

FOREWORD

PRESENT THIS VOLUME OF THE 1930 SCROLL

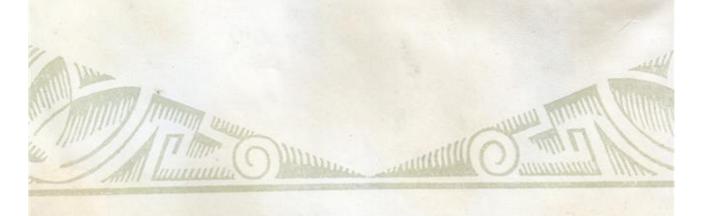

TO THE STUDENTS, that in future years our book may serve as a reminder of pleasant friendships and all the joys of high school days;

TO THE ALUMNI, that they may keep in touch with their Alma Mater;

TO OUR FRIENDS, that they may follow the progress made in Boone High School;

TO OUR PARENTS, especially, that they may know our appreciation of their love and care, which have made it possible for us to enjoy the advantages of Boone High School.

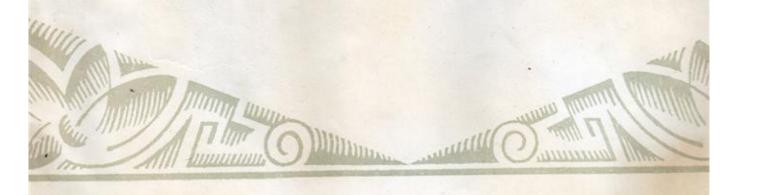

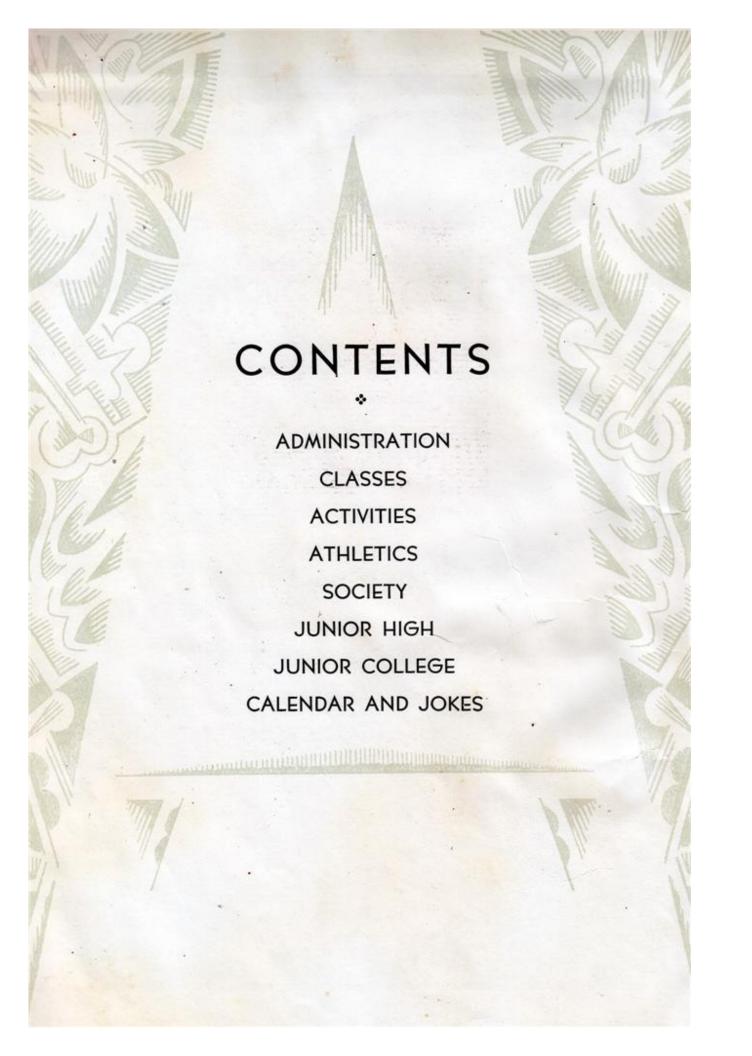

DEDICATION

TO OUR PARENTS

In appreciation of their loving sacrifices,
we dedicate
this 1930 Scroll.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORY OF MISS LYDIA JANE ROLSTON, HEAD OF THE MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT OF BOONE HIGH SCHOOL.

