

BONE

Hannah Boyd ('10), Maddie Gage ('10), Andrea Harken ('07), Ashley Runge ('07)

one

BOONE HIGH SCHOOL
500 7th Street • BOONE, IA 50036
515-433-0995 • boone@k12.ia.us

one

• TAKING a last lap as seniors, Dan Lynch, Sean Hagan and Anthony Greco enjoy the last month of their high school years. Anthony could be found on the phone before and after school.

As a child, we all tried to find words within words. Little did we realize that the theme for the 2006-2007 yearbook was right before our eyes. BoONE is the ONE!

“We tried to play on “007” for the year since we are the Class of 2007. We decided to keep that just to our senior video,” senior Mike Martz said.

The spirit during the year was evident at each event throughout the year. The fans didn’t just choose one sport, they yelled and screamed at every game.

“We had to show that even though we were the smallest in the conference, we had the mightiest fan support! We definitely win in that category,” freshman Lance Johnson said.

The memories were created. Some were fun and others were not

“One time I heard that kids were putting a big icicle in a locker. We all knew that we were going to be ‘in on it’ and yet they were going to take the blame,” senior Dane Titman said.

ONE-TEN MEMORIES
One More Time	1 Boone Crew
	2 Bad clocks...never the right time
	3 Trashy building...too many leaks and falling apart
	4 Around the World Prom
	5 White Out
	6 Homecoming
	7 Spring break
	8 Snow days that seniors don't have to make up
	9 Blocked Internet sites
	10 State and All-State appearances
	My Favorite Eatery:

The SCHOOL Poll

one

Everyone works to make the high school days an important part of their lives. For some, it was fun and they hated to leave this one part of their lives behind. For others, it couldn't get done too soon.

"We tried to make our days full of fun. We know that we had to work hard for the academic team competition but when we ended up as #1 at some of the contests, we knew it was worth it," junior Tyler Lurvey said.

Throughout the year, there was one event that meant more than anything else. For the chorus, it was that one trip to New York City. For state wrestling, it was lone competitor Matt Kuster. For drama, it "Once Upon a Mattress" and for others, it was that one A...or F.

"You need to make the most of where you are at the time you are there. We live in BoONE and we are the ONE!" senior Dan Corey said.

•WORKING on the senior street paint, Jason Noelck and Ben Getschman add their artistic touches. Students painted the street on Wednesday the week of Homecoming.

•PLAYING the role of a Toreador Mascot, Eric Thiel ('07) gets ready to pump up the crowd. Eric helped the cheerleaders at most of the home games.

•WHILE enjoying their lunch Natalie Nost ('09) and Brittney Wrabek ('09) eat in the cafeteria. This was the first year that the lunch hour was closed for freshmen and sophomores.

•TAKING advantage of the WinterDance decor, seniors Mollie Baldus and Tasha Jackson put their faces in the penguins. The theme of snow and cold weather helped to set the tone.

Allison Ladd ('080)

Loan Gonzales ('07)

Matt Kuster ('07)

Angie West ('07)

only

Take it one day at a time. Those words couldn't be more true. Students find out only too late that the best years of their lives are their high school years.

"I knew that I wanted to get out of school as soon as possible and yet now that it is near, I am a little afraid. Thanks Mr. Smith for all you have done...luv ya!" senior Katlyn Miller said.

Each student participated in school in his or her own way. Every one of them brought something to the small community of the high school setting.

"We tried to do as much to get attention as we could. Sometimes we got in more trouble than we thought we would. Wow! What would we do without our mothers here to get us out of trouble," senior Jon Frank said.

No matter what, the years went by quickly and the friends stayed true to the end. The memories piled together to make one life. There was no chance to do it over. ONE TIME IS ENOUGH!

THE BOONE CREW

Drew Peterson ('07)

Matt Kuster ('07)

Ryan Fliss ('07)

Dan Corey ('07)

Jon Frank ('07)

The many faces of the fans were evident during football season. A few of the diehards tended to always stand out. Their main job during the game was to encourage fans to stay focused on the game and cheer on the Toreadors. They kept the fans attention through crazy antics,

•ACTING as the toreador mascot, Tanner Clayton ('07) dresses as a toreador in his "own way". The main job of the mascot was to carry the B flag and get the crowd pumped up.

