

After Graduation, Then What?

As the inquiring reporter was strolling down the hall the other day, he encountered three seniors discussing their future plans. These are the facts he gleaned from those three and other "dignified seniors":

Bonnie Shell—"I want to take Jitney (her car) and go to California."

Doris Cordell—"I'm entering a telegraphy school."

Rosie Parks—"Bonnie can't go far on an 'A' card, so I'll go along and push."

Donna Holland—"I'd like to go to the University of Iowa."

Imogene Kruse—"I want to study journalism at Grinnell."

Frances Fowler—"Heave a sigh of relief and wonder how I ever made it!"

LeNora Zell—"Heave a sigh with Frances."

Louise McVicker—"I'd like to enter Drake to study music."

Betty Sill—"No more school! I want to get a good job with high wages!"

Mary Ellen Corrick and Frances Robinson—"We both have someone to wait for. That will keep us occupied for sometime."

Bob Whitaker—"I'll probably be in the infantry; but otherwise, I would take at least one year of Junior College."

Kenny McIlvain—"I want to be an engineer. That takes years of hard study."

Beatrice Olson—"I passed my Civil Service test; so I'm on my way to A.I.B. for ten weeks. Then I will be transferred to Ohio."

Pat Carlson—"If I do anything at all, I will enter Wheaton College."

Barbara Laub—"I'd like to be an aeronautical engineer." (Whew, quite an ambition.)

Norma Paulson—"I think I'll try my luck in an office—as a young man's private secretary."

Phyllis Main—"I'm not certain. I am going to be an airline stewardess, but my plans are indefinite yet."

Jo FitzGerald—"I haven't quite decided; college, I guess."

Ivan Buechler—"I'm just waiting. Woosh—and I'll be gone, air corp mechanic."

Irv Lanning—"The infantry will probably get me, although I'd love to study engineering."

Jack Harker—"I, also, am waiting for my notice to join the infantry."

Bill Modeland and Jim Mike-sell—"What do you do in the infantry? Just write to us; we'll tell you all about it."

Cliff Sellers—"Think I'll be a sailor." (You'll look cute, Cliff.)

Virginia Hagaman—"I'm going to get a job."

Jean Ellsworth—"I'm going to California."

Catherine Myers—"A year of Junior College first, I guess. It would be fun to go to Stevens College."

Charlotte Hall—"I'm not sure. I would like to find a job."

Back-Stage "Dramer"

Plays, particularly senior class plays, seem to produce a multitude of curious incidents back-stage. For a typical example, let's just make believe we're all members of the cast and go back-stage on the night of the senior class play of 1945.

Over here we can see our dashing leading man, Roger Oxenford, with his face hidden behind the book. He appears to be going completely mad, learning lines. And here it is just ten minutes before curtain time, too. Oh, well, there's one in every crowd.

Ah, but step aside, fellow "grad," or you may be thrown upon the floor and slashed. Gayle Thornton is carrying a sword, and after six weeks of practice, he is probably pretty quick on

Madame Zizbalm Reads the Tea Leaves

Enter the inner sanctum and beware of the future. This is old Madame Zizbalm looking into her cup of green tea leaves and forecasting the future of the class of 1945. For fifty-two years students have been coming for advice and comfort from me. Some think me crazy, some think me a mystic, and yet some live by my predictions. 'Tis time again for graduation, and I have been asked to submit my forecasts for the 1945 senior class.

What's this I see? Jim Mike-sell, Bill Modeland, and Bob Whitaker trying desperately to pass through the Rocky Mountains in a submarine, while Robert Knowles is flying overhead dropping instructions on lollipop sticks!

And, of course, the whimsical wit of George Sovereign will go on down through the ages. At present, I see him persistently trying to sell ultra-violet ray lamps to the natives of Ceylon (it's in India, I think). I guess, there are too many people selling the Brooklyn Bridge nowadays.

