Angie Dickeson, Jean Case, Paul Harvey, Harry Jorgenson, James Riddle, and Eleanor Sparks, from whom Marjorie Hammond, giving "Death Rides the Highways", was chosen to go to the district contest. There she was rated "superior", which entitled her to speak at Iowa City at the state contest, where Florence Walker, Avis Dodge, Marjorie Hammond, and Jane Buechler were to represent Boone in interpretative reading. The results of that contest were not known when the Scrolllette went to press. At Council Bluffs superior ratings were given to Florence Walker representing Boone in the interpretative poetry division, and to Harry Jorgenson in radio speaking.

After the pep and enthusiasm shown by the Boone swimmers during the past year, it looks as though swimming will once again take its place among the major sports in high school.

J U N I O R   P R E - V I E W

Students of Boone High:

Picture a group seemingly devoid of duty and worry; a group branded with the title "irresponsible"; a group always striving for fun, and you have the semblance of the junior class, important participants in the circus of Boone High School, "The Greatest Show On Earth" (meaning no disrespect to B. H. S.)

At the head of the parade, a necessity to any circus, is Bill Brierty, the president of the class, who, by the way, rather than ask for his dates receives them as a gift. (The dates here referred to are the edible kind.)

At the piano, furnishing us with the swaggiest of swing is Mary Jo Bostwick, a personage very necessary to the musical organizations of Boone High and also to a number of the so-called stronger sex.

On the back of that huge elephant, towering far above her mates, is the most unique bare-back rider in the world, Miss Jean Case. Now you see her standing on her head and performing various other stunts on Jumbo's back. (Me-thinks a new Studebaker would be a more comfortable conveyance, and so does Jean.)

The trainers of the steeds performing in the end rings are commonly addressed as Marion Parks and Lauren Taylor. These two young men have at last come to the conclusion that it is a much simpler task to train horses than automobiles. What luck for pedestrians!!!

Those lovely ladies on the tight-wire are Marian Allen, Martha Ann Jordan, Mary Ann Zeigler, Jacqueline Doran, and Elaine Carson. Oops! One seems to have slipped. Guess who?

That deafening war whoop which you just heard issued from the mouth of the show's rough and ready (particularly, rough) cowboy star, "Jasper" Johnson, known to most of his "fems", I mean fans, as DuBois.

At the very peak of the "big top" is that popular foursome of comic trapeze artists, Betty Jean Nelson, Ellsworth Buzby, Merlyn Williams, and Roger Sullivan. What a calamity it would be if one of them fell (for somebody else)!!!!

The siren you now hear, my friends, is that on Dorothy Ann O'Connell's automobile which as you probably know, holds the world's record for human capacity. Dorothy has at last succeeded in cramming fifty people in one '36 Dodge. (Remember, the old adage is "seeing is believing" and not "foeing is goeing".)

Presenting a gorgeous spectacle by riding those gleaming black horses through those fiery red hoops of flame are the all-star (?) athletes, Milo Miller, Arthur Anderson, and Raymond McIntosh. They ride those steeds as well as they carry the pigskin.

Now fix your gaze on the lofty trapeze at the top of the canvas and see Miss Glee Barth spin five hundred times, and she doesn't seem to be a bit dizzy (or should the comparative degree be used, dizzier?) when she has finished her performance.

Those two flirtatious clowns now amusing (?) the spectators are none other than Clayton V. Hendricks and James T. Cook, Jr. Let us hope they don't get their jokes as mixed up as their dates.

In the center arena is that terrific tiger tamer, famed from Timbuctoo to Tippecanoe, John Johnson! If he tames those beasts as well as he drives a certain Ford automobile, he is doing o. k., but if he is as bashful with animals as he is with girls, well draw your own conclusions.

Performing those daring stunts on that beautiful white horse is Norma Hurst. Be careful, Norma. A slip might mean another black eye, and a number of persons are still wondering if the cause of the last "shiner" wasn't a certain charming rival by the name of Muriel Pearson instead of the reported fall on the ice.

The person who, as a result of that deafening roar you just heard, was shot from our "big Bertha" was Clayton Aspengren. Don't get excited, folks, he was simply rehearsing for the time when he gets shot (not literally) from the room for "blowing-up" in class.

Last but not least is the noisy "barker", Ted Adams, whose flow of eloquence is one of the steadiest things about him.