•SHOWING off her stage makeup talent, Cassie Fehr ('08) paints Jamie Soderstrom's ('09) face for the Dallas Center Grimes football game. The majority of the students painted in some way for this game.

CHEERING

Players get support f

You could feel it in the air. It never faltered as the fall, winter and spring sporting events center-stage. Throughout the year there was school spirit everywhere and was meant to motivate the players but there was no doubt that the fans also got the payoff.

It became a team effort on the part of the fans. They traveled in mass numbers out of town games and always fill the stands at home.

The cheerleaders also did a good job of getting the crowd involved, though it seemed that the crowd did themselves, the cheerleaders kept order to the chaos.

"Doing cheers with the student body was very fun," cheerleader Jo Martin said

Stephani Jay ('10)

Nate Allen ('10)

Jacob Allen ('09)

Dana Linczer ('10)

Samantha Kelly ('07)

Jordan Appenzeller ('09)

Janey Fisher ('10)

CHEERIN' on the 'Dors

Players get support from out of control fans

You could feel it in the air. It never faltered as the fall, winter and spring sporting events took center stage. Throughout the year there was school spirit everywhere. It was meant to motivate the players, but there was no doubt that the fans also got the payoff.

It became a team effort on the part of the fans. They traveled in mass to out of town games and always filled the stands at home.

The cheerleaders also did a good job of getting the crowd involved. Even though it seemed that the crowd led themselves, the cheerleaders kept some order to the chaos.

"Doing cheers with the student section was very fun," cheerleader Mary Jo Martin said

Students also got together to tailgate before the games. The practice was banned two years ago but the fans brought it back.

"Football games are awesome but I want to tailgate. Tailgating was a big part of games," senior Alex Sharer said.

The Boone Crew helped players in most sports by cheering them on. At times, opposing teams such as Newton became hesitant to go up against the Boone fans.

"Overall, the spirit at Boone High was through the roof and students did a good job supporting the players," senior ringleader Dan Corey said.

•CELEBRATING a Boone student section issued "White Out" for the away game against D.C. Grimes, the fans cheer on their 'Dors. "The student section was out of control that game. The WhiteOut was amazing," senior linebacker Taylor Nystrom said,

•DURING the Boone vs. Pella boys' basketball game, students realize it is a big game and show up to give their support. Boone fans held their own against the eventual State Tourney bound Pella players.

•TAKING a break from cheering, Taylor Nelson ('09) and Aleesha Hopkins ('07) check out the other things going on at a game. The cheerleaders spent hours making posters and preparing cheers for games.

We are the Toreadors! the mighty, mighty Toreadors!

Who comes to support the players at the games?

- 70% Students attend games
- 30% Students don't attend games
- 76% Students who cheer
- 24% Students who don't cheer

Jordan Appenzeller ('09)

Janey Fisher ('10)

Xan Wilkins ('10)

Tricia Tilley ('10)

Kiera Archer ('09) and Mackenzie Musfeldt

Liz Castle ('10)

Rachel Baldus ('10) and Steph Welch

•SITTING at C & W, seniors Jenny Mack and Allison Williams get ready for Homecoming coronation. Since they were queen candidates, they were dismissed at 11:00 a.m. to go get ready.

•LOOKING GOOD...
Mallory Lonergan ('07)
Marci Nystrom and Jenny Brown ('08)
Pat Statz ('07)

Beauty secrets hold true

High school students would go to the extremes to perfect their appearances. In most cases, teenagers didn't even care how much money was being spent, especially if it was their parents' money that they were using. The price for beauty was unbelievable and it was increasing all the time throughout the year.

Hair trends changed all the time, which meant more time and money spent at the salon. Changing hair styles was one of the easier ways to help people feel better about themselves. Many ideas came from what Hollywood celebrities were modeling.

"Around the time of the dances, appointments fill up fast. It's crazy working at Details with the phones ringing constantly," junior Typhannie Mitchell said.