Far down in Olynthus, Macedonia, Birdell Kruck is continuing her research on just how many people do their share while going through revolving doors. Accompanying her are Naomi Folsom and Doris Rogers who are still trying to force their tame field mice to water.

But my heart goes out to those students who have acquired fame and fortune. For instance, Earl Thompson is in a fashionable barber shop in Derbyshire, England. He's giving instructions the draw.

Some poor character placed a banana peel in precisely the right spot. This is what we hear from the student director: "On your feet, Katie, it's time for your entrance."

We know practice makes perfect and all that, but, by George, there's a limit. Earl Thompson is trying his best to get a contract with M. G. M. He says it would be a fine job for this summer, but Miss Lamb is a little doubtful.

twice a week to noted Englishmen on how to grow, grease, and train mustaches.

Ah—but let us pause for a minute. I must rest. Can anyone spare a nicker for a fresh tea-bag? Bless you, LuVerne Babbitt!

To continue—I see in these fresh tea leaves some dancers. Yes, way down in Rio de Janeiro, the famed American dancers, known as the "Five Ferocious Fillies," are cementing the good-neighbor policy. They are Virginia Herron, Phyllis Main, Betty Morrissey, Jackye Reid and Betty Wiernsberger.

Imogene Kruse is in Boone, Iowa, winning renown as editor of "The Busy Beaver Journal." Her feature articles on "How to Eliminate Triangles" have increased the circulation.

With a few spare minutes of library time in which to write some nifty notes during her senior year, Donna Holland created a friendship which has proved to be "life-long." She is now drawing up a contract to consolidate with Warren Daasch.

Roger Oxenford, super salesman, pocketed ten dollars on graduation day by selling Danny Peterson a one-way elevator. And now, twelve years later, I see poor Danny still vainly trying to get the lever to work. Oh, well, I guess there's one in every class.

You all remember the day after graduation when "Moony" Thornton headed for the Ozarks. Well, it seems that his car stalled, and there he must have stayed; for now I see him and Frances Fowler happily pitched in Picking up one of the play books, we read that Imogene Kruse is to place a light kiss upon the lips of Roger; but evidently, she didn't follow directions, because Rog is in a daze and has completely forgotten everything.

Cokes and banana turnovers seem to be such an intriguing pastime for Irvin Lanning that his major problem is now trying to figure out how to drink, eat, and recite lines at the same time without choking and bea tent in the hills. Frances had gone down to do research on this "Kickapoo Joy Juice." I see her now still searching—not for the Joy Juice—but for five little "Moons" of whom she can never keep track.

Norma Jean Paulson is owner of the Boone-Ames bus line. It seems to have been a profitable investment because now she is making her trips free of charge. Charlotte Hall and Betty Sill have profited also. Cut-rate prices are always appreciated.

Lenore Zelle is in Peru. She has endowed a home for decrepit cats, and has sworn in Marilyn Downey and Ella Mae Kuhl as matrons. Across the avenue is Lenore Schroeder's broom factory. Her motto is, "We Make a Clean Sweep."

Warren Daasch was recently elected chief cook-and-bottle-washer at the "Eatet Quick Cafe." As a sideline, he makes tours and gives speeches on "How to Win and Woo Women."

Mary Lue Shafer collapsed at his latest address and had to be carried away for Irving Lanning. Don Maffett, Marvin Porter and Ed Shearer were arrested yesterday for selling halos made from tire rims. That's what I call getting to heaven the hard way.

Thus my prophecy for 1945 is ended. Time will tell how true my predictions will be. Please do not jest. I may be crazy. You may be crazy. Then again—we may both be crazy. Now I must close the dreary doors to the inner sanctum until 1946. That man in the white coat hasn't caught me yet.

coming flushed in the face.

That mass of yellow bobbing up and down across stage is an old friend of ours, too. If you would walk a step closer, you could see that it is Betty Wiernsberger diligently trying to learn how to curtsy without tripping over her long veils.