JUNIOR COLLEGE PARADE

Let us permit our fancies to wander to a small midwestern town as it will appear some twenty years from now.

Undaunted by the heat from an unmerciful sun (for what is so rare as the day of a circus?) a crowd is staring down Crawford Street eagerly awaiting—but there's a friendly face! Why, it's Mary Jo, with little Jimmy tugging at her skirts. She smiles and beckons, and we direct ourselves toward her party. But there's little time for conversation—for there comes the parade!—led by Corrick and the Trumpet Trio. (Maxie's fall from Beethoven to Calloway to Alexander's Ragtime was swift; and the Trumpeteers never advanced beyond the fanfare stage.)

Make way for the horses; There's Katherine Worsing, typical circus beauty, atop a dapple gray mare, tossing her head defiantly as she passes. Kay, you'll remember, often employed that haughty little air in the freshman English class. Beside Miss Worsing rides Naomi Southern on a Shetland pony, and behind her comes Winnifred Gerrard (Winnie is now able to zig when the horse zigs) in Girl Scout uniform leading her troop No. 64—Who let them in?

As we follow with our eyes the ponderous, lumbering course of the elephants, which appear next, we are reminded of Dean Wilson. Why? Contrast, we suppose. There's Longnecker the giraffe, too.

But excuse us for a moment while we have a little chat with the gentleman approaching us. It's Marvin Lindmark, and he's carrying a sign reading, "Free Parking Space at the Show Tonight". Sad fate for such an ambitious youth. He's lost none of his old charm, however.

Marv shuffles off and we turn our attention back to the parade. The caged animals are being drawn along now to the tune of the old steam calliope. There's Enich the Tigress (maybe it was the cold glint in her eye that prompted that) and Grabau and Snyder, the laughing hyenas (no explanation needed in this case).

We catch a glimpse of Harry Dale Harvey, in captivity at last, at home in a cage of monkeys. Among his little companions are Casebolt and Robinson. A spectator smiles with satisfaction. It's Grace Slosson.

A blue and white cage is next in line and through the bars we see what remains of the old J. C. Bears namely, Wheeler, Anderson, Brogden, Dutton, and Washington.

A freak of nature, but a likeable one, is Anita Manz. What phylum? We give up.

Here comes Harmer, the Seal—but what a reversal of procedure! Inside the cage are Paul Thorngren, Jimmy Wilson, and Farmer Fronsdaahl, balancing rubber balls on their noses for the amusement of Caroline, who's flapping along outside tossing minnows in to them. We're with you, boys. After all, faint heart ne'er won fair lady!

We comment on Mr. Heaton's absence from this little group, but they tell us that Kurt's found his calling at last. As a lion tamer his power is in his stinging whip and not in his lashing tongue, as of former days.

"Snake Charmer" Olander (remember—the blond menace of '37?) is causing a rumpus by chasing meek "Fire-Eater" (he-smokes-a-pipe) Jorgenson down a back alley. "Simon Legree" Foes attempts to restore order.

"Trooper" Temple and "Little Sister" Allen are being wheeled down the street in baby carriages by Betzenderfer, who's on ice skates. (Yes, we know it's summer, but Dick doesn't). Speaking of clowns, Hagen's all decked out in ruffles and a dunce cap, which sets us to wondering if he ever did find that description.

And so, with Hagen bringing up the rear, the Junior College Parade passes on. The crowd slowly disperses and reluctantly we allow ourselves to be led by our keepers back to the sanitarium around the corner. And may we add, in case the authenticity of the scenes and events recorded above is doubted, that though our wits be dulled, our memories are keener than ever. Like Old Jumbo, we never forget a face!