Crystal Nail's was a hot spot to get pedicures and manicures done, especially around the time of Homecoming, Winter Dance, and Prom. Some got their nails done just for the dances and others got them done every two weeks.

"It's okay to get your nails done for certain occasions but for everyday appearances, it is a bit too much," freshman Paige Hilsabeck said.

One of the disadvantages of living in Boone, was not ever having a natural KILLER tan. That made Tropical Tans the number one spot. Not many of the students cared about after effects as long as they were nice and bronze.

"Tanning is overrated. I think it is stupid that girls think they have to be tan in order to look pretty," junior Brandon West said.

Beauty definitely became a top priority no matter how much time or money was spent. Even though it was time consuming and expensive, in the end it was always worth it.

•YOUNGER kids often look at the high school students such as Aleesha Hopkins ('07) for guidance in how to dress and do their hair. Elementary students came to the high school every semester to do projects with the Statistics class.

Britta Martin ('10)

Thayne Vinchattle ('08)

Hannah O'Neal ('10)

Laney Moore ('10)

Danielle Nelson ('07)

Tasha Jackson ('07)

Brooke Person ('07)

Brooke Person ('07)

• TANNING at Tropical Tans, Kelsie Milburn ('08), relaxes under the lights. Before special events, Kelsie tanned for fifteen minutes 3 times a week while she listened to music.

• ALL dressed up and taking nothing seriously, Shelby Long ('07) and XX try to see who can look the funniest. The two girls got ready for the Homecoming dance together so they could make sure they were ready on time.

make-up disaster

"The morning of Prom, I woke up and looked in the mirror and to my horror I had a huge zit on the top of my nose! It got bigger and redder as the day went on!"

• Ashley West '07

Typhannie Mitchell ('08)

Cassie Fehr ('08)

Curtis Myers ('07)

Brent Spolik ('09)

Sareena Madden ('07)

Dane Titman ('07)

Amanda Ball ('08)s

Susanne Mellinghoff ('07)

•READING while hitting the track, Alex Anderson ('08) just can't put the book down. Alex continued to read while walking the entire 30 minutes that he walked.

EXERCISE helps with relaxation and health

No one expected it....a part of the afternoon just walking in the fresh air and sunshine. That's exactly what happened in May.

The P.E. department made arrangements for the students to be released from their classes for an hour. The goal was to get everyone walking to the track, then around it, and back to the school.

"We try to show the students that daily exercise should be a habit in their lives. We are so thankful the administration allowed us to take the entire school to the track for thirty minutes of walking," P.E. teacher Mr. Rick Davis said.

All students who were in classes during 7th hour participated in the event. Even though some thought it would be fun to skip, once they got down there, they had a great time.

"I won a $50 gift certificate to WalMart for a 'door prize'. I loved it because there is plenty that I can get there," senior Sean O'Neal said.

While the staff, students and some community members walked, music played, the PE department and wellness committee made announcements.

"The afternoon was a fun way to spend with friends...just talking," junior Katie Terrell said.

FACES IN THE CROWD...

Justin Hams and Aric Haberer

Mr. John Backman and Mrs. Mark Camenisch

Linda Mui ('08) and Amy Wilson ('08)

Pat Statz ('07)

1 mile of walking burns 100 calories

ONE ON ONE

Arielle Muench and Miranda Martin

Mike Barker and Tyler Cartee ('07)

Mr. Ed Dobelis

Mike Martz ('07) and Mr. Jay Dahl

Erin Babberl ('10)

Isaac Wolf ('07)

Ms. Mary Frank and Mrs. Mary Neumayer

•BOTH staff and students walk in the "Go the Distance" project. Dr. Theron Schutte, superintendent, Mr. Ben Mattheis (math) and Janet Mittlestaedter ('09) all took the time to support the day.

•SENIORS find the walk in the sun a great chance to just goof around without having to "skip" class. Ben Getschman, Logan Gonzales and Matt Kuster stroll along with the rest of the student body.