Marilyn Downey and Phyllis Main are calmly seated back-stage discussing the latest fads. They are utterly disgusted with those who failed to learn their cues beforehand.

Hi-Y Completes Outstanding Year

Hi-Y is an organization of junior and senior high boys with the purpose of promoting goodwill and fellowship. Under the advisership of Mr. Steintjes, Mr. J. I. Davis, and the Rev. J. S. Brown, the group sponsored "Religious Emphasis Week," an all-school party, hayrack ride, and sent two of its members to the state Hi-Y conference at Davenport. Officers of the club for the first semester were as follows: president, Don Maffett; vice-president, Warren Daasch; secretary, Jacques Welin; treasurer, George Sovereign; chaplain, Bob Cooper.

In keeping with Hallowe'en, the Hi-Y gave a hayrack ride October 28, with about forty couples arriving at the Y camp on the hayracks. Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by all in the main lodge, which was decorated in the traditional Hallowe'en colors and figures.

One of the highlights of this semester was the Thanksgiving all-school party which was sponsored by the Hi-Y. Featured at this dance was the Ames High school swing band which was received enthusiastically by over 230 students attending.

Jacques Welin and Don Maffett were the Boone Hi-Y representatives to the Davenport conference. Here the boys studied about personality, compulsory military training, and the Hi-Y organization.

Throughout the semester various people gave interesting and educational talks to the group, including the Rev. J. S. Brown, who spoke about his experiences with the organization, and what a person can achieve from it; Mr. Flower, who told of the activities of other groups and how the Boone Hi-Y could be improved; and short inspirational speeches by both Mr. Davis and Mr. Steintjes.

Officers for the second semester were as follows: president, Jacques Welin; vice-president, Carl Condon; secretary, Val Gene Tingwald; treasurer, Ray Fuller; and chaplain, Bob Cooper.

One of the first events of the second semester was the group meeting that the Hi-Y had with the Hi-Tri on February 14, 1945, at the Methodist Church. Mr. Cunningham from Ames was the guest speaker.

The social events for the second semester included a Mother's Day banquet, a private Hi-Y dance, and the sponsoring of the Hobo Day dance.

Hi-Tri Sponsors Parties and Programs

The Y.W.C.A. organization of senior high girls, more commonly known as Hi-Tri, has completed a year of very successful work, including the sponsoring of a Sadie Hawkin's Day party, a Christmas program at the Eastern Star Home, and a number of other activities. Officers for the first semester were elected at the first meeting with an impressive candle-light installation ceremony taking place at the following meeting. The officers installed were as follows: President, Phyllis Wheeler; vice-president, Betty Morrissey; secretary-treasurer, Imogene Kruse; program chairman, Virginia Heron.

November 3, the Hi-Tri sponsored its Sadie Hawkin's-L'il Abner frolic with all members dressing in the traditional patched skirts, plow shoes, and torn overalls. The fellows were honored that night by the girls going after them and bringing vegetable corsages. Naturally, everyone had a good time.

Just before Christmas the girls went to the Eastern Star Home and presented a short program, including choral reading, the singing of Christmas carols, and the distributing of felt pin cushions to the ladies.

During this semester Hi-Tri heard some interesting speeches on a variety of subjects: Mr. A. B. Grimes on "The Dues of Life"; Miss Kathryn Knoche, the county nurse, on "Nursing as a Vocation"; Miss Helen Stevens on "Good Books for Reading."

Officers for the second semester were as follows: President, Betty Morrissey; vice-president, Charlene Jennings; secretary, Jackye Reid; program chairman, Betty Wiernsberger.

One of the first events of this semester was the sponsoring of a covered dish dinner at the Y.W.C.A. A large number attended with each member bringing a covered dish and table service.

April 13, 1945, the Hi-Tri sponsored an all-school party in the high school gym. Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by all who attended. Concluding the semester, the girls held a picnic for the entire group.