CALENDAR

- SEPTEMBER 7—GRAND OPENING.—What a crowd on the opening day! Although everybody was in a hurry to get the best seats, we found time to greet both friends and strangers. Several new ringmasters were in evidence at the grand opening. They were Mr. Evans, chief ringmaster, and his assistants, Mr. Fisher, Miss Schuldt, Miss Andrew, Miss Podendorf, Miss Howe, Miss Nowack, and Mr. Robinson.
- SEPTEMBER 8—The management rented various books to us, so that we would be able to understand the things we were going to see and hear.
- SEPTEMBER 10—My, what a rush! Everybody wanted to buy that little red book called an "activity ticket". This enabled us to visit all the side shows without carrying money all the time.
- SEPTEMBER 14—Our first entertainment in the center ring of this colossal circus was a talk, "The Marks of a Man", presented by Mr. Morgan.
- SEPTEMBER 17—A group of entertainers, divided into two teams called Boone and Centerville, played a game in which they threw a pigskin all over the field. In order to avert a stampede among the elephants, this game was played outside. Centerville won, 7-6.
- SEPTEMBER 23—Mr. Haley, another traveling entertainer, recited a few of the verses of the Bible. I guess he knows about all of them.
- SEPTEMBER 24—It seems most of us got a little weary going to the circus every day. The trainers attended a county convention, while the Boone team went to a circus in Oskaloosa and was defeated, 27-6.
- SEPTEMBER 29—A group of the oldest people, called seniors, elected officers. The election was declared null and void because the ballot box was stuffed.
- OCTOBER 1—Another football game at Jefferson. The Boone team lost, 7-0. Those open air shows usually end the same, boys.
- OCTOBER 4—Seniors held another election. Nominations were made from the floor in the big tent and James Reynoldson, Janet Thompson, and Marshall Phillips became our dignified officers.
- OCTOBER 8—A large audience sat on the bleachers in the rain to watch Fort Dodge beat Boone, 13-0.
- OCTOBER 10—The city of Boone was very pleased with the matinee and evening performances of Mary McCormick, lyric soprano, and Professor Kryle's orchestra in the big tent. One of Boone High's own members, Jane Mauck, received an audition.
- OCTOBER 15—Our team played football with Marshalltown and lost, 14-0. A group of girls organized the Phi Chi A, girls' science club. Meetings will be held after circus hours.
- OCTOBER 19—All performers received report cards which show what progress they have made in their various acts. Bad actors better get going!
- OCTOBER 22—Lots of fun today. The circus held its annual color day and Betty Jean Nelson was elected "Home-coming Queen" by our football boys. Evidently she was an inspiration, for the score was: Grinnell 13, Boone 13.
- OCTOBER 26—AT LAST! here come the animals: monkeys, ponies, doves, dogs, and all. The entire group was called "Bible's Animal Circus".
- OCTOBER 29—The boys must enjoy the circus so much in the daytime that they can't play at night. Logan won the football game, 7-0.
- NOVEMBER 3—To celebrate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution, our circus managers took us to the Rialto Theater and three technicolor films were presented to us. The films were "The Foundation of Our Country", "The Song of the Bugle", and "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death".

NOVEMBER 4 AND 5—The entire circus troupe was given a much-needed rest while the managers and trainers attended the State Teachers' Convention in Des Moines.

NOVEMBER 5—The boys in the pigskin line-up were defeated by Newton, 13-0.

NOVEMBER 10—We all went to a free side-show and attended a pep meeting. Mr. Smith from the Ames Chamber of Commerce gave a short talk.

NOVEMBER 11—The circus closed up for Armistice Day. The boys in our pigskin parade had their last chance, but alas! Ames won, 52-0.

NOVEMBER 12—Milo Miller was elected captain of the Toreadors for the next year. Better luck, Milo.

NOVEMBER 17—Circus Souvenirs! The senior performers chose a class ring.

NOVEMBER 25 AND 26—No lunches eaten under the big tent. Thanksgiving vacation.

NOVEMBER 30—Report card day.

DECEMBER 3—Many of us went to the side show this evening. Our boys tried to be victorious, but the Albia team won, 12-11.

DECEMBER 9—All eyes turned to one of the side rings where the Telephone Company presented three short movies.

DECEMBER 10—One side show was open for girls only when an Iowa State College dietician gave an interesting talk about meat.

The Boone team journeyed to Des Moines to be defeated by East High, 25-20.

DECEMBER 11—AT last, HOORAY! The audience went wild, for Boone beat Roosevelt High of Des Moines, 26-22.

DECEMBER 13—The center of attraction today was a film "Iowa Speaks for Herself" that was presented by Lyman Cooley.

DECEMBER 15—Most of us went to one of the best of the side-shows so far. The Junior College presented its annual play, "Cappy Ricks".

DECEMBER 17—Christmas program was presented by some of our entertainers along with a pep meeting. The Boone team beat Oskaloosa.

The entire troupe and all trainers went into winter quarters for the holiday fortnight.

DECEMBER 29—We just had to get together again. At a side show Boone beat Centerville, 26-15.