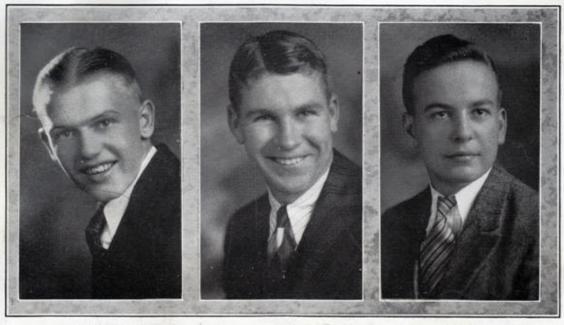

Her strength of character, devotion to her work, and sincerity of purpose won for her the love and respect of the community which she served faithfully and efficiently for more than a quarter of a century.

CLASSES

MORGAN

HAKES

CLASS OFFICERS

President

Al is a very popular chap who has accomplished a great deal in his easy going manner. He holds several pool records and during this swimming season has never been defeated. Besides that, he's a great football and baseball player. His cherubic smile is the delight of all who know him.

Vice-President

Even if Noel's athletic ability had not earned him a place of fame in our school his personality would have made him just as popular. He is equally well known as the captain of our football team and as the owner of the above hearty grin.

Secretary-Treasurer

Kenny has in his eye a merry twinkle that bespeaks a love of fun and mischievous pranks. He is one of those talented lads whose services are so much in demand, for he can play the piano and sing equally well. But, above all, he has a genial nature that speaks for itself.

SENIORS

MARGARET ALEXANDER

Class Will

E, the Class of 1930, being of sound mind and memory, do make, declare, and publish this, our last will and testament, and do hereby revoke and make void any previous wills or promises made by us heretofore. First: To Mr. Van Ness, Mr. Wooten and our teachers, we bequeath our sincerest gratitude for all that they have done for us and the consolation that, though there will never be another class as good as ours, their excellent management will surely improve every class which comes under their supervision.

Second: To Emery Mudge we gladly give four feet of Arthur Lees and also the latter's beautiful blonde whom he found at the Rum Rustler's Convention.

To Jack Jenkins we leave the front library table to be used solely by him each sixth period.

To Greta Peterson we leave longer sleeping hours, something she has wanted for some time, and something that we studious Seniors can afford to give.

To Oscar Dettman we give Louis Canakes' talkativeness. To Chester Briggs we donate Drew Reid's collegiate air.

To the Smart Set we bequeath the sweetness, the charm, and all the ladylike qualities of the L. A. H. Club.

To Robert Sutton we bequeath Ruth Kirk and locker 99.

To Jean Wissler we leave Arlene Peters' natural reserve and unobrusiveness.

To Otis Spurgeon we give Al Horns' secret power over all women.

To Delbert H. Atherton we bequeath one dozen spring-boards on which to originate and execute fancy dives.

To Peter Canakes we give Bill Rule's habit of murmuring helpful hints under his breath in Civics Class.

To Miss Linderblood we leave Russell Olson as a present from the class of '30.

To Emma Johnson we leave Dorothy Wenzel's unlimited knowledge of Agriculture.

To Waldo Wheeler we bequeath Willis Cooper's oratorical powers.

Third: To Fay Morgan we give all our yo-yos and any other playthings we may have left behind.

Fourth: To the Class of '31 we leave our dignity, our good sense, our quick wits, and our charming ways.

In witness whereof, we, the class of 1930, the testators, have set our hands and seal to this, our will, this seventh day of June, Anno Domini, one thousand nine hundred and thirty.

Class of 1930.