A variety of subjects was presented to the Hi-Tri during the semester by several speakers. Mrs. L. R. Johnson gave an interesting review of Ernie Pyle's latest book, "Brave Men," and also presented short summaries on the work of different famous

Hi-Tri Senior High Party

"It takes the Hi-Tri to put on a successful party—without an orchestra." Even if a Hi-Tri member said this, many will have to agree.

The date, April 13, may have been unlucky for most people, but for members of senior high it was a lucky day indeed.

It all began at 7:30 when the doors opened, and you entered by walking under a gaily decorated ladder. The gym, with its festoons of bright colored streamers, presented a cheerful and spring-like scene.

Dancing was the program until 9:00 o'clock, when Earl Thompson took over his job as M. P., introducing Betty McEntaffer who did a fast tap. Louise McVicker, our own songbird, sang "Sentimental Journey" and "More and More."

The "Black and White" was the name of the next dance, which Betty McEntaffer and Sharon Jones did with all the skill of professionals.

A pleasant surprise took place at this point on the program. John Monro, Harry Echternach, Paul Downey and Don Carter, with their saxophones and accompanied by Isabel Canakes at the piano, played some real swing in a foot-tapping tempo.

When Betty McEntaffer and Sharon Jones sang "I'd Like to See Some Mo' of Samoa" and did the traditional hula, the program ended, and dancing was the entertainment for the rest of the evening. Ruth Strand and Bob Reed were the lucky winners of the door prizes.

At the close of the evening a substantial and satisfying lunch was served.

foreign correspondents. The Rev. A. M. Clarke spoke on the topic, "I Dare You"; Mrs. Honohan on "Racial Relationship"; and Mrs. Lamb on her Pan-American experiences.

Speech Class Play

As in previous years, Miss Lamb's public speaking class was required to write a play. The class decided to cast Betty Wiernsberger's play, "Candy." Betty Morrissey was chosen for the leading role, Candice Bradley.

In order of their appearance the characters were: Suzanne Bradley, age sixteen, Mildred Lyon; Candy, age fourteen, Betty Morrissey; Cornelia Bradley, age eighteen, Virginia Herron; Mr. Bradley, John Engler; Jan Vonsan, a college man, Maurice Christofferson.

Betty Wiernsberger, the author, directed the play. The production was managed by the speech class.

Outstanding Work In the Arts

Mr. Foster's art classes have shown their ability by the various posters displayed in the school and down town. Other activities of the art classes are the murals on the walls of both the art room and the third floor corridor. Those were painted by Marvin Porter, Naoma Folsom, Ruth Buechler, Donna Schroeder, Marjorie Eddy, Delores Woodworth, and Helen Riggs.

In the junior-senior high school industrial arts classes many projects in woodwork and metal have been completed. The projects were on exhibition down town on May 24, 25, and 26. Over sixty projects in woodwork and about twenty in metal work were exhibited. Those in woodwork were more ambitious this year than in the past. Among the outstanding pieces of furniture were: a bed made by James Mikesell, a Duncan Phyfe table by Bill Ferguson, and chests of drawers by Darrell Tingwald and Phillip King.

All-School Party Sponsored by Hi-Y

One of the big events of the first semester was an all-school party, sponsored by the Hi-Y, and held Wednesday, November 22 in the gym.

Music for the dancing was furnished by the Ames High school swing band. For those who didn't dance, there were ping pong, checkers, and box hockey.

Don Carter entertained with impersonations, piano selections, and novelty acts during intermission when refreshments were served.

The gym was decorated with a Thanksgiving motif. There was a larger attendance than there has been at a school party for several years.

"Every time I kiss you it makes me a better man."

"Well, you don't have to try to get to heaven in one evening."

Hi-Y and Hi-Tri Joint Meeting

Wednesday, February 14, a joint meeting of the Hi-Y and Hi-Tri organizations was held at the Methodist church. After the Hi-Y president, Jacques Welin, called the meeting to order, the devotional period was led by Lee Cooper. Then Bob Barstad presented the guest speaker, Mr. Cunningham of Ames, who told of incidents that happened both at Iowa State college and at the University of Minnesota, where he had spent seven years. He has been associated with the Y.M.C.A. for twenty-five years and knows many men and boys in service.