JANUARY 3—The flaps were pulled back, and we all re-entered the circus premises. Now we'll settle down and get lots of information from our trainers.

JANUARY 6—Oh, boy! Oh, boy! our basketball team went to a side show in Newton and won, 41-29.

JANUARY 11—That team gets to travel a lot, but are we ever proud of it! The boys trimmed Fort Dodge, 43-36.

JANUARY 14—We attended another interesting side show—a movie presented by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. At the evening performance, we received a great disappointment when Ames beat Boone, 27-24, in a basketball game.

JANUARY 21—At a side show for senior high only, Rev. Clarke gave a very interesting talk. Boone lost to Marshalltown, 27-22, that night.

SECOND ACT

JANUARY 25—Such a cold night that few of us came to the show to see Boone beat Fort Dodge, 32-30.

JANUARY 26—The big tent opened for the first big act of the new year. The "Master Singers", well-known on radio, presented two assemblies of favorite songs.

JANUARY 28—We had more animals in our circus than usual when the Theatre Guild presented "Pigs".

FEBRUARY 2—A group of our own circus folks entered a declamatory contest in the big tent. The winners were Dorothea Jipp, Ruthanne Herrald, and Florence Walker.

FEBRUARY 3—Doctor Harry Barnes from the state circus at Iowa City gave some very interesting readings.

FEBRUARY 4—The craze that is sweeping the country is now in our circus; so the swing band entertained us at the pep-meeting. Grinnell defeated Boone in the evening.

FEBRUARY 7—Musicians from the state circus at Ames entertained us with orchestra selections, which we all enjoyed.

FEBRUARY 11—Newton defeated Boone.

FEBRUARY 17—The most dignified (or is it?) group in the audience, called seniors, chose the rosebud for their flower, "In ourselves our future lies", for their motto, and plan to decorate the tent in blue and gold.

FEBRUARY 21—A new plan was adopted whereby certain students have the master key to unlock the various lockers on the circus grounds, and the main tent is used as a visiting room.

MARCH 10—Local extemporaneous speaking contest was held in the big tent. Ray McCoy was chosen winner.

MARCH 18—A few talented persons from the audience presented us with a grand amateur show.

MARCH 18-28—The circus closed its doors to us, the very interested audience, so the big tent could get a spring cleaning. Too bad spring comes only once a year.

APRIL 7—Lots of grown-ups attended our circus today during the District Parent-Teachers' Association Convention.

APRIL 8—This is one day that some of our audience has long hoped for, especially those who were appointed to the National Honor Society.

APRIL 15—Seniors clowned in kid costumes today.

APRIL 19—Another very enjoyable assembly was presented by the Simpson College Choir.

APRIL 21 AND 22—The junior high presented an entertaining play for two nights in the big tent.

APRIL 26—An annual event which we all eagerly await, and how we cheer when the big tent opens and we see—The Misner Players.

GRAND FINALE

MAY 3—Trainers from rival circuses came to our tent for a vocational conference.

May 5—The show closes while the hobos have their fling.

MAY 6—We have to show our parents what we have been doing at the circus all these months, so we all helped to present the "School Exhibit".

MAY 13—We enjoyed this Friday the thirteenth. The annual junior-senior reception was held, and all were dressed in the gorgeous clothes we dreamed about when we were kids.

MAY 24—Some of us are leaving the circus this year, so in order to say goodbye to the friends we had in this large and interested audience, we presented a "Senior Assembly".

May 27—There was another chance for some students to entertain in the big tent before leaving, and that was at our own senior class play.

MAY 29—This was the next to the last step before the seniors ended their career in the circus—the baccalaureate sermon.

JUNE 2—COMMENCEMENT DAY!—Our hearts filled with pride when our fingers grasped that diploma! But, oh, what a feeling of regret and sadness came over us as we reached the "parting of the ways".

Although injured most of the season, Gerald "Pete" Peters earned honorable mention as an end on the all-conference team. Egdar Carlson, playing at guard, received honorable mention on the Iowa Daily Press Association team.

BASKETBALL SEASON

The crack of the gun in the sectional tournament played with Ames marked the close of another basketball season for the Boone High Treadors, and the '37-'38 season received its place in the records as history. But before the season was formally closed, Mark Schroeder, a basketball star throughout the season, was elected honorary captain of the Boone High Treadors for the year of 1937-1938.

The young lady walked boldly up to a woman whom she took to be the matron of the hospital.

"May I see Lt. Barker, please?" she asked.

"May I ask who you are?"

"Certainly. I'm his sister."

"Well, well. I'm glad to meet you I'm his mother."

Fraternity man: "Would you be interested in joining a fraternity?"

Freshman: "No, thanks. I've got enough clothes of my own."

Husband: "Have you ever wondered what you would do if you had Rockefeller's income?"

Wife: "No, but I have often wondered what he would do if he had mine."

Manager: "What! You want another week off? You've just returned from your vacation."

Clerk: "But I want to get married, sir."

Manager: "Couldn't you get married during your vacation?"

Clerk: "I didn't want to spoil my vacation, sir."

Judge: "Then what have you got to say in your defense?"

John Berg: "I didn't know it was loaded."

Frank H.: "Do you use tooth paste?"

Mary Jo: "What for? None of my teeth are out."

"Great Scott, I've forgotten who wrote 'Ivanhoe,'" whispered Eugene Crandell to his neighbor in an English literature test.

"Say, 'I'll tell you," offered James Riddle, "If you tell me who the dickens wrote 'A Tale of Two Cities'."

"All those who would like to go to Heaven," said the Sunday school teacher, "please raise their hands."

(All did except one.)

"Why, Max," exclaimed the teacher, "wouldn't you like to go to Heaven?"

"Naw," said Max, "Not if that bunch is going."

Still an Asset. The boy, who had gone to summer school because he hadn't passed out of the fourth grade, brought home a bad report card. "D in work, D in effort, D in conduct," read his father, angrily. "That settles it. From now on you and I are through." The boy regarded his father scornfully. "Stop deluding yourself, pop. Just remember that I'm still an exemption on your income tax return."

John Shadle: "This is the plot of my story. A midnight scene. Two burglars creep stealthily toward the house. They climb a wall and force open a window and enter the room; the clock strikes one."

Eudora Arnold (breathlessly): "Which one?"

Mr. Drake: "You say in this paper that you know the connecting link between the animal and the vegetable kingdoms. What is it?"

George Dutton: "Stew".

Farmer: "My son is a bootblack in the city."

P. Brogden: "Oh, you make hay while the son shines."

"How do you like your new boss, Wilma?"

"Oh he ain't so bad, Gertie, only he's kinda bigoted."

"Whadda y' mean, bigoted?"

"Well, he thinks words can be spelled only one way."

J. Olson: "That man Smith is going around telling lies about you."

D. Hanson: "I don't mind that, but if he begins to tell the truth I'll break his neck!"

A Scotchman had been away from home for eleven years. When he returned he found his five brothers wearing long beards.

"Why the hair-r?" he asked as he confronted the group.

"Dinna ye remember? Ye took the razor with ye."

Teacher: "Now, Tom, hold your head up and shoulder back. You'd like to have a fine carriage when you are a man, wouldn't you?"

Tom: "Well, I'd rather have an airplane."

The advertising man was proposing: "Remember," he said, "this is the last day for this astounding offer."

Bill Butler: "Look at the coat she gave me."

A small boy had fallen into the stream but had been rescued.

"How did you come to fall in," asked a bystander.

"I din't come to fall in," exclaimed the boy, "I came to fish."

A young lady pulled up to the curb and smiled sweetly when the policeman informed her sternly that she was doing 75 miles an hour. "Isn't that marvelous," said Enid, "and I am only learning to drive."

The teacher had forbidden the eating of candy and the chewing of gum during school hours. One day she became suspicious of a lump in J. Reynoldson's cheek. "Jimmie, are you eating candy or chewing gum?" she asked. "No," replied Jimmie. "I'm just soaking a prune to eat between classes."

A colored woman went to buy a collar for her husband.

"What size?" asked the clerk.

"I done forgot," replied the woman, "but I can jes' manage to reach aroun' his throat wif my bofe hands."

"That man cheats," said Squiggy as he entered the clubhouse. "He lost his ball in the rough and played another ball without losing a stroke."

"How do you know he didn't find his ball?" asked Edgar U.

"Because I've got it in my pocket," replied the righteous one.

Jean R., Dry Goods Clerk: "This is a wonderful value, Madam. Worth double the money. Latest pattern, fast colors, hole-proof, won't shrink and it's a good yarn."