•FRIENDS visit with each other after looking through the crowd to find one another. James Kelly ('08), Nicole Jacobsen ('09), Sara Villanueva ('10), Maria Villanueva ('10) and Amanda Gustin ('08) forgot about studying and just enjoyed the weather.

"This was one of the best school activities we've ever had."

— Allyson Ladd ('08)

•ACCEPTING a door prize, Allyson Ladd ('08) and Cortney Poling ('08) get a break in the walk. Prizes were donated by different businesses around town.

Cortney Poling

Ronetta Faulker ('09)

Alex Miller ('10)
Bryce Franksain ('10)

Tyler Fender ('10)

Dillan Hilsabeck ('08)

Jess Deardon and
Brandi Botkin ('10)

Josh Frank & Jordan
Appenzeller ('09)

Everybody has at least one pet peeve or passion. Interests vary from extreme things to just hanging out. Some students work and have fun with friends, others by themselves.

"My passion is to make people happy every day!" senior Lacey Cox said.

Everyone had a pet peeve. In fact there were more pet peeves than passions. Students had pet peeves to the point that they just flipped when it happened.

"I dislike it when girls crowd around the mirror in the bathroom so I can't get to it," sophomore Kiera Archer said.

Teachers, like the students, had pet peeves as well. Most teachers dealt with them everyday. This put the educator to the test.

"I find it frustrating when students park their cars all day in the 30 min. parking spots," substitute teacher Jo Howell said.

Students and teachers alike had a pet peeve and passion. Just because ages differed, it didn't mean everyone didn't have things that bothered them.

Passions and Pet Peeves

ONE ON ONE

Leah Redeker ('08)

Robin Cornelius ('08)

Nicole Dana ('08)

Mary Pat McMullan ('08)

Tanner Sandrock ('07)

Trent Brown ('08)

Max Malloy ('09)

"I like to hang out with friends and play sports."

•Emily Becker ('10)

"I like to hang out with friends."

•Nic Honkomp ('08)

"A pet peeve of mine would be reading."

•Kenny Nissen ('07)

"My passion is hugging people every day!"

•Jason Curell ('07) with Jen Stoneburner ('07)

"My pet peeve is when people take pictures of me."

•Deriek Chitty ('07)

"I like to read books, mostly about vampires."

•Liz Castle ('10)

Lindsay Greiner ('08)

Allison Williams ('07)

Ashley Runge ('07)

Sammi Duncan ('07)

Lauren Hackenmiller ('07)

Sam Bass ('10)

Allyson Ladd ('08)

•PULLING together after painting the windows downtown, some seniors take a chance to make a memory during their last Homecoming.

•TAKING part in the Homecoming activities, students and teachers find a variety of activities such as dinners, dance, Powderpuff, window painting, "cheering" and supervising. Row 1: Jenny Mack, Allison Stotts, Amanda Plymale, Jenny Mack, Eric Thiel, Breena Heiner, Joey Byriel, Anthony Greco. Row 2: Kayla Behling, Kari Olson, Taylor Nystrom, Senior Powderpuff cheerleaders, Miss Kathy Weaver.

After a long week of spirited fun, students looked back on the new rules and fun created during the week. The administration and police department worked together to prevent students from T.P'ing. They threatened students that charges would be filed if they were caught.

Traditions remained the same. The end of the week resulted in the Powderpuff game with the senior girls winning. The street painting brought out the artists and those who wanted to have fun with paint.

On Friday, students filed into the gym waiting for the announcement of who would be the King and Queen.

Finally the crowns were placed and Tyler Cartee and Emily Hansen were crowned the 2006 Boone High Homecoming King and Queen.

"It was a total suprise. I was happy to get on court but, I never thought that I would ever win too," senior Emily Hansen said.

The day continued with a pep assembly and a parade through the town. The Friday night game brought out the fans and alumni. The big week finally ended with a dance on Saturday night.

"I loved the week and everything it represents," senior Wyatt Elsberry said.

•2006 HOMECOMING COURT Row 1: Haylee Burma, Emily Hora, Jenny Mack, Queen Emily Hansen, Allison Williams, Christina Hammer. Row 2: Logan Gonzales, Anthony Greco, Ben Getschman, Tyler Cartee, Brett Houston, Jason Noelck.