Deserve Credit

Much credit is due Miss Thornburgh and Mr. Stientjes, advisers of Hi-Tri and Hi-Y, who through their advice and guidance contributed much to the success of these organizations in the year just past.

Outstanding Senior Athletes

GEORGE SOVEREIGN is a three letter winner, earning major awards in track, football, and basketball last year. In football he has excelled as a lineman, playing extraordinary ball. Only two lettermen returned to the football team this year, and George was one of them. In track he ran the mile, half-mile, and sprint relay. He also worked with the shot and distance. George was an outstanding boy in the basketball conference. His footwork and floor play have been commented on by almost every coach and sportswriter in the conference. He has also been a strong rebounder. All in all, George has been a star athlete throughout his three years in senior high school.

ROGER OXENFORD has been a prominent football center. Although this has been his first year on the varsity team, he has the distinction of being rated by his coach, and many others who saw him play, as the best center in the conference. He has been dependable and aggressive at all times. A hard-blocker on offense and a vicious tackler on defense, Roger has been a great football player. His hard play and conscientious effort along with his excellent sportsmanship make him one of our outstanding senior athletes.

RAY FULLER has earned letters in football, swimming, and track. He has served two years in junior high football and three years in senior high football and is now receiving an honorary football award. Although he is very small, weighing only about 125 pounds, he has been a hard worker and an aggressive player. Ray has also been a member of the swim team, winning a major award in his junior year. This year he has done the 220-yard free style and was a member of the sprint relay team at the February state swim meet. He has been a letter winner in track, running the mile and the half-mile. He was also on the two-mile relay team which placed second in the district track meet at Fort Dodge last year. Ray is an example of a small boy who hasn't let size interfere with his being an important athlete during his high school days.

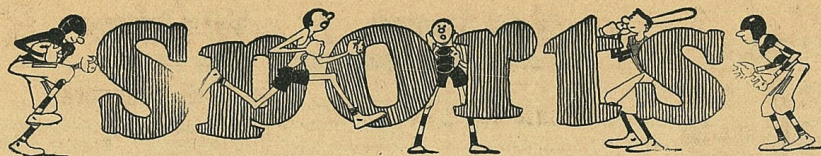

RICHARD N. SCHROEDER, another of our well-known athletes, is better known to everyone as "Sonny." This boy is five feet ten inches tall, weighs one hundred fifty pounds, and has blue eyes and blonde hair. Sonny came to Boone High from the Trinity Lutheran grade school, where they say he was a pretty fair student. He is a junior and so far has won three letters. He says basketball is his favorite sport, and we can well believe that. A collarbone injured several times was the cause of his bad luck during football season and the beginning of the basketball season. As soon as he had recovered he was back on the floor for more. This typifies that "go getting" spirit and personality of his. In the evenings you can usually find "Son" at the Recreation Center. When the inquiring reporter asked him what he intended to be after graduation, he calmly replied, "A husband, of course." Oh, well, there is nothing like preparing for the future.

Question: What is the highest public building in Boone?

Answer: The Ericson Library. It has the most stories.

Question: What American has had the largest family?

Answer: Washington, the father of his country.

Football Competition Proves Tough!

Starting out the football season this year with thirty-six senior high boys, two of them major award winners from last year, Coach Fisher's Toreadors placed fourth in the Central Iowa Conference. The schedule was arranged to include four home games and four games away. The box score for them follows:

Games Here

Sept. 15—Boone 6, Oskaloosa 0.
Sept. 22—Boone 7, Ft. Dodge 33.
Sept. 29—Boone 29, Perry 6.
Oct. 6—Boone 0, Marshall't'n 21.