Class Prophecy

T was a cool day in October, 1937, and a good day for radios. "Station B. H. S.!" came the sonorous voice of Drew Reid, radio announcer at the mammoth broadcasting station at Reno, Nevada. "We are broadcasting on a frequency of 1930 kilocycles. For the past half hour you have been listening to Francis Smith's Collegiate Orchestra, featuring Frank Ehman on the saxophone. You will now hear, ladies and gentlemeen, a little lady known to us all as the biggest hit of the stage, Helen Almstedt, the noted jazz singer; Elvera Conant at the piano."

A moment of silence, then the beautiful tones of Helen Almstedt singing "Pony Boy" floated through a million homes. 'At Keokuk, Ia., John Barger, hearing the voice of his suppressed desire, burst into tears and had to be led away from the loud speaker.

"We have just received a telegram." announced Drew, "from Reverend Noel Morgan, requesting the Nit Wit Hour. We are very happy to comply with your request, Reverend Morgan, and you will now hear the "Nit Wits."

Immediately the Nit Wits, namely, Arthur Lees, Arnold Thompson, Louis Canakes,

Bill Rule, Dorothy Lidell, and Frances Bentley, broke into song. Several times they were so overcome with the giggles that they were forced to stop and begin over again. However, the song was finally finished, after which the performers were taken back to Clarinda and the next number was announced.

"We will now have an entertaining playlet," said Drew, "named 'Why Husbands

Leave Home' in six parts. The cast follows:

Following this thrilling play, George Higgins read an interesting paper on "What I Like About Myself", and Dean Coddington gave a review of his latest book "Through the Alps in a Submarine."

The voice of the announcer was again heard.

"We will now hear the celebrated orchestra leader, Fred Cornmesser, and his Hoboes. They will render "Piccolo Pete," featuring James Dawdy on his bass drum. The personnel of the orchestra is as follows: Violins, LaVerne Smiley, Lois Stemple, Darrell Vaugniaux, and Robert Wright; mouth-organs, Dean Standley, John Davis, and Harry Shadle; play-a-sax, Andrew Lindbloom; rollmonicas, George Blaess and Raymond Crouse; piano player, Merrill Peterson."

"The time," said Drew, ten minutes later, "is now exactly seven minutes to four o'clock, so we will have a half hour of questions and answers, conducted by Professor

Albert Horns. Please step to the microphone, Professor.'

The Professor read the following answers to the letters he had received:

"The first question is from Clarence Murken. He says, 'I have just joined the army, and there are a few things about which I am not certain. What will I do if I am surrounded by the enemy and my ammunition gives out?' The answer is: 'Cease firing.' Here's one from George Hannum. 'What is the capital of Turkey?' I would say, George, about sixty cents. The next is from Ruby Godwin, who asks: 'How is the modern road constructed?' Well, Ruby, some run from left to right; others run from right to left. Now Ruth Donaldson writes: 'Dear Professor, what do you do in case of seasickness?' Well, young lady, as to that, I give up."

After this instructive lesson, Drew announced that he had just received telegrams from the following people: Arthur Allan, professor of English at Harvard; La Verne Erickson, head street cleaneer at Ogden, Iowa; Marie Burglund, gold-fish trainer at Nome, Alaska; Paul Gustafson, grave digger at New York; Marion Otto, chief of policewomen at Jordan; and Dwight Sattler, noted lecturer on "How to Win Women." Since they had all requested the musical selection, "Sonny Boy," Louis Nelson, the famous bare-of-tone, sang it, while Leta Harding accompanid him on the piano.

"I have been asked to tell you," said Drew, "of the coming attractions at the Paramount Theatre of this city. Here's the program for the week: Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday, "Stranded Hearts," with Evalotte McLeod and Enoch Davis. The stage show includes the Five Devils, composed of the trapese performers Dorothea Pitzgerald, Robert Williams, Geneva Cutler, Roy Knowles, and John Lindahl; Ray Woodruff's Russian Ballet, with Gladys Winders, Alice Sputhe, Ruth Sellers, Virginia Wahl, Apal Anderson, and Catherine Fletcher; and the lovely opera star, Jane Hannum. Wednesday and Thursday, "My Lover's Eyes," with Verle Oldenburg and Harold Thompson. The stage show consists of Forest Caldwell's Chorus Cuties, with Gretchen Earnard, Verna McVicker, Elinor Buzby, Burnadean Hall, and Florence Marshall; the world-renowned Spanish dancer, Esther Crulkshank; and the Muscle-Bound Athletic Troupe, featuring Wendell Gunn, who holds on his shoulders Kenneth Hakes, Lester and Luther Rosengreen, Henry Jenkins, and Melvin Stout. Friday and Saturday the Paramount offers Jack Austin in "West of the Sage Brush," assisted by an able cast including Mildred Ross, Keith Richmond, and Hazelle Nelson. The stage show is unusually good, presenting a novel endurance contest to determine who has the loudest voice and the most wind. Loren Lair, Willis Cooper, and Richard Williams will compete, the winner to receive a gross of balloons to blow up; Jane Halliday and Agnes Cordell will impersonate the Duncan sisters, and the noted aviator, Russell Olson, otherwise known as the "Ladies' Choice." will give a talk on his thrilling experiences.

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, our time is up and we will have to sign off. We hope you have all enjoyed our program, and we'll be back on the air tomorrow at 8:00 o'clock in the morning. Get ready for the time signals, folks. When you hear the Longjeans musical note, it will be exactly 6:00 o'clock, Western Standard Time. Ready, folks!"

Drew signaled to Burnadean Fullerton, Burnadean signaled to James Mathers, James signaled to Victoria Dennert, and immediately the Long-jeans musical note

"Good night, folks!" shouted Drew, and grabbing his overcoat and Stetson, he rushed out of the room, stumbling over the janitor, Earl Sturtz, who was standing at the bottom of the steps. In a few minutes he had reached his sweetie (we forget her name) who had been waiting impatiently for him.

"Gee, I'm hungry!" sighed Drew. "Let's go to dinner at the Ritz, huh?"

He signaled a taxi, driven by Lavon Miller and in a few minutes they were seated in a cozy alcove at the Ritz, and the waitress, Beatrice Fullerton, was taking their order.

Just then Ray Peterson and Marguerite McCracken breezed in, and the four school-mates chatted about their old friends.

"Lorraine Johnson is a beauty specialist," said Marguerite, "and Harriet Higgins -you remember her, Harriet Mondt-is getting a divorce from George and is in Reno right now. Say, kids, whaddayuh say to going to the Butterfly Night Club? It's 10:00 o'clock already."

The others readily agreed and by 10:10, Western Standard Time, they were being greeted by the hostess, Phyllis Davidson, and were led to a table by Frank Sebring. They enjoyed the music furnished by Claude Anderson and his Red Hot Jazz Band. and bought cigarettes and candy from the cigarette girls, Doris Edmunds, Geneva Allan, and Louise Ehman.

"Ohh, looky!" squealed Drew's 'Girl Friend, "I see lots of people I know. There's Cecile Pratt, that women's rights leader, you know; and there's Dorothy McCaskey. who started out as a artist and ended by being an aviatrix; and there's Gladys Hartman, football coach at Vassar and, my goodness, if that isn't Mabel Davis, the World Champion Gum Chewer; and there's Dorothy Thompson, the artist's model!"

"Ssh-h!" hushed Drew, "look at the sister act; they're putting on a song and dance. Say, maybe they're kidding most people, but I know they're cousins,-Anne and Helen Herman!"

The next performer was a pretty blonde singer, received with much applause by the crowd, who hailed her as Baby Face.

"Why, that's Verlyn Forbes!" said Drew, "and that's Dorothy Sellers at the piano."

Next came a cute tap-dancer (also blonde)-Bill Jacobsen, who was warmly greeted, and a blues singer introduced as Mabel Murken.

A chorus of dancing girls was the next number.

"This oughta be good," said Ray. "It's the best trained chorus of any in the world, including the Scandinavian."