KING TYLER CARTEE AND QUEEN EMILY HANSEN

•RELAXING after a big meal at the local Hong Kong Buffet, Katie Morrissey ('08) checks her cell phone. Even though prices made a difference, students wanted to go to places where they felt comfortable.

FOOD brings creative thoughts on teens

Granted, Boone might not be the restaurant capital of the world, but it still has tasty places to eat. No matter what your preferences are, there's something for you.

There was much diversity depending on what students' taste buds were craving. It ranged from dine-in restaurants to carry-out fast food places.

"I like KFC the best, because I really like their food. It's tasty," sophomore Taylor Nelson said.

Some people chose to save their money by staying at home. Also, the food at home was better than eating out, not to mention healthier.

"My wife's kitchen is the best place to eat because she is the best cook," custodian Dan Sniders said.

Although some people knew what restaurant they liked the best, others had no idea because there was too much variety. People's favorite places to eat could also change based on their cravings.

"I don't know what restaurant I like the best, I'll eat almost anything," sophomore Tyler Moore said.

No matter what the population of a town, people could always find one good place to eat. Some students even leaned toward the high school cafeteria.

FAVORITE FOODS...

Mexican

Chinese

American

Italian

ONE ON ONE

Chelsea Truckenmiller ('08)

Cody Bennett ('09)

Dan Baker ('08)

Brandon Kew ('08)
Bryant Knox ('08)

Emily Wrage ('07)

Brandi Botkin ('10)

Jenna Cornelius ('07)

For some, eating can also include lots of fun times. Mollie Baldus ('07) enjoys messing with her soup before she inevitably eats it.

Over the lunch hour not everyone stays at the place where he/she purchases food. Ashley West ('07) demonstrates this by eating her Subway in the commons.

Finishing last minute homework over their lunch hour, seniors Em McCaffery and Niki Bloomquist enjoy the privilege of open campus. New this year, only seniors and a select few juniors get open campus.

“I eat fruit and drink coffee before a test.”

— Carly Nelson ('10)

STUDYING the nutritional value of cereal, senior Brandi Heiner checks the label. The foods class spent time studying the nutritional facts of the foods they make.

Brain Food!

Eating habits before tests....

•“Before every test I pop a piece of gum in my mouth.”
•Toni Long ('09)

•“Before a test I go to Dairy Queen and get an Oreo Cookie Blizzard with chocolate ice cream.”
•Courtney Bunting ('08)

•“I just eat,”
•KeriAnn Ingram ('09)

Megan Sartin ('08)

Spencer Welch ('08)

Taylor Huston ('08)

T.J. Nordin ('07)

Tyler Lurvey ('08)

Stephanie Brown ('08)

Amanda Moore ('09)

Snow fun

Student council warms hearts with winter wonderland

Pre-dance activities took almost as much planning as the actual dance for many people. Student Council spent Saturday decorating for the event.

"We took pictures at the Redeker household and ate at Audobon's in Ames. Then we went to Coldstone because we were done eating early," junior Marci

Nystrom said.

The main event, coronation, took place before the dance started. Kelsey Stumbo and Ryan Fliss were honored by the student body as king and queen.

"The music was exceptionally bad except for the Roxbury song, 'What is love' that Brandon Kew requested," junior John Solomon said.

The decor reflected the winter weather outside. A huge snowflake in the middle of the dance floor contributed to the theme.

Although the weather outside was cold, inside the school was still warm and inviting for the Winter Dance. Decorated with snowflakes, it was a winter wonderland.

TAKING IN THE DANCE: Alex Sharer ('07), Tess Harper ('09), Dustin Russell ('07); Nicole Beer ('08) and Drennon Ford ('08); Margie Tometich ('10) and Sonja Kretsinger ('08); Michelle Miller ('08), Chelsea Cattanach ('07)

SHARING their digital cameras, Natasha Jackson ('07), Jenna Kramer ('07), and Katie Warrinsey ('08) compare pictures they have taken. Because digital cameras are so available, many people brought them to the dance.

