to the new laid egg.

"This is a case for a clever lawyer," quoth the bootlegger on his way to court as he hid away a dozen in the back end of his limousine.

"No," said the dentist to a patient who was opening his purse, "don't trouble to pay me in advance."

"I'm not," flashed back the patient. "I'm only counting my money before you give me gas."

We have in our midst a real track man, in the person of Randall Ewalt. Why, he can run so fast that his heels keep catching in his hind pockets, that's what slows him down, so much.

S. M.—"I hear you have given up Ruth."

H. N.—"Yes, I thought she was perfect, but last night I found something about her that I didn't like."

S. M.—"What?"

DIRECTIONS FOR BOILING WATER

For this operation secure one of those stunning crepe knit paisley skirts, rather long, and trimmed with contrasting beige; a white linen blouse and brushed wool best go to make up this charming outfit, which is very serviceable and can be used effectively with this costume,
the colored ones being best at this writing.

Turn on the water in the kitchen sink (if bill has been paid within year); repair to kitchen cabinet and remove one kettle. Return to sink and hang kettle over faucet. When kettle is full, stop.
Assist kettle to gas range. Place kettle on any unoccupied burner. If not already lit light same with match. Allow kettle to remain on range for fifteen minutes. When one-half of former quantity of water has evaporated it is safe to assume that the water is boiled. Steam on the windows may be used effectively in washing same.

"Mrs. Clancy, yer child is badly spoiled."

"Gawan, wid yez."

"Well, if ye don't believe me come and see what the steam roller did to it."

Orator—"Whither are we rolling?
First was the stone age, then the bronze age, iron age, steam age and now—?"

Bright Boy—"Marriage."

"Pine Knot," said the maple to the weeping willow.

"I'll bite, what is it?" said the mosquito to his mate, as they landed on the wax model.

Dan Waterman—"I was walking down
the street the other day and a man mistook me for Mr. Harding."

Bus DuBois—"Oh, that's nothing. The other day when I was walking down the street a cop ran up to me and said, 'Holy Moses, is that you?'"

I gave my girl a lipstick for her birthday and she gave back half of it when she thanked me for it.

Jim Hindorff—"I'll see you Friday night then."

Iva F.—"But what if it rains?"

Jim Hindorff—"I'll see you Thursday night then."

HAVE YOU DECIDED?

What your lifework will be? If you are not sure, we wish to call your attention to the possibilities of Osteopathy. Originated by Andrew Taylor Still in 1874, this new art has steadily advanced, gaining recognition everywhere. Other drugless systems have also prospered, but Osteopathy is still the leader and will remain so. Osteopathy has a course of four years of nine months, and graduates men who are physicians in every sense of the word.

Osteopathic Physicians have in the E. R. A. (Electronic Reactions of Abrams) a new and valuable drugless system for the diagnosis and treatment of all the Major infections, including Cancer and Tuberculosis. This is a diagnosis by measuring the energy of disease, and treatment by electronic vibrations, which is effective where cure is possible.

Des Moines General Hospital is soon to be housed in a new building, costing $350,000, and the free clinics for Tonsil removal every Tuesday and Saturday, are becoming daily more popular.

We recommend for your consideration either the American School of Osteopathy, Kirksville, Mo., or Des Moines Still College of Osteopathy, Des Moines, Iowa.

Dear Hooty:—

Well Hooty, I was out walking with the rancher's daughter today. She sure is a Susie—all the boys say she's the prettiest girl on the ranch. Well, her teeth is a little crooked and one eye is glass, but honest, Hooty, you'd never tell it just to look at her offhand. Her nose is kind of flat too, but when you look at her from the front, you don't notice it at all.

We walked kinda slow on account she's clubfooted. I had my hand on the hump in her back helping her along. We sure had a nice walk.

The nicest thing about this girl, Hooty, is that she isn't of the giddy kind. She never even look at any one only me and I notice none of the boys tries to flirt with her as I guess they can see how crazy she is over me.

It's tough on the boys as she's the only girl on the ranch, but I can't help it because all the women go crazy over me, can I Hooty?.

WHICH FACE

It was lunch hour at the lime works, and Pat's two buddies decided to play a little joke on him during his absence, and drew the features of a donkey upon the back of his coat, which he had left behind. In due time Pat returned and presently hove in sight bearing the lime-decorated coat.

"What's the trouble, Pat?" asked one, trying to appear indifferent.

"Nothin'", returned Pat, equally indifferent, "only I'd like to know which one of yez wiped your face on me coat."

THE LAUNDRY.

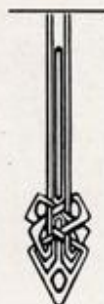

The public laundry is inevitable, necessary, desirable and has come to stay. With the growth in number and business of the public laundry has come a study by the associations of laundry owners of the science of laundering. The laundry subjects the fabrics to no rougher usage than the home laundress does and usually gets the fabrics cleaner.

The user injures many fabrics so that a trip to the laundry merely serves to bring out the injury. Sticking pins into cloth usually breaks a few fibers, which later give way during washing and start a hole. Catching a shirt waist on a rough place in the furniture, or bed linen on the corner of a spring, will cause a small tear or weaken a few fibers, which even gentle laundering will break and use as the start of a tear or a hole. Cutting bread on the tablecloth or drawing a knife edge or fork prongs over the tablecloth and napkins causes almost invisible injuries which the laundry is sure to make visible.

Occasionally the fabric itself is at fault. The thread in one direction may be excellent, but in the "filling" may be paper or other inferior material. Knotted threads in the second quality of fabrics cause trouble as the knots stand out and get rough treatment in use or in ironing, tearing the thread and starting a fault which subsequent laundering accentuates. Cloth may be improperly dyed so that the chemicals used or the process of dyeing weakens the cloth appreciably.

The laundryman causes damage in some cases, but usually the fault is with the fabric or with the use to which it has been subjected.—Albert Parsons Sachs in The New York Evening Mail.