It was good. Thora Barrett, Dorothea Linn, Helen Fitzgerald, Arlene Peters, Freda Ohge, Helen Millhouse, and Vivian Nystrom fairly burned up the floor with their snappy routine.

Next on the program was a toe-dancer, Doris Hulteen, assisted by a ballet of Ruth Schroeder, Lucille Hostler, Viola Wagneer, Inez Sromert, anad Dolores Shaeffer.

Then came a comedy skit entitled "The Great Neckers," with the comedian troupe made up of Irene Larson, Ruth Surtz, Kenneth Myers, Irma Nelson, Mary Patterson, and Ruth McIntosh. Kenny being the only man, he, of course, had all the heavy

The dancing then began, and the handsome gigolos, Delmer Bennett and Richard Jones, were much in demand. Three Salvation Army lassies came in for a minute but quickly left. They were Anne Rose, and her two assistants, Violet Smiley and Mary Louise Johnson.

"School Mother"

Our mother's only tender thought Is to keep us from all harms; Our mother is our haven of peace; There's safety in her arms.

We have a mother of our dreams-The school which now we leave. We know now what it means to us, And, knowing this, we grieve.

How strangely comforting to see Her ivy-covered walls! And when the world outside is harsh There's peace within her halls.

How carefully, how long she worked Preparing us for life: With wisdom and with loving eyes. She foresaw every strife.

"School mother," when by chance we erred You hesitated not To find our faults, to judge our wrongs, To chide when we forgot.

In your embrace, we labored hard; In your embrace, we played. We'll ne'er forget the friendships which Within your halls we made.

O mother of our youthful dreams, These humble words of praise Can only serve to thank you for Our happy schoolhood days.

Everything was progressing nicely when suddenly the door burst open and Chief of Police Kenneth Sullivan dashed madly into the room. Everyone, thinking the place was being raided, tried to hide, and Dorothy Werkhauser was seen to jump out of an open window.

The Chief gasped out his story. It seemed that two well-dressed women, recognized as Dorothy Wenzel and Mary Westfall, coming out of the Butterfly, had been kidnaped by a man in a derby. A passer-by supplied the information that he had seen a dark, handsome man standing outside the Butterfly; the man, he said, had been addressed by his companions as "Lady-Killer." This man, after careful investigation, was found to be one Lester Sturtz.

The patrons were naturally very much excited but were greatly relieved by the news that the Kirk and Alexander Detective Agency were on the job.

The excitement had quite subdued when Drew, looking at his watch, found that it was 3:00 A. M.

"My gosh!" he exclaimed, grabbing his girl and starting for the door. "The Ukkleboiger Club has a meeting at 3:30 A. M., and as I'm High Mogul, I can't be late. What a day! Oh, well, such is the life of a radio announcer."

And he strode hurriedly through the door.

SOPHOMORES

(With Apologies to Longfellow)

Should you ask me, whence these stories, Whence these wondrous tales of exploit, Of the daring deeds of Sophomores, Of the Sophomores of old Boone High, I should answer, I should tell you, From the classroom and the teachers, From the annals of the class of "32". In the walls of our Boone High School Dwells a class renowned and famous; 'Tis the Sophomores, the MIGHTY! They in every feat excelling, Youthful, clear-eyed, seeing visions, Bringing courage, loyal spirit To the front in every battle-Football, swimming, all athletics, In the heat and fray of conquest, In the splashing of the pool. Sophomores—gaining VICTORY! Embryonic Bernhardts, Duses, From our noble ranks arise, Gaining honors, many, glorious, Leaving them unspoiled and shy. Leading in clubs, always striving, Peppy "Johnnies on the spot." Down the hall floats wondrous music, Harmony--of band or glee club. Then we Sophomores smile in pleasure, For among the syncopators Many from our ranks were taken, And then last but not the least Speak we of illustrous scholars, Holding high our usual standard, Gaining rich lore from our text books. Now this history we shall finish, And the glory of the Sophomores Sets the clouds on fire with redness, One long track and trail of splendor Sailing on, new lands to conquer.