LIKE many girls, Kelli Kepler ('08) busts a move on the dance floor. Dancing took place from 8 to 11 that night.

GETTING caught in a picture, Kevin Hansen ('09) and Justin Appenzeller ('09) attempt to dance while avoiding cameras. With flashes going off everywhere, students ended up with some interesting pictures.

SITTING down and taking a break from the dance, Mitchell Gage ('08) and Rachel Barker ('08) sit in the bleachers. Some students chose to socialize more during the night than dance.

TAKING full advantage of the DJ, Rachel Appenzeller ('07) and Stephanie Erb ('08) enjoy themselves on the dance floor. Even though some didn't like the music, most people still danced.

WINTER DANCE COURT: Bryce Michel, Mallory Lonergan, Sean Hagen, Lis Bravard, Queen Kelsey Stumbo, King Ryan Fliss, Curtis Myers, Meghan Young, Sean O'Neal, Chantalle Martin, Matt Kuster, Aleesha Hopkins.

Fly Away With Us

Africa, Japan, Australia, and Spain, all the places that students could go on a trip for Prom. The event's theme was "A Trip Around the World", and it included far exotic places as well as places right in Boone's backyard to visit.

FROM guess sit and wait to see if their raffle tickets are called to win such items as TVs and teddy bears. Girls put on their gowns and best smiles as they have many opportunities to pose for pictures. Adding finishing touches to the decor, Sam Kelly, Natasha Gustin and Molly Haberl sit and paint the Japan sign to be put with the display. Reacting to the announcement, Josh Ladd ('06) crowns Laurry Wailes ('07) as prom queen. Dane Titman, Trinity Thompson, and Brittany Putzier got caught up in the moment.

The seniors wanted to have "007" as their theme. However, the hard work and dedication that the juniors put into the decorations paid off. The seniors were glad that this was their theme. The juniors had a new advisor who was a big help. Mr. Ben Matthies stepped in to guide the class through the organized chaos. Veteran prom adviser, Mr. Verlin Potts assisted Mr. Mattheis so that he would know what to do in the future.

ENTERING the stage for the Grand March, prom-goers come through the specially decorated stage.

The much anticipated spring formal dance kept students busy with decorating, dress shopping and evening planning. The night provided entertainment for all who attended.

GETTING caught in an unusual dance move, Kevin Hansen ('09) and Justin Appawaller ('09) attempt a comical pose. With cameras going off everywhere, students ended up with some interesting pictures.

CELEBRATING their friendship on the dance floor, seniors danced with each other and made the most of the night.

TRAVELING through the variety of countries, decorations impressed as Jesse Fehr and Jamie Faust dance the night away. The first dance was over at midnight and the Kiwanis hosted a second party at DINECC.

FROM COURT Row 1: Chelsea Hartwig, Brandi Hester, Amanda Plymale, Brittany Putzier, and Queen Laurry Wailes. Row 2: King Alex Kirby, Tanner Sandrock, Josh Larson, Dane Titman, and Trinity Thompson.

"Although the juniors were up 'til all hours of the night finishing decorations, this year's prom was a success," junior Tasha Hurley said.

Nicole Hunter and Mrs. Sheila Madson, P.E.

Kyle Christians ('10) and Adam Foltz

Mollie Baldus and Greg Davis ('08)

individual

To each student, school represented a different thing in their lives. Some hated to come and could not wait until they graduated. Others found that coming to school each day was a major part of their social life.

"There were times that I came to school early so that I could spend time in the hall with my friends. My dad took my cell phone away so I didn't get to call anyone at night. That was tough," freshman Hannah Boyd said.

This was the first year that the high school had the building entirely to themselves. The freshmen truly were the low man on the totem pole. The seniors found that senioritis set in early and the last months seemed endless.

"I thought I would hate to leave, but once I knew it was near, I found it hard to study or do anything with school," senior Cory Behrendt said.

Each person provided a value to the place we called OURS. The individuals all came together to ONE.

Jason Lamoureux ('09)