

WILL

We, the 1964 sophomores of Boone Jr. College Delta Tau, being of sound mind and memory, realizing the uncertainties of life, and wishing to enrich the existence of the sophomores of 1965 from our valuable and excessive store of possessions, talents and charms; do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

Item I: We give, and bequeth to the freshman class collectively Franklin Hall, Alley Drive, the surrounding campus, and the faculty thereof to tend carefully ensuing c lasses and activities.

Item II: To individual freshman hereafter named we separately leave individual charges as follows:

Bill Shedd wills his ability to pose for pictures to Gary Capps who is always catching poses of others.

Neta Carris wills her red hair to Jane Blee who seems to be searching for the right color.

Joyce Davidson who really thinks young wills her 'pepsi' to Jan Eshouse.

Judy Peters is the optimistic beneficiary of Jo Ann Thedes' pessimistic view of life.

Leon Anderson wills his parking ticket to Sherry Sheffield.

Kay Ingalls gives her life-long 'hitch' to Judy Jackson who lags not too far behind.

Since Silence is Golden, Joyce Davidson leaves millions to Mary Keeney.

Amy Patrick wills her snack bar position to Dixie Ellsberry who graciously accepts.

In a tizzy Kathy Allie nervously offers her organized confusion to 'Mom' Carolyn Anderson.

Carolyn Reynaldson yields the sweet blush of youth to Alice Boon.

Leon Anderson, who is really bashful but the girls won't leave him alone, wills his Smoky the Bear Jr. Ranger Badge No. 8181 to Gary Capps.

Sue Shuler is the proud recipient of Verna Carris's good conduct medal

Ken Powlishta, who knows it all, but just can't think of it leaves his beloved books and library chair to an unappreciative Mona Tam.

The sophomores of Delta Tau collectively leave -----darn it!

PROPHECY

The "Cub" for 1989 has asked us to locate the 1964 Delta Tau graduates of Boone Jr. College. In our modern age it is very easy for a class to scatter. For this reason we will travel by jet to visit each of our friends.

Before getting on the jet we make a short stop at Kay Ingalls who lives in a Des Moines suburb. Kay had hopes of becoming a teacher, but her education has been interrupted by 5 little Ingalls. Now she spends time teaching them.

On our lay over in Chicago we took the el to the University. Being the Dean of the Psychology Department, Leon is kept very busy. However, we did note that he still possesses his gift of gab.

In New York's Greenwich Village we find Amy Patrick teaching a very elite dancing school. Amy takes time to visit with us and introduces us to her star pupils. We are so pleased to meet little Rocki Rockefeller III.

While still in N.Y. we will stop at the U.N. and make an appointment to see Joyce Davidson. Joyce claims that she has a very interesting position here, teaching various languages to the many dignitaries she meets.

Teaching has separated Neta and Verna Carris by hundreds of miles. To see Verna Carris we must get in the ski lift and go up to the town on the hill. One of the largest recreational ski centers is in Mars Hill, Maine. Although we accuse Verna of spending all her time skiing, she is an active elementary teacher.

After freezing in Maine we will travel to Florida to thaw out. Here we must obtain a special pass in order to visit the base at Cape Kennedy. Kathy Allie teaches here while her husband is one of the many engineers.

On account of this being Sunday and also due to our early arrival in Birmingham, Alabama we have the pleasure of attending the church service officiated by Ken Powlishta. Ken has promoted integration.

It is certain that we must find one of the '64 graduates on the old Sante Fe Trail. Sure enough here is the other Carris girl. Neta is very happy in Mexico teaching elementary students in the Sante Fe Children's Home.

We all know that Carolyn Reynaldson loves oranges. So the logical place to find her is near an orange grove in Hollywood. She says being a private tutor for the children of the celebrities proves to be quite fascinating.

We would like to stay longer in Sunny Calif. but we must travel on. Who ever thought that we would find Bill in Las Vegas, Nevada? Bill Shedd teaches in one of the Jr. Highs, but in his spare time he....No Bill says he hasn't gotten there yet.

It was nice visiting in Las Vegas, but before we are all broke we better leave! We all travel on to Cheyenne, Wyoming for our last stop. Figuring that we would find Jo Ann Thede busy with a high school math class, our calculations were right. Before she would let us leave she insists we go to the rodeo.

This rodeo has exhausted us, we are anxious for our restful ride home. We have enjoyed our adventure of 25 years into the future, once again meeting old friends. But now back to reality it is May 11, 1964 and we freshmen wish you sophomores the best of luck in the future.