Baseball Team Really "In the Groove"

Coach Gluekin's Toreador baseball nine is really "in the groove" this season. At the time this went to press they had won three of the four games played, with several more scheduled for later in the season. The names of the boys on the squad follow, with the dates and scores of the games played.

The Squad

The Season

April 10—Boone 10, Madrid 1.
April 12—Boone 13, Pilot Md. 0.
April 17—Boone 0, Luther 4.
April 26—Boone 10, Madrid 6.

Dates of future games are undecided at this time.

Toreador Track Team

The Toreador track team participated in several meets this spring including the Valley and the Drake Relays. In the Valley Relays the "thinclads" took third place while in the Drake Relays they failed to place in the semifinals. In a tri-city meet with Ames and Webster City, Boone placed third with firsts in the junior high 100-yard dash, the 440-yard relay and 880-yard relay; seconds in the football throw, 2-mile relay, 880-yard relay, medley relay, and mile relay. Two meets were still to be held at the time the Scroll went to press. Coaches for the team were Gale W. Fisher and Mr. Edgar Lancaster.

Games Away

Oct. 13—Boone 15, Grinnell 24.
Oct. 20—Boone 7, Jefferson 6.
Oct. 27—Boone 0, Newton 0.
Nov. 3—Boone 0, Ames 38.

The boys who made the squad were:

The above names starred (*) are the major award winners of the 1944 season. Those preceded by the (†) are minor award winners. Ray Fuller received a three-year honorary award.

Senior High Awards Assembly April 4th

At a Senior High assembly Wednesday afternoon, April 4, letter awards were made to the Pep Club, cheer leaders, and the football squad.

Twenty-one Pep Club members received major awards, while 21 more won minor letters. Eighteen boys won their major awards for football last fall, while 10 more received minor letters.

The list of winners is as follows:

Football, major: Jack Bass, Dominic Belmont, James Bridges, Junior Buckingham, Willis Currell, Warren Daasch, James Emerson, Ray Fuller, Donald Maffett, Max Moore, Roger Orr, Roger Oxenford, Robert Patten, Robert Reed, George Sovereign, James Sturtz, Jacques Welin, and Ray Young.

Football, minor: Gene Brown, Ray Buechler, Thomas Grimes, Dale Hicks, James Johnstone, Jay Mallas, John Miles, Harold Sinn, Robert Van de Woestine, and Wayne Van Ness.

A Form of Perfection

There is a form of perfection. In the athlete's leap and dart, Where muscles and mind of a thoroughbred kind Keep pace with a fighting heart. It's found in these moves of precision,

The timing that champions show, The strength and nerve, the desire to serve,

The power to do—and to know. —From "Cavalcade of Sports"

Swimming Class Takes Tests

Coach Fisher's swimming classes have been working hard this semester and have a lot to show for their work. In the eighth grade class every boy has passed at least his beginner's tests. The classes are divided into groups according to each boy's swimming ability. Tests are given in each before the swimmer is advanced to the next group. These tests are beginner, intermediate, swimmer's test, advanced swimmer's test, junior life saving for boys under 17 and senior life saving for those over 17. The following boys have passed their junior life saving tests while several others are ready but have not yet taken the test:

David Clark, Bill Haleen, Don Kemmerer, Jack Mickle, Marvin McKicker, Clarence Schwein, Arnold Tuttle and Kenneth Vesey.

Dean Hull has passed his senior life saving test and a few others are ready to take it.

Jean Stark, Joanne Sturtz, Louise Thompson, and Phyllis Wheeler.

Cheer leaders, major: Veloise Ahrens, Joan Blosser, Arlene Toeffer. Minor: Bob Barstad, Lila Lee Buechler, and Gene Fahlbusch.

Toreador Basketball Team at Disadvantage Due to Injuries

Although the Toreadors were at a disadvantage due to several injuries, they managed to win five out of the nineteen games played. We should be proud of the fact that our team beat Ames—the new State Basketball Champions. The season, which began December 1 and ended March 2, follows:
